BURNS FAILS TO PROVE ACCUSATION

FLOOD RELIEF CHIEF ISSUE FOR CONGRESS

Devastation in New England Helps Solidify Sentiment Throughout U. S.

MANY PLANS ARE OFFERED

Hoover Program, First Thought Too Ambitious, Now Gaining Favor

BULLETIN

Washington—(AP)—President Coolidge feels that the peculiar situation in Vermont which caused the recent floods makes it virtually impossible to provide suitable measures there for flood control.

Washington—Control of the turbulent rivers of the nation by means of a national plan will be the paramount issue before congress. The sudden devastation of New England, the memory of the Mississippi catastrophe and the apprehension of the people of Imperial valley, California, have combined to bring many powerful elements of public opinion behind the drive to handle the internal waterways of the country.

Congress will have many plans presented to it, including one from the Army engineers. Secretary Hoover, who is an engineer himself has drawn one of the most far-reaching plans the capital here has seen. When he first presented it informally the impression developed that it was too ambitious but the floods in New England have emphasized that unless the entire national waterway problem is studied and a greater effort made to control floods the economic loss to the country will be stupendous. The loss of homes is not the only factor in the material toll of the flood but the dislocation of the whole economic structure of a section causes indirect loss to other parts of the country.

MAY MEET OBSTACLE

The sentiment in favor of scientific control of floods is unanimous but opposition will develop if it is attempted to link flood control with water-power development. Some of the advocates of governmental ownership have insisted that the water power generated at Boulder dam could be profitably used by the federal government. The utility companies feel that this is an encroachment on the field of private initiative. They have always contended that they favored flood control, but saw no need of linking it up with the sale of water power.

There is a view, however, shared in to some extent by President Coolidge, that if large dams are erected the government should in some way use the water-power as a valuable by-product that may help to pay the cost of the dams. In theory this view is opposed by some of the utility groups as a step in the process of federal regulation if not government ownership. The Hoover-Coolidge viewpoint on flood control, therefore, which probably will be presented in the president's message to congress will have to give definite assurance that the government is not going to enter the water power business if the flood program is to have clear sailing without opposition. The administration is inclined toward a policy of leasing the water-power to private companies somewhat as has been proposed at Muscle Shoals. The prospects are that the whole flood problem with its implications will overshadow everything else, even tax revision in the next congress for the contest on rates probably will be well out of the way by January.

RUMOR DICTATORSHIP PLAN FOR RUMANIA

Bucharest—(AP)—The independent newspaper Adeveru says Tuesday afternoon it understands Premier Bratiana is preparing to establish an absolute dictatorship throughout Rumania, patterned after that of General Primo de Rivera in Spain.

Secret information received by the government, in regard to a Carolist plot to recover the throne he renounced, Tuesday caused the departure of Colonel Carapancea, chief commissar of the Second army corps, for Jassy, the Capital of Moldavia. In government circles it was said that further ramifications of the affair in which M. Manoilescu was arrested have been disclosed.

Latest reports here are that Octavian Goga, former minister of the interior in the Averescu cabinet, has been implicated in the efforts to restore Carol to the throne by the confession of a Madame Greceanu of Arad, who is alleged to have received communications from Paris for Goga.

REPORT RECAPTURE OF ESCAPED PRISONERS

Iron Mountain, Mich.—(AP)—Reports from Sagola that the three men who escaped from Marquette prison last Tuesday, were captured, were unconfirmed at noon Tuesday. Reports early Tuesday morning from Sagola stated the Iron Muontain detachment of the state police had effected the capture of the fugitive trio.

FRAT HOUSE RAID BRINGS PROBE BY COLLEGE OFFICERS

Ames, Ia.—(AP)—Revelation by state and county officers that a raid on the Sigma Chi fraternity house at Iowa State college Monday afternoon had resulted in confiscation of a still from the basement and a number of bottles of liquor from rooms of residents brought a promise for a thorough investigation from college officials.

Between 35 and 40 students reside in the raided house. It was not revealed in whose rooms the liquor was found nor how many men were likely to be involved. No charges have been filed.

After a conference Monday night with Sheriff R. A. Nebergall of Nevada, who headed the raiding party, G. B. MacDonald, head of the governing board of the college, declared "We will thoroughly investigate the matter."

WAR CLOUDS GATHER AT COLORADO MINES

Special Officers Guard Jailed Strike Leaders in Fear of Mob Action

Denver, Colo.—(AP)—A war time atmosphere prevailed in sections of the southern Colorado coal fields Tuesday after a night of suspense during which special police guarded jails where strike leaders were confined while signal flares and fires marked camps of strikers.

With the arrest of nearly a score of strike leaders Monday, including several officials of the I. W. W., picketing ceased and many miners returned to work. However, strikers immediately started demonstartions protesting the arrests, causing authorities to muster scores of special officers. Strikers arrested included Roger Francezon, chairman of the national executive committee of the I. W. W., and Kristen Svanum, in charge of all I. W. W. activities in coal and metal mines. Authorities declared that they had arrested all the leading I. W. W. organizers in the Walsenburg field.

CAL FAVORS REPEAL OF U. S. INHERITANCE TAX

Washington—(AP)—President Coolidge favors repeal of the federal inheritance tax, it was said Tuesday at the White House. The president's position was made clear even while a heated controversy over the inheritance tax was going on before the house ways means committee, where lobbying accusations have flown "thick and fast."

The charge that advocates of the repeal of the federal inheritance tax had "packed" the ways and means committee room was made Tuesday by Chairman Green, during testimony of witnesses on tax revision.

CATTLE EXPERT CARES FOR REFORMATORY HERD

Green Bay—(AP)—Appointment of Bob Willan, Wisconsin Rapids authority on cattle, to take charge of the Wisconsin State Reformatory herd was announced Tuesday by Superintendent Earl H. Eklund. Mr. Willan has a national reputation as an authority on cattle.

VOICE FROM SKIES SPEAKS AT MADISON

Pilot Describes Flight to Technical Club Holding Meeting in Church

Madison—(AP)—A voice from the air spoke to 200 members ofthe Madison Technical club, dining in the Presbyterian church here Tuesday night.

In the warm dining room the switch of an instrument was turned followed by a metallic clicking sound as of some one dragging a phonograph needle across a revolving record a voice said:

"We are flying over the Wisconsin state capitol. We are now flying around the square to the right. We are putting on a demonstration for the Madison Technical club at its meeting."

The voice from the air was that of Phil D. Zurian, in the cockpit of a plane speaking into the transmitter of a new midget airplane radio developed here.

Fred Schnell, who was operating the ground set in the dining room, asked members if they would like to ask Zurian any questions.

"How high is he?" asked several.

Mr. Schnell picked up what looked like an ordinary telephone and said, "Hello Phil. They want to know how high you are."

"I am sorry, but I can't tell you exactly how high we are. Judging from the appearance of the capitol we are flying in the neighborhood of one thousand feet. We are now six blocks east of the capitol," said the voice.

VARE MACHINE AT STAKE IN TODAY'S VOTE

Kentucky Candidate Fears Racing Lobby Will Control State Government

(By the Associated Press)

J. Hampton Moore's endeavor to defeat the Vare policy machine at Philadelphia and a lively contest over the proposed removal of pari-mutuel machines from the race tracks of Kentucky furnished the particular points of interest in elections Tuesday.

For the most part, only local issues, with but a minimum effect upon national political affairs, lay before the people. These included the election of two governors, three members of the lower chamber of congress, numerous municipal and state officials and decisions by referendum on enactments of state legislature.

The most important of the last perhaps was in New York where the voters were called upon to determine the fate of a proposal that the term of the governor be extended from two years to four, with Governor Smith leading the opposition. The Philadelphia mayoralty campaign has been bitterly fought. Losing at the Republican primaries to Harry A. MacKey Moore, a former mayor, continued in the fight as an independent candidate. MacKey has the backing of the Vare organization.

IN FEAR OF LOBBY

The Kentucky betting machine contest involved one of the two gubernatorial elections. Governor J. C. W. Becham, who has served two terms was the Democratic nominee. Although not opposed to racing, he has contended that a racing lobby is seeking to control the state government and has pledged himself to remove it. His republican opponent, Flem D. Sampson, has asserted that the pari-mutuel law involved no issue.

In Mississippi, the outcome was not considered in doubt. Theodore G. Bilbo was the Democratic nominee, and nomination is generally considered equivalent of election.

The congressional elections were for the purpose of filling vacancies caused by the death of representative Magee of the Thirty-fourth New York district and Stephens of the Second in Ohio, and the resignation of Representative Hazlett of the second in Pennsylvania. All were Republicans. James M. Beck had the support of the Vare machine for the Pennsylvania post.

Selection of mayors lay before the voters of San Francisco, Detroit, numerous in New York, several in Utah and all the cities of Ohio and Virgina.

$500,000 DAMAGE IS DONE IN INDIANA BOMB EXPLOSION

Hammond, Ind.—(AP)—A series of mysterious explosions, which the police attributed to black powder bombs, wrecked the State theatre here at 3 o'clock Tuesday morning, damaged All Saints church across the street, blew down trolley and telephone poles, broke plate glass windows for blocks around, causing estimated damage of $500,000.

The theatre is in the rear of the three-story brick State block which cost $1,500,000. The blast blew out the theatre walls on State-st, demolished the roof, balcony and stage.

The bombs apparently had been placed in the Sibley-st entrance to the theatre where steel doors were blown in. The first blast was followed by two more. As the theatre walls crumbled, trolley and telephone poles tumbled into the street in front of the block and windows and part of the roof of All Saints Catholic church across the street crashed down.

Fire followed the explosions, but was quickly extinguished. Owners of the theatre could assign no reason for the bombing. The State theatre seated 2,500 persons and was one of the largest and most handsome in the state.

GIRL'S PICTURE TO TO BE LONE FLIER'S MASCOT OVER OCEAN

San Francisco—(AP)—If there is anything in charms and mascots, Captain Frederick Giles, Australian aviator, who plans to hop alone from San Francisco Friday for Wellington, New Zealand, by way of Honolulu, figures he will have the best of fortune.

Into the cockpit of the biplane is pasted a picture of Miss Wanda Hess, sister of the Wyandotte, Mich., man who constructed the ship. It was in honor of Miss Hess that Giles named the plane.

When asked if Miss Hess was his fiancee Giles blushed, laughed and walked away from the interviewers. Captain Giles said the 12,000 mile flight was purely a sporting proposition, backed by W. H. Rosenwarne, A New Zealand construction engineer living in Detroit. He will fly alone.

REVERSE DECISION ON SHEBOYGAN TAX

If Part of Highway Tax Is Illegal, All Must Be, Supreme Court Rules

Madison—(AP)—The supreme court Tuesday reversed the decision of Judge Michael Kirwan of the Sheboygan-co. circuit court in the matter of a $407,100 highway appropriation.

Judge Kirwan held that $280,216 of the appropriation was legally made and that portion of the tax was therefore legal. The supreme court, however, held with L. E. Larson, plaintiff and Sheboygan-co. taxpayer, that if a portion of the tax was illegal, the whole tax must be re-levied. The high bench said that "the tax having been paid, the taxpayers who questioned its validity must resort to legal remedies to recover, in which they will have full opportunity to question the validity.

"The question presented is not whether the court may review actions of county boards of review after they have adjourned, but whether the court ought to issue this discretionary writ to set aside a tax where the tax has been collected, and the whole matter passed beyond the power of the county board.

"Apparently the trial courts saw the futility of judgement which simply declared the tax illegal. In the attempt to give force and effect to its judgment by providing that the county treasurer should refund to individual taxpayers making claims for that part of the tax paid by them which the court found illegal the court went clearly beyond the power possessed by it in certiorari. . . ."

MAY REDUCE FREIGHT ON CHEESE SHIPMENTS

Washington—(AP)—Railroad rate reductions for western cheese producers came into prospect Tuesday as a result of two preliminary reports to the Interstate commerce commission by examiners who investigated complaints. The commission was advised in one report that the Wisconsin Department of Markets had justified its demand for a lower basis of cheese rates out of that state, while the second advised a lower rate to California from midwestern points.

Wisconsin cheese now is shipped as third class freight when in carload lots but the commission was recommended to require railroads to make cheese a fourth class commodity which would result in a lower rate. At the same time the railroads were held justified in continuing their present practice of rating less than carload lots of Wisconsin cheese as second class.

In the second report the commission was advised to fix a rate on Idaho cheese to California of $1.52 per hundred pounds, as against existing charges which run up to $1.66. To California from the Illinois-Wisconsin territory the report advised a rate of $2.85 instead of $3. The commission must pass upon the proposals before they become effective.

Millicent Rogers Now Bride Of Rich Argentine

New York—(AP)—Millicent Rogers one of America's richest heiresses, was embarked Tuesday upon a second marriage venture with Arturo Peralta Ramos, wealthy Argentine.

The pretty brunette daughter of Col. Henry Huddlestone Rogers, standard Oil magnate was divorced last April from Count Ludwig Salm Von Hoogstraeten. Monday afternoon she was married to Ramos in the parish house of the Roman Catholic church of the Sacred Hearts of Jesus and Mary at Southampton, Long Island. Only the bride's father an attorney and a few intimate friends were present. Ramos, a Catholic obtained a dispensation.

Colonel Rogers never received his daughter's first husband with whom she eloped, but he approves of his new son-in-law. Ever since the former countess and Ramos announced their engagement last August and tentatively fixed October for their wedding month, there had been much speculation as to the actual date. A fashionable ceremony had been expected Wednesday but the serious illness of the bride's maternal grandfather, George H. Benjamin, caused a change in plans.

Mr. and Mrs. Ramos, who came from Southampton to this city immediately after the ceremony, will depart Thursday on the liner Santa Eliza for Buenos Aires. Eventually they will return and Ramos will be connected with a New York firm of stock brokers.

The New York American says that Colonel Rogers settled a trust fund of $500,000 upon his daughter and new son-in-law with the provision that Ramos lay no future claim to the Rogers fortune, estimated at $40,000,000, nor ever attempt to gain control of the principal of the fund. No members of the family was willing to discuss this reported settlement.

WIFE SLAIN, MATE SLUGGED NEAR WAUKESHA

ATTACKED ON ROAD WHILE GOING HOME

Murder of Mt. Horeb Woman Believed Connected With Graef Mystery

Milwaukee—(AP)—Kidnapped Monday night after her husband had been slugged and thrown into a ditch, Mrs. Emma Greenwald of Mt. Horeb, was found slain near Dousman early Tuesday. She had been strangled. The couple was attacked late Monday night. The husband was thrown from their automobile and is in a Waukesha hospital.

The attack on the couple took place three miles east of Waukesha Monday night on highway 18 as they were returning home to Mt. Horeb after a visit to Milwaukee. They were halted by a large car occupied by three men.

The husband, Alvin Greenwald, was struck over the head and knocked unconscious and left lying in a marsh. When he recovered several hours later he staggered to the roadhouse of Frank Tacl and was taken to the Waukesha hospital. He did not know where his wife was and her whereabouts was unknown until the body was found early Tuesday four miles from Dousman.

ROBBED OF $350

Greenwald was robbed of $350 and his wife was robbed of two diamond rings. The man recalls that two men saw his roll in a Milwaukee saloon about 10 o'clock in the evening but he does not believe they were the men who later stopped him on the road.

Dr. Edward Miloslavich, Marquette pathologist, got to Waukesha at noon and went from there to Dousman to view the spot where the body was found. He said he would start the post-mortem examination, about 2 o'clock. A Ford touring car with an Illinois license was fund Tuesday morning abandoned and out of gas on the road a few rods from the place where the Greenwalds were stopped. Waukesha police are checking up the license through the office of the secretary of state at Springfield.

The only marks on the body were bruises on the throat showing Mrs. Greenwald had been throttled. The body was lying just off highway 67, a quarter of a mile north of highway 18.

DESCRIBES ATTACK

Lying in the hospital and with his wife's fate unknown to him Greenwald told of the attack.

"We had been in Milwaukee on business and after attending the theatre started for him about 10 o'clock. A large car drove up on highway 18 and we stopped. One of the men asked 'what's the big idea going so fast?'

"I admitted that I was traveling fast. One of the men drew a gun. I remember my wife, who was in the car, screamed. I was hit on the side of the head The next thing I remember was awakening in the field at the side of the road."

The body of his wife was found near Dousman on the same highway early Monday. It was lying at the side of the road and was discovered by a milkman.

With its finding, Sheriff Redford and Milwaukee police combined their hunt for the men. Defectives who have been working on the Graef case were assigned to the hunt for the three men, agreeing with Sheriff Redford that the clew promises to clear up both murders.

Sheriff Redford expressed belief that she was the victim of a moron gang of degenerates. He expressed the theory that they probably were responsible also for the murder of Lillian Graef, 19-year-old Milwaukee girl, whose disappearance from home Oct. 11 when she went on a "blind date" was solved Saturday when her body was taken from the Fox river near Waukesha, three miles from where the Greenwalds were attacked. She had been beaten and strangled but not attacked.

WAS THIRD ATTACK

Madison—(AP)—The attack upon Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Greenwald, Monday night, when she was killed and her husband left for dead on highway near Milwaukee, is the third attack made on them in the last three years.

On the night of June 7, while driving along the Pine Bluff-Mt. Horeb road, the couple was attacked by someone who hurled a heavy bottle through a window of their sedan. The bottle struck Mrs. Greenwald, and she was knocked unconscious, and was delirious for several days. H. F. Greenwald, father of Alvin Greenwald, lives in Madison.

NEW SHEBOYGAN RADIO STATION IS OPENED

Sheboygan—(AP)—Radio broadcasting station, WHBM, operated by the Sheboygan Press, was dedicated Monday evening with a talk by C. E. Broughton, editor of the Press, and a program of orchestra numbers. The station is located in the Press building. Many telegrams were received during the evening from radio fans in distant communities. Programs will be broadcast from WHBM each noon and evening on a wave length of 204.

Vermont Flood District Refugees Facing Famine

Boston—(AP)—New stories of distress came from northern Vermont Tuesday, with many additions to the ever-growing list of fatalities from last week's flood which has claimed more than 140 victims.

From Newport, Vt. near the Canadian line, came the tale of suffering when a party of four men tramped miles over torn roads and swaying bridges to tell of a town that was face to face with starvation. They brought the intelligence that at least three men had perished in the sudden rise of the Black river.

New Hampshire, taking calmer stock of its losses, found them not as great as first had been thought.

Connecticut which had been apprehensive that the vast volume of water rolling down the Connecticut river might do heavy damage, rejoiced as the waters receded. At Springfield, Mass., city inspectors were making a severe examination of all flooded houses before allowing their re-occupation.

In Vermont, however, the full blow of the storm fell. The four men who reached Burlington from Newport said that town was facing starvation.

FLOOD STILL RISING

Flood waters were still rising, drinking water was being obtained from one small pipe that was carried across a cracked and tottering bridge, and food was scarce.

Practically every house along the river bank was under water and many had toppled into the stream. There was no meat and little fuel. The livestock perished almost to a head; eggs were non-existent.

The men said they had lived on cornflakes and milk for four days.

Other stories of acute suffering and immediate need came from the Winooski valley, where 86 persons are known to have perished.

A rendering plant was offered more than 3,000 dead cows from the little era embracing the towns of Richmond and Williston. Snow added to the difficulties of relief by making the roads more treacherous for relief trains. To add to the general apprehension, Lake Champlain Tuesday was above its usual spring flood level and still rising.

At Waterbury, a detachment of the Third cavalry took charge and a drastic order was issued making all meals in the town church compulsory. No eating in private homes is allowed. Food is issued only to those having official tickets.

Steel cables were stretched across the Winooski and Little rivers to send food and clothing to the needy in the outlying districts.

At Bolton, where 28 persons were believed to have lost their lives, the first relief party to break through found that only seven bodies had been discovered. They reported a fair amount of food left. It floated down stream from Waterbury on a raft made of coffins lashed together.

Major General Preston Brown who made a first hand survey of the devastated territory asserted the losses would run into unestimable millions.

GREENVILLE FARMER IS DRUNKEN DRIVER

Fred Wunderlich Fined $50 and Forbidden to Drive His Car for Six Months

50
DRUNKEN DRIVERS SINCE JAN. 1.

Fred Wunderlich, route 3, Greenville, was fined $50 and costs by Judge Theodore Berg in municipal court Tuesday morning when he pleaded guilty of driving an automobile while drunk. The judge also ordered him not to drive an automobile for six months. Wunderlich had not paid his fine late in the morning but it was expected he would do so.

The offender was arrested about 6:30 Monday evening on W. College-ave by Detective Mathew McGinnis. His automobile was zigzagging from one side of the street to the other and he narrowly missed several other motorists. He was taken to the police station where he was locked up for the night.

GUATEMALAN ENVOY TO U. S. DIES AT CAPITAL

Washington—(AP)—Senor Don Francisco Sanchez Latour, Guatemalan minister to the United States and one of the most widely known of the Central American diplomats died here Monday night.

The minister had been operated upon last Saturday for appendicitis. It was believed by close friends and associates that his strength, taxed perceptibly since he was found unconscious in his study last July with a bullet found near the heart from his own pistol, was not sufficient to withstand the strain of the operation. The shooting was described by members of the family as accidental.

News of the illness of Senor Latour had been withheld from the public and it was not until shortly before his death that it became known that he had undergone an operation. Inquirers at the legationa were told earlier in the night that nothing could be given out about the minister.

FOND DU LAC DIOCESE TO ELECT BISHOP AIDE

Fond du Lac—(AP)—The Fond du Lac diocese of the Episcopal church convened in special session Tuesday at St. Paul's cathedral for the purpose of electing a coadjutor bishop, or assistant, to Right Rev. R. H. Weller. The council session opened with a solemn high mass celebrated by Bishop Weller, assisted by the Rev. A. P. Curtiss of Sheboygan, and Canon N. D. Stanley of Fond du Lac. Deputies were present from all parishes in the diocese. The consecration of the new bishop will take place after his election has been approved by the house of bishops, expected to be after the first of the year.

ZIMMERMAN AND PARTY POSTPONE INSPECTION

Madison—(AP)—The inspection trip by Governor Fred R. Zimmerman and members of the board of control to state institutions in Wales, Waupun, and Oshkosh, planned for Tuesday, has been postponed until Friday.

REPORT TWO AVIATORS KILLED IN NICARAGUA

Managua, Nicaragua—(AP)—A report that Second Lieut. E. A. Thomas and Sergeant Frank Dowdell, American Marine aviators who have been missing for more than a month, ever since they crashed in their plane while on patrol duty, were killed by followers of the former liberal General Sandino after a fight at a cave entrance, was received here Tuesday from Nicaraguans living in the Ocotal region. The report is believed here to be authoritative.

The report reveals that the American fliers were killed only after putting up a desperate resistance against 30 or 40 guerillas who trapped them in a cave after one of the American fliers had been wounded by a machete in the hands of two men, whom they met in the jungle undergrowth after abandoning their plane.

RUBIN GIVEN STAY BY SUPREME COURT

Milwaukee Attorney Must Testify in Ambulance Chasing Case or Go to Jail

Madison—(AP)—William B. Rubin, Milwaukee attorney, was granted a 30-day stay of execution from his 30-day jail sentence by the state supreme court.

The high bench ruled that the Milwaukee attorney, who was sentenced for contempt of court because of his refusal to be sworn and testify in the ambulance chasing cases, must remain under sentence but that he might have a 30-day leeway in which to decide whether he wished to testify. The supreme court opinion said:

"Judgment here under review is therefore modified so as to provide that Mr. Rubin shall stand committed to jail until such time, not exceeding 30 days, as he shall appear before Judge Aarons and be sworn and present under oath under such proof as the court may require upon the issue of whether fraud was in fact being practiced upon the court in conducting proceedings under the Churchill petition, and as so modified the judgment is affirmed."

MELODY WAY LESSON WILL BE REPRINTED IN WEDNESDAY ISSUE

How did you like that first Melody Way piano lesson?

For the benefit of those that did not clip the lesson from last Wednesday's Post-Crescent, it will again be printed this Wednesday, so that all who wish to learn how to play piano the Melody Way will start the second lesson the same time on Nov. 16.

As each lesson is printed in the Post-Crescent, clip it and mount in a scrapbook and then several times a week review the work you already have studied. Then, when the series of 12 lessons is over, you will have a complete short-cut to piano study.

Hundred, of people studied the first lesson and their praise for the Melody Way system of piano stud, was so outspoken that many others who did not clip the first lesson decided to do so. As a result, the reserve supply of last Wednesday's issue of the Post-Crescent was exhausted and it was found the only way to care for the demands of newly enthused residents of the city was to reprint the lesson.

SLEUTH CAN'T POINT OUT MAN WHO MET JUROR

Assistant Attorney General Declares He Never Saw Detective Before

JURYMAN DENIES GUILT

Failure to Sustain Charge Is Blow to Defense in Sinclair-Fall Trial

Washington—(AP)—The defense lost a point in the oil conspiracy tangle Tuesday when a Burns detective failed to identify the government agent he claimed improperly talked to a juror in the case.

William V. Long, the detective, had made an affidavit intended to show that H. R. Lamb, attached to the attorney general's office, had trailed Juror Norman Glassack to the Potomac flying field, and there had conversed with Glassock. Long failed Tuesday to recognize Lamb as the man involved.

Lamb, to whom Long's identity was not revealed, told Neil Burkinshaw, assistant district attorney in charge of the jury tampering investigation, that he had never seen the detective before in his life.

Burkinshaw then lined up a number of other persons called in from the nearby corridor for Long's inspection. He said none of them was the man he trailed to the Potomac field.

WASN'T ON FIELD

Long's failure to identify Lamb followed a denial by Glasscock, who said he had never visited the flying field and had never seen Lamb.

Meanwhile Sheldom Clark, the Sinclair official believed by the government to be a "contact man" between Burns agents and Harry F. Sinclair, was closeted with District Attorney Gordon.

Clark came here from Chicago, in response to a subpena issued for him last week after Henry Mason Day had declined to testify before the grand jury on the ground that his testimony might incriminate him. The specific question he refused to answer was whether he had any contact between the Burns men and Sinclair.

It was indicated that Clark was questioned along similar lines.

George Aikens, the automobile mechanic who was repairing Lamb's car on the day Long claimed he trailed it to the Potomac flying field, said the car was not at the flying field on Oct. 22.

CAR NOT IN CONDITION

"I had that two-toned roadster from Friday afternoon until about 2 o'clock Saturday," Aikens said. "Most of the time it was not even in running condition. I did not deliver it to Mr. Lamb until about 2 p. m. of that day."

"Were you at the flying field on Oct. 22?" Aikeis was asked.

"I've never been on that field in my life," was the reply.

As the grand jury inquiry went forward, government counsel made application to Justice Siddons for new subpenas for Harry M. Blackmer and James E. O'Neil, wealthy American oil operators now sojourning in Europe. Efforts will be made by American consuls to serve them abroad.

The prosecution advanced into a volley of counter-fire in its efforts to convince the grand jury that the defense in the Fall-Sinclair case was guilty of jury tampering.

With vigorous protestations of complete rectitude from Burns and Day, temporarily taking the play away from them, government attorneys turned to new witnesses to prove its case, notably Clark.

Day was on record Tuesday with Burns, as professing their complete innocence of any unethical conduct in having jurors shadowed.

TWO MEXICANS DEAD AS RESULT OF QUARREL

Madison—(AP)—Two Mexican laborers are dead, following a stabbing fray at Cross Plains Monday. Antonio Ybarro was killed by a knife thrust at the hands of Joseph Leon, a fellow worker, and Leon died from bullet wounds received from the pistol of Andrew Eckstein, deputy sheriff. No motive for the killing of Ybarro by Leon has been found by officers who investigated the crime.

Leon purchased a butcher knife Monday morning at a Cross Plains store. Ybarro, after eating at the railroad camp at noon, went into a box car. Leon followed him, according to Tranquilino Calderon, another Mexican. A short time later Calderon heard Ybarro calling for help. Leon ran from the car, and sped up the street, brandishing the butcher knife.

BADGER DEMOCRATS TO SUPPORT SENATOR WALSH

Madison—(AP)—Miles C. Riley, Madison, who is directing the campaign to secure a state delegation for Senator Thomas J. Walsh to the Democratic national convention, will go to Milwaukee Friday or Saturday to confer with several friends of Mr. Walsh. At this conference the date and place of a general state meeting for Senator Walsh will be fixed. Madison, Oshkosh and Wisconsin Rapids are being considered for the conference.

RAILROAD COMMISSION WILL ENFORCE EVERY CLAUSE OF BUS LAWS

Carriers Warned They Must Familiarize Themselves With Regulations

Stevens Point—(AP)—Calling attention to the clause in the bus law which provides for revocation of the permit to operate if the orders of regulations of the railroad commission are not obeyed, L. P. Atwood, director of the auto transportation division of the commission, warned bus men who are attending the second annual convention of the Wisconsin Motor Coach association that the commission would be strict in its punitive action.

"Every bus operator in the state should familiarize himself with the requirements imposed upon him by the new bus law," said Director Atwood. "A certificate for each separate route upon which busses will operate will be required and a permit will be issued for each motor vehicle authorized to operate under that certificate.

Mr. Atwood explained that the commission intends to hold hearings before adopting rules and regulations which later will be strictly enforced.

"The primary purpose of the prospective regulation," he said, "is to serve as umpire to assure to the public the service which the certificates will permit the companies to provide."

RUN ON A SCHEDULE

Some of the things that Director Atwood explained he deemed necessary for adequate and reasonable service are:

"Closer adherence to schedules filed with the commission.

"Terminal facilities should, in most cases, be provided where waiting passengers need not consider themselves intruders.

Sanitary facilities should be made available at a sufficient number of way stations.

"Proper attention should be given to heating and ventilation. Many an otherwise comfortable ride is spoiled by reason of exhaust gas fumes.

"Sanitary drinking facilities should be provided on the bus at frequent intervals."

John N. Cadby, executive secretary of the association, urged the travelling public to refrain from patronizing the "once-in-a-while bus carrier," who, he asserted, because of lack of passenger transportation training, usually is too careless of his passengers' safety.

"Recent accidents in other states where trains hit motor buses," he said, "were attributed solely to the fact that the motor bus driver was an inexperienced common carrier. Passenger transportatoin requires skill and training, and the public should be protected against the persons who make special trips with football teams or school classes."

NEED EXPERIENCE

C. M. Larson, chief engineer of the railroad commission, gave recent specific instances where inexperienced bus drivers were responsible for the death and injury of scores of people.

"A bus driver," said Larson, "should be a much more competent driver than the average driver of vehicles. He cannot afford to feel merely that he is handling his own bus safely. He must make allowance for the comparative incompetency of the users of the highway.

"It is probable that rules will be promulgated by the railroad commission requiring bus transportation companies to keep accident records in such a manner that they may be classified and analyzed. This is done by electric and steam railways and is very useful in accident prevention work."

The convention of the Wisconsin Motor Coach Association continues through Wednesday, with the principal program attraction Wednesday being a meeting with the state railroad commission in the form of a formal hearing relative to procedure, rules and regulations and the general method to be followed under the new law.

The representatives were from companies covering 3,000 miles of bus transportation routes.

HOST CAUSES ARREST OF SLUGGING GUEST

Otto Belter Accuses His Brother-in-law of Knocking Out His Teeth

Edward Knaack, who works with the Ringling Brothers' circus, is being held in the county jail here in default of $50 bonds, awaiting trial on Nov. 15 on a charge of assault and battery. Knaack was arrested after he had struck Otto Belter, Appleton, in the mouth Monday afternoon so hard as to knock out several front teeth.

Knaack arrived in Appleton early Monday and went directly to Belter's home to visit Mrs. Belter, who is his sister. There was some trouble there and Mr. Belter claims Knaack threatened to kill Mrs. Belter. Knaack left and later when Belter entered Peter Van Roy's soft drink parlor, 324 E. College-ave, they met again. Belter claims Knaack hit him without provocation but Knaack protested, when arraigned before Judge Theodore Berg in municipal court that "I am a gentleman and always have been and always will be. That guy kept following me and looking for trouble. I am not guilty."

Knaack said he had the money to furnish a $50 bond but declared, "I am too proud to do so. I will go to jail and wait until the trial. I am innocent."

Belter's mouth had been cut and three front teeth were missing. Knaack was arrested by Sergeant John Duval after Belter secured a warrant.

UNDERTAKERS ATTEND FOND DU LAC SCHOOL

Several Appleton undertakers are attending the funeral directors school Tuesday and Wednesday at the Northern Casket company plant, Fond du Lac. The two-day session is given under the auspices of the casket company.

Those attending Tuesday are Joseph Loessel, Howard Conn, Harry Schommer, Fred Brendson, George Buesing, and George Johnson. F. E. Sager expects to attend the Wednesday session.

LETTER GOLF

THE RULES

1—The idea of letter golf is to change one word to another and do it in par, a given number of strokes. Thus to change COW TO HEN, in three strokes, COW, HOW, HEW, HEN.

2—You can change only one letter at a time.

3—You must have a complete word, of common usage, for each jump. Slang words and abbreviations don't count.

4—The order of letters cannot be changed.

INVITE Y'S MEN TO HOLD MEETING HERE

Appleton Club Will Be Host to Delegates at District Conference

Appleton Y's Men will be hosts to the annual winter conference of the Wisconsin district of Y's Mens' clubs this winter, members of the local club decided at the meeting Monday evening at the Y. M. C. A. Appleton was invited to hold the conference, which will bring delegates from Milwaukee, Wausau, and Green Bay, by the district officers. Frank Sager, a local past president, is district secretary.

The local club selected Saturday, Nov. 26 as the date for the conference but this was changed because the silver anniversary Wisconsin State Older Boys' conference will be held here on Friday, Saturday and Sunday. No other date was set Monday evening, however. E. J. McCoy, Canton, Ohio, international president of the club, will be invited to be the principal speaker at the conference and several other men prominent in Y. M. C. A. and Y's Mens' affairs also will be on the program. Committees for the conference will be announced this week.

New officiers of the local club were installed Monday evening by John Trautman, immediate past president. The officers were Cecil Furminger, president; A. W. Markman, first vice president; Lee Pickell, second vice president; R. M. Eickmeyer, secretary; Harold Finger, treasurer.

John W. Pugh, boys' work secretary of the association, spoke on the older boys' conference, at which 500 boys are expected. He told of the need for 250 Appleton homes to lodge the boys over the Thanksgiving weekend and urged the men to assist in getting lodgings for the delegates.

R. M. Eickmeyer told of the second open forum, sponsored by the club, which will be held in the association lobby at 7:30 next Monday evening. Dr. Edward Simpson, pastor of the Green Bay Baptist church, will speak and lead an informal discussion on England, It's Labor and Labor Unions. Dr. Simpson spoke on Europe's War-danger Zones at the first forum two weeks ago.

Wisconsin Weather

Snow probably tonight and Wednesday; not much change in temperature.

WEATHER CONDITIONS

High pressure continues yet this morning from the Appalachians eastward, with low temperatures. Cold weather and high pressure over the north is causing the low pressure area noted yesterday over the Colorado mountains to seek the warmer regions near the Gulf of Mexico. Heavy rains have fallen with advance over the central Mississippi valley region and some rains or snows northward into Canada. Its influence is expected to cause further light snows in this section tonight and Wednesday. Temperatures remain rather low over the northern states and no material changes are anticipated here.

Gets Patent

A patent has been granted William N. Johnson, Neenah, on a saw guard, according to announcement made Tuesday.

Traced by boots of different sizes, which he stole and wore, James Callon, a "cat" burglar, was recently sentenced to 21 months' hard labor at Glasgow.

RED CROSS SEEKS 2,000 MEMBERS IN OUTAGAMIE-CO DRIVE

Junior and Senior High Schools Cooperate in Social Study of Red Cross

A special social study of the American Red Cross by junior and senior high schools of the county will be the outstanding feature of the annual Red Cross roll call which begins on Armistice day and continues until Thanksgiving day. Wilson Junior high school, under the direction of Dr. M. H. Small, principal, is the backbone of the project. Most of the press work for the 24 page publication will be done by the printing class at the school.

Almost every high school in the county has sent its contribution to the paper as a result of instructions sent out earlier in the term. Material illating to the origin, growth, development, and history of the American Red Cross was sent to the various high schools of the county and each high school was held responsible for those stories. The accompanying instructions directed that the article be read carefully, the important thoughts gathered, grouped in the pupils' own way, told in a setting and style characteristic of the pupil, made concise and simple.

The publication will be more of a pictorial sheet than the edition last year. The junior high schools of Appleton edited a smaller publication of a similar nature last year during the annual roll call. About 32 pictures will be used this year.

No definite quota has been set for the county but about 2,000 members is a fair goal, according to Dr. Small, chairman of the local Red Cross.

The Red Cross of the country has been aiding the people in the Mississippi flood districts. Clothing of all kinds is needed badly by the inhabitants especially as winter is approaching. Any coats, dresses, underwear, stockings, or gloves will be greatly appreciated by the local Red Cross. Shoes, hats, and furs, however, will not be needed as they are more difficult to send. The clothing should be wearable and in good condition.

DRIVER FINED BECAUSE HE PARKED IN ALLEY

H. J. Bushman, 1107 W. Fifth-st., was fined $1 and costs by Judge Theodore Berg in municipal court Tuesday morning when he pleaded guilty to a charge of parking automobile in the alley between Oneida and Appleton-sts. He was arrested at 5 o'clock Monday afternoon by Fred Arndt, motorcycle officer. A. B. Morris, 536 N. Morrison-st., arrested by Officer Arndt at 5:15 for parking his automobile in the same alley did not appear in court Tuesday morning.

Church Of England Waits For Outcome Of Fundamentalist Tilt Between Preachers

BY MILTON BRONNER

London—There has been no trial yet of Dr. E. W. Barnes, Bishop of Birmingham, for "heresy." Nor has Canon Bullock-Webster, of St. Michael's Church, London, been fined by the civil courts for being a "brawler."

But in the Church of England around the world there still is echoing the drama of Canon Bullock-Webster's arraignment of Bishop Barnes as a "heretic" at the outset of a public service conducted by the bishop in Dean Inge's famous St. Paul's Cathedral.

As the Dayton, Tennessee, "monkey trial" rocked American religious circles, so that clash of the canon and bishop in a fashion outdoing the movies and fiction is agitating the devout of Great Britain. The alignment of British theological leaders behind one principal or the other goes on, and the tide of conflict bids fair to wash up developments of far-reaching effect.

SIMPLE ELEMENTS

The elements of the drama are simple. It simply is another collision of Ancients and Moderns as religious thinkers go. The Ancients, typified by Canon Bullock-Webster, stand by the literal truth of the Bible and the church's most time-honored doctrines based on that literal belief. The Moderns, on the contrary accept new teachings of science, and hold that the church should reconcile its doctrines and practices to those teachings.

"Darwin's triumph has destroyed the whole theological scheme," said Bishop Barnes in a serman in Westminster Abbey not long ago.

In another sermon he declared:

"Man is an animal slowly gaining spiritual understanding and rising far above his distant ancestors. It is quite impossible to harmonize this conclusion of scientific inquiry with the traditional theology of any branch of the Christian church."

But his greatest shock for the Ancients came in a sermon in the Birmingham Paris church when he said:

"There are among us men and women whose Sacramental beliefs are not far from those of the Hindu idolater. They pretend that a priest, using the right words and acts, can change a piece bread so that within it there is the real presence of Christ. The idea is absurd and can be disproved by experiment."

The Bishops of London and Southwark publicly deplored these utterances. But the climax came when Dean Inge invited Dr. Barnes to speak in St. Paul's. It was then that Canon Bullock-Webster, to everybody's amazement, stepped forward and, bowing to the bishop, proceeded to read his protest, denouncing Dr. Barnes for heresy.

Dean Inge referred to the interrupter as a "brawler." Under the law of England a "brawler" in church can be fined $25 or sent to jail for two months.

In his sermon in St. Paul's Dr. Barnes reviewed the evolution of life on this globe and declared:

"In fact, from a scientific survey, we get, so far as I can see, nothing to encourage us to repudiate the Christian belief that man's creation was Divinely planned."

HAD UNDERSTANDING

He said we could not separate God's laws from the laws of nature. The sequence of natural processes, which led to man, could be legitimately interpreted in terms of Divine causation.

Man and the gorilla simultaneously emerged as the result of closely parallel processes, but man's first cousin was hardly a creature of sweetness and light. Man was more than animal. He had, and animals had not, spiritual understanding and moral enthusiasm. Through these qualities he was not merely a creature of space and time, but made contact with the infinite and eternal Spirit from Whom come goodness, beauty and truth. The bishop concluded with these words:

"Variations which are the raw material of evolution are naturally to be regarded as manifestations of God's creative activity. The God of Christ's revelation is active in all earth's processes. His activity has been shown not least in the creation of man."

"Heresy!" cried Canon Bullock-Webster. And the Church of England waits for a show-down.

ANOTHER MODERNIST CLASH

Canon Bullock-Webster (upper photo) and Bishop Barnes are the principals in a fundamentalist-modernist clash which is rocking the Church of England.

TWO DECISIONS OF COURTS HERE UPHELD BY SUPREME COURT

High Tribunal Affirms Verdicts in Kowalke and Kressin Damage Suits

Two verdicts of Outagamie-co courts were affirmed by the Wisconsin Supreme court in decisions handed down Tuesday morning. The state tribunal affirmed the order of Judge Theodore Berg dismissing the case of Dan Kowalke against Gregory Schindler and awarding costs to Schindler and it also upheld the award of $3,815 damages to Mrs. Margaret Kressin from the Chicago and Northwestern Railroad Co. for the death of her husband.

Dan Kowalke, Appleton, guardian of Roland Kowalke, 8, plaintiff, appealed from the judgment of Judge Theodore Berg of the Municipal Court of Outagamie County, dismissing his complaint against Gregory Schindler, a contractor for $7,000 damages. The boy Roland lost two fingers on his right hand while playing with a dynamite cap found on a lot on which Schindler is alleged to have stored building material. Judge Berg dismissed the complaint, and awarded Schindler $142 costs. Appeal by Kowalke was from this dismissal and award of costs.

This case originally was tried before the late Judge A. M. Spencer several years ago and it was decided against Kowalke. Kowalke moved for a new trial and Judge Spencer granted it. An appeal from this order was taken by Schindler's attorneys and it was carried to the supreme court which decided that the order was not appealable. The case then came back to Outagamie-co and opened before Judge Theodore Berg who dismissed the complaint and awarded costs to Schindler. Kowalke then took an appeal to the supreme court.

The Chicago and Northwestern Railway, defendant, appealed from judgment of Judge Edgar V. Werner, Outagamie circuit court, awarding Margaret Kressin $3,814 damages for death of her husband and employe of the Kimberly-Clark company. Mr. Kressin, before his death, operated a switch engine on a spur track of the railroad into the Kimberly-Clark mill.

The jury in the original case had held that Kressin was negligent but that his negligence did not cause his death.

PLAY CAST MEETS

Girls appearing in the last act of "Spleeping Beauty", play to be presented by the Vocational school dramatic club, will meet at 7:30 Wednesday evening at Appleton Womans club playhouse. The play is being directed by Miss Elinor Strickland.

DORMITORY MAN'S DINNER PROGRAM "GOING ON AIR"

Dormitory men of the Y. M. C. A. will have their program broadcast by station WAIZ, the Irving Zuehlke store station, when they meet for dinner at 6:15 Tuesday evening at the association building. A feature of the broadcast will be solos by J. Raymond Walsh.

A permanent dormitory organization for the winter probably will be started and officers will be elected. A committee of dormitory residents will report on plans for the organization and one plan will be chosen for use. The plan will include a program of socials, inter-floor athletic activities and other activities suggested by the men. At least 60 residents are expected at Tuesday evening's program.

THREE SERVICES WHEN SCHOOL IS DEDICATED

The new Emanuel Lutheran school at Greenville will be dedicated Sunday, Nov. 13 with three services. The Rev. H. Koch of Reedsville will preach a German sermon at 10 o'clock Sunday morning and the Rev. Kowalke of Watertown will conduct an English service at 2 o'clock. An English sermon will be preached at 7:30 in the evening. The Rev. L. Kasper is pastor of the congregation. A chicken dinner will be served at noon by ladies of the congregation.

CAUSE DISCOVERED
Free Booklet Mailed on Request

Indianapolis—Those who suffer from asthma and hay fever will be gratified to learn that at least science has succeeded in discovering the basic cause of these two stubborn maladies.

This discovery disproves the old theory that asthma is due solely to climatic conditions and hay fever entirely to pollen. The discovery of the real cause of these diseases has proved that these are merely aggravating factors and that the basic cause lies in the individual himself.

Fortunately for all who suffer from these diseases a way has also been found to overcome this basic cause in the individual instead of merely treating the surface symptoms, as has been done in the past.

For full information write for important booklet on the discovery of the cause of asthma and hay fever. It will be sent free to readers of this paper who will write to Department 1311. Fugate Company, 126 S. Meridian St., Indianapolis. adv.

NATION FACES HUGE FINANCIAL LOSS IF VALUES ARE JUMPED

Utilities Fight for Permission to Increase Property Valuation

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington— If we were to wake up some day and discover that the entire European war debt had been saddled upon us and that, with high interest rates, we would have to pay some $2,000,000,000 a year forever and ever—

Well, probably we would holler.

Yet, with hardly a holler, the country is confronted today with a problem, the solution of which includes the possibility that we might have to pay the $2,000,000,000 in increased rates to railroads, telephone companies, gas and electric light concerns, street car lines and other public utilities.

RATES WOULD SOAR

The fact that this tremendous sock to the family pocketbook, which would theoretically take $100 from the head of every family in the United States, would not be likely to be imposed by the utilities is some consolation. But the belief that we would be spared the full burden rests only on the likelihood that the national business structure would crack under the strain.

And if the railroads and other utilities are granted the contention which they have taken to the courts, it is assumed by experts here that they would come as near to the two billion-dollar sock as they safely could and that in any event, all regulation of public service rates would end automatically. The question is one of whether the utilities are entitled to the boost.

All this is seen by members of the interstate commerce commission and other experts as they fight out the question of valuing the railroads for purposes of rate-making. Three follows an attempt to outline the principal facts of a situation which has been obscured by millions of words piled high in supreme court decisions, interstate commission hearings and reports, and various other records and proceedings.

Under the law, railroads are permitted to earn up to 6 per cent on their valuation as fixed by the I. C. C. Half of the excess above 6 per cent goes to the government for a fund to aid weak railroads and other half goes to the railroads.

VALUATION IS ISSUE

The big question is that of fixing the valuation of the railroads for rate making purposes, and it is this question which the supreme court is expected to decide when it gets the test case involved in the appeal of the St. Louis & O'Fallon railroad from the valuation fixed by the I. C. C.

The I. C. C. has adopted a base estimated to give the railroads a return on from 10 to 20 per cent more than the estimated original investment, whereas the railroads insist on the reproduction value plus minor additions such as "going value."

The cost valuation of the American railroads, according to I. C. C. estimates, is aboute $23,000,000,000. It is estimated that the railroad theory would place this figure at about $33,000,000,000, although the Wall Street Journal has placed it at $55,000,000,000. If the railroad theory is accepted, the railroads would be permitted to increase their rates so as to receive 6 per cent on the additional $10,000,000,000.

THE I. C. C.'S BASIS

If the principle spread to the other utilities, as clear supreme court decision would spread it, the extra burden would be boosted to more than $30,000,000,000, according to Commissioner J. B. Eastman, and at 6 per cent the increased cost which could be passed on to the consumer would be around $2,000,000,000. In many instances it would provide an excuse to double freight, gas or electric light rates.

In 1913 the I. C. C. was instructed by congress to make valuations of the railroads. In making them, the commission estimated original cost on the basis of 1914 prices, striking an average for the 10 years previous, as it was impossible to learn the original amount of investment in most cases. Then the commission estimated depreciation and deducted it. It estimated the value of the railroad's land holdings by studying prices of privately owned land alongside and added that. Finally it considered the condition of the road, added about 5 per cent for good measure and called that the valuation.

But because prices have gone sky-high since 1914, the railroads contend that they should benefit and be allowed earnings on what it would cost to reproduce them at present prices. This is the contention of the railroads in the O'Fallon case.

NO HIGH PROFITS

One of the supreme court decisions which the I. C. C. says must be forever borne in mind was that of Dayton-Goose Creek Railway vs. U. S. holding that:

"By an investment in a business dedicated to the public service the owner must recognize that, as compared with investment in private business, he cannot expect either high or speculative profits but that his obligation limits him to only fair or reasonable profit."

Previously, the court had held that a railroad was a public highway and that a railroad corporation is created for public purposes and performs a function of the state.

Public utility regulations are based on this general principle which distinguishes public utilities from ordinary private enterprises. It is now easier to understand the history of the valuation issue, which has boiled down largely to the question whether utilities shall be allowed to profit from the public on billions of dollars which were never invested.

The interstate commerce commission has pointed out that application of the reproduction cost theory would require revaluation as often as price levels changed and turn valuation into a perpetual guessing contest. Commissioner Eastman has brought out the strongest of the other arguments against the reproduction cost theory, and an attempt may be made to summarize them as follows:

If the railroads win their contention, rate-making will be entirely in their hands.

Two-thirds of railroad capital is represented by bonds and preferred stock. Assuming that valuation is doubled, the roads will receive a return on $2 for every $1 invested and all the benefit will go to the one-third of the capital represented by holders of common stock, who will reap a three-fold harvest.

"FEAST FOR MARKET"

But if price levels should drop severely, the common stockholders would be virtually wiped out. It works both ways. Eastman says that "In all probability it would provide a feast superior to anything the bulls and bears have enjoyed since the creation of stock exchanges."

The railroads hold that they are made to suffer for the depreciation of the dollar if less than reproduction cost is used as valuation basis. The commission replies that even if this were admitted the holders of bonds and preferred stock could not possibly benefit any more than holders of bonds and preferred stock in other industries are compensated for dollar depreciation. The holders of $33,000,000,000 in government and municipal bonds are not so protected.

Futhermore, if the roads collected a return artifically adjusted to the 100-cent dollar they could pay their debts in depreciated dollars and the results, according to Eastman, "would so conflict with principles of justice as to border on the ludicrous."

PUBLIC CALAMITY

Summing up the commission's attitude toward the reproduction theory as expressed in the precedent-making order in the O'Fallon case, Eastman says:

"The report here gives our reasons for believing that such a rate would be nothing short of a public calamity; that it would at the present time be grossly unjust to the public served by the railroads; that it is likely at some future time to be equally unjust to those who have invested their savings in the railroads; that it is without foundation in sound reason, and that it is deficient in both stability and practicability."

Some students of the situation express the belief that a supreme court ruling allowing the railroads reproduction cost valuation would so increase the rates that railroads and other utilities would oftener and oftener be taken over by the national and municipal and state governments.

ACCUSED OF RADICALISM

One of the loudest voices raised for the reproduction theory has been that of the Railway Age, an organ of the railroad industry, which accuses the I. C. C. of radicalism and a desire for government ownership. In referring to the O'Fallon order, the Railway Age said:

"Nowhere is there any recognition of the fact that it is just and desirable for the owners of railways to receive relatively as large returns on their property as the owners of other kinds of property."

It is that "fact" for which the railroads now demand recognition.

No one need suppose, however, that the railroads are going broke. The national bureau of economic research has found that railroad stocks have increased 230 per cent in value in 70 years. Last year was the biggest revenue year in railroad history. Net revenues were $1,232,000,000 as against $1,539,000,000 in 1925, an increase of 8.2 per cent while profits jumped twice as much proportionately as did total revenues.

Avoid Poorly Balanced Breakfasts

Start the day with Quaker Oats —food that "stands by" you.

If you feel tired, hungry, "fidgety," hours before lunch, don't jump to the conclusion of poor health. Thousands have unenergetic mornings because they start the day with wrong breakfasts.

To feel right, you must have a well-balanced, complete breakfast ration. At most other meals—lunch and dinner—you get it. But breakfast is a hurried meal, often badly chosen.

Thus Quaker Oats, containing 16% protein, food's great tissue builder, 65% carbohydrate, its great energy element, plus all-important vitamines and the "bulk" that makes laxatives seldom needed, is the dietetic urge of the world today.

Don't deny yourself the natural stimulation this rich food offers you.

Get Quaker Oats today. Grocers have two kinds: Quick Quaker, which cooks in 2½ to 5 minutes, and Quaker Oats.

SHUT-IN IS FIRST RED CROSS MEMBER

Public Invited to Attend Program Arranged by Red Cross for Armistice Day

Menasha — Miss Florence Luedtka is the first to answer the Red Cross roll call. She has been a "first member" for several years and although a shut-in believes firmly in the humanitarian work carried on by this organization for others.

The general public is invited to attend the Red Cross meeting at the library auditorium on the evening of Armistice day. All former service men and their families are particularly invited. The local chapter is in receipt of an endorsement from Edward Spafford of New York, national commander of the American Legion, and from Major F. J. Schneller, department commander, offering the cooperation of the American Legion in making the eleventh roll call a complete success.

A musical program is being arranged by Miss Irene Schmidt, supervisor of music in the Menasha public schools. Miss Schmidt will sing several selections and also the Girls Glee club. Walter Bauernfeind reports progress in roll call plans. A mail campaign will be used in the residence districts owing to the difficulty in securing workers for the house to house canvas. A booth will be located down town in some central place and will be open afternoon where memberships will be taken.

The American Red Cross cannot carry on its work without its chapters; the Red Cross chapters cannot exist without members. Anyone of its activities justifies your membership.

Acid Stomach

"Phillips Milk of Magnesia"

Better than Soda

Hereafter, instead of soda take a little "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" in water any time for indigestion or sour, acid, gassy stomach, and relief will come instantly.

For fifty years genuine "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" has been prescribed by physicians because it overcomes three times as much acid in the stomach as a saturated solution of bicarbonate of soda, leaving the stomach sweet and free from all gases. It neutralizes acid fermentations in the bowels and gently urges the souring waste from the system without purging. Besides, it is more pleasant to take than soda. Insist upon "Phillips." Twenty-five cent and fifty cent bottles, any drug store. "Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Charles H. Phillips Chemical Co. and its predecessor Charles H. Phillips since 1875.

126 BOYS SIGN UP FOR WORK IN BOYS' BRIGADE

Neenah—One hundred and twenty-six boys of school age, registered Monday evening at Wessley hall to become members of the Boys' Brigade. The registration is the largest ever made by the organization. The final registration will be held next Monday evening at which time it is expected the membership will reach 140. Of the 126 already registered, there are 49 recruits drilling under Waldemar Olson, Howard Whitpen and Lyal Stilp for the last month to get them in shape to work with the older boys who will start drills within the next week. Some of the boys have been connected with the organization for the last seven years and still are active in the work. Six will leave the company by finishing their high school work in June. Six of the last year's membership have not as yet registered.

A meeting of the leaders will be held Friday evening when arrangements will be made for the year's work. Several new leaders will be appointed at the meeting.

Neenah—Col. F. J. Schneller was the speaker Tuesday noon at the weekly meeting and luncheon of Kiwanis club at the Valley Inn. Col. Schneller recently returned from Paris where he attended the American Legion convention. He also visited other countries in Europe and reviewed conditions as he saw them during his month's stay there.

Officers for the coming year will be elected at the first meeting in December. An invitation issued by the Allenville Grange for a dancing party to be given at the Grange hall on the evening of Nov. 10 was accepted. Initial arrangements for the annual Christmas party to the children were started by the appointment of John Herziger, Eaton Sizer and William Campbell as a committee to make plans for the annual event which will be held at Saxe Neenah theatre.

HEAVY PROGRAM FOR PEACE DAY IN SCHOOL

Neenah—Friday will be a busy day at high school. An Armistice day program will be presented in the afternoon by the Senior class under the direction of Miss Blanche Buck, a general pep meeting will be held at 7 o'clock in the evening for the Saturday football game with Menasha, and the Armistice Day party by the Freshman class will follow the pep meeting.

DISCUSS EQUIPMENT FOR PUMPING PLANT

Neenah—Re-arrangement of equipment and an addition to the power plant department was discussed Monday evening at the monthly meeting of the water works commission. A new pump to take the place of the 600 gallon pump now in operation and a new standpipe on the waterworks property are needed, it was said.

SALVATION ARMY DRIVE EXCEEDS CITY QUOTA

Neenah—The annual Salvation Army drive, which closed last week, netted a total of $935 in Neenah, which was $85 over the quota set by the national headquarters. The drive was directed by a committee of citizens.

INVITE ROTARY CLUB TO MARION MEETING

Neenah—The Rotary club has received an invitation to attend the charter night celebration to be given Monday evening, Nov. 14, at Marion. A delegation is planning to attend the banquet which will precede the work.

COURT COLLECTS FINES FROM 7 LAWBREAKERS

Neenah—Seven arrests were made Monday and early Tuesday morning by the police department. Olene Peterson was fined $25 and costs Tuesday morning by Justice Jensen for reckless driving. Three occupants of the car giving their names as Michael Murphy, Vincent Lewis and Vergel Everette, each were fined $5 and costs on charges of disorderly conduct. Maud Gallard was fined $15 and costs Tuesday by Justice Harness on a disorderly conduct charge and Steve Branch and Clifford Hammes of Oshkosh paid fines of $10 and costs each on drunk and disorderly charges.

Two sons, aged 10 and 12, of a Polish miner were recently sentenced by an Airdrie, Scotland judge to receive 12 strokes each with a birch rod for housebreaking and theft.

TWIN CITY DEATHS

BEISENSTEIN FUNERAL

Neenah — The funeral of Joseph Beisenstein who died Monday noon at St. Elizabeth hopsital, Appleton, will be held at 9 o'clock Thursday morning at St. Patrick church. The services will be conducted by the Rev. George Clifford. Burial will be in St. Margaret cemetery.

MRS. J. M. RELYEA

Neenah—Mrs. J. M. Relyet of Kalamazoo, Mich., formerly Miss Fanny Reimer of Neenah, died Monday in a Kalamazoo hospital from burns received six weeks ago when naptha with which she was cleaning clothing exploded, according to word received Monday afternoon by Phillip Reimer, a brother residing here. Mrs. Relyea was born at Neenah, where she lived until eight years ago when she moved with her family to Michigan. Funeral arrangements were not given in the message.

RECOMMEND PAVEMENT OF LAKE SHORE ROAD

Neenah — Pavement of the lake shore road between Oshkosh and Neenah, is to be recommended next week to the Winnebago-co board of supervisors. It is believed the paving of this highway will take away much of the traffic now on highway 41.

Piles Go Quick

Without Salves or Cutting

External treatments seldom banish Piles.

The cause is inside—bad circulation.

The blood is stagnant, the veins flabby.

The bowel walls are weak, the parts almost dead.

To quickly and safely rid yourself of piles you must free the circulation—send fresh, healthy blood to the raw, sensitive membranes. Internal treatment is one safe method. Ointments and other external treatments can't give lasting relief.

J. S. Leonhardt, M. D. a specialist set at work some years ago to find a real internal remedy for piles. He succeeded. He named his prescription HEM-ROID, and tried it in hundreds of cases before he was satisfied. Now HEM-ROID is sold by druggists everywhere under guarantee. It is a harmless tablet, easy to take, and can always be found at Schlintz Bros., who will gladly refund the purchase price to any dissatisfied customer.

SHERIDAN-CO FARM POPULATION CALLS WHEELER "SAMSON"

Organized Farmers Run County Business and Make Good Job of It

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington—Here in the effete east where almost anyone from west of Chicago is regarded as a radical, many persons regard Senator Burton K. Wheeler of Montana as a radical who will bear watching Especiallly here in the smug national capital, it is felt that if Wheeler isn't a radical, there isn't one in the Senate.

But out in Montana, one learns with astonishment, Wheeler is being panned as a reactionary. Some of the voters out there are much more radical than Wheeler and if there were enough of them, as there aren t, Wheeler might be defeated in his capaign for reelection next year

The anti-Wheeler feeling centers in Sheridan-co, in the extreme northeast section of Montana, along the Canadian border and North Dakota

Experts say that you can't find a more radical section in the country than Sheridan co. The folks out there boast of it, too. And it's peculiar in more ways than that.

By electing farmer-labor county tickets each year, these radicals control the county From all reports they do a good job of running it They drove a small time crooked regime out of office when they stepped in.

FOR THE FARMER

Sheridan is altogether a farm county and is run in the interests of the farmer The state law prevents any change in the form of county government, but the Sheridanites don't mind that. They have just the kind of government they want.

The dominant force in Sheridan county is the United Farmers, a secret agrarian organization which has also made headway in Washington state, Minnesota and North Dakota This group is organized both for economic and political action Its numbers and membership lists are kept secret and when it endorses a candidate for office the fact is kept secret so that if perchance it takes a political licking the fact remains unknown. Meanwhile, it arranges with local merchants to give all card-carying members a discount when they come to town for purchases

Every store in Plentywood, the county seat of Sheridan, is said to grant such a discount In this way, members are guaranteed savings amounting to more than the membership dues Often the council steps in and persuades a banker to hold off on a mortgage foreclosure against a farmer.

"CASTOR OIL COLLINS"

When a court ruled that a Sheridan-co mortgage-holder was entitled to a portion of the debtor's crop, a crowd of the boys went right out to the debtor's farm, threshed his crop and hauled it away and sold it before the court could enforce the decree. An ex-sheriff, sent by a court with papers containing bad tidings to a straitened farmer, was seized and threatened with a noose. After a promise not to return, a pint of caster oil was poured down his throat as a "lesson." He has since been known as "Caster Oil Collins"

"They raise hell with bankers who try to foreclose on farmers," says a man who knows Sheridan county and admires its people

The county sheriff has a splendid reputation for catching border rum-runners, but he is hard on would-be farm-hands who don't carry the red card of the I. W. W. Incidentally, some of the big farmers in Montana prefer I. W. W. workers, insisting that although they demand reasonable hours and wages they aren't as shiftless as the ordinary non-union hand

HAVE FARMER TEMPLE

In Plentywood they have erected a Farmer-Labor temple, which is a community affair where are held all county events from dances and ladies' aid meetings to prize fights. The Krazy Kats (an orchestra) plays for dancing Are the bolsheviks of Moscow elated when Chinese peasant Communists win military victory? Not a bit more than the good folk of Sheridan-co The Producers News of Plentywood, which "goes into every home in the county," banners the report in an eight column headline and you can't find in that weekly more than two or three other items of outside news The Producers News receives the services of the Federated Press, which serves radical labor news to Socialist or Communist or Labor papers It delivers horrendous blast at Montana's two "reactionary" senators, Wheeler and Tom Walsh, accusing Wheeler of being the hireling of the Anaconda Copper company and Walsh the servant of Standard Oil.

It prints an old photo of Walsh with the caption, "The famous walrus moustache, worn by the senior senator before he met Mrs Borden Harriman, is shown in the above picture Senator Walsh, like Samson of old has lost much of his political virility since its edges were shorn"

KNOWS ITS ONIONS

Sheridan divides its vote in the primaries between the Republican conservative ticket and the Farmer Labor radical ticket It knows its political onions, and wastes no time when Democratic candidates up for statewide vote appear on the ticket Wheeler, for instance, got 17 votes in the last senatorial primary and then carried the county by a majority of more than 800 votes!

Next November it probably will vote against Wheeler, the "reactionary' Radicals in Butte, Great Falls and elsewhere may join in the anti-Wheeler movement, but many of Wheeler's friends believe that this will be much more than offset by the attraction of reassured conservatives of his banner. Mere progressives will all vote for Wheeler.

There is a chance that "radical rule" in Sheridan county may be upset. Sheridan has many Danish farmers, most of them religious, and they are said to believe the farmer-laborites are atheists or something.

Husband And Wife Partners In Law As Well As In Love

BY HORTENSE SAUNDERS

Brooklyn — "The most beautiful painting I've ever seen!" exclaimed Lee Hermann, as a sign painter gave a finishing flourish of black to the said HERMANN AND HERMANN he had lettered on the glass office door.

It followed immediately the ceremony at the Supreme Court whereby Hermann and Hermann, each 24 years old, were admitted to the bar—the first time a man and wife had ever taken the oath together in the history of Brooklyn.

The matrimonial partnership had begun three years back—the culmination of a childhood romance. And today they might easily qualify as America's happiest coupl

HOW 'BOUT THIS?

"But aren't you afraid that you and your husband will see too much of each other now that you are associated professionally?"

Mrs Hermann replied naively:

"But we never saw enough of each other when we were in separate offices, while we were working our way through law school—you see we really love to be together."

"And of course we'll talk shop over the breakfast rolls and the dinner dessert—but we would anyhow," put in the husband "We've shared everything since we were young enough to remember anything."

Their families have known each other for many generations, coming from the same section of the Ukraine Her grandfather can tell tales on his grandfather

HER HERO

"As youngsters, we went to parties together, and to school." Mrs. Hermann again took up the story. "He became my hero when he was captain of the high school basketball team He was a marvelous player and still is

"When we married, Lee was making about $20 a week. I did not get a job until several months later But we managed to make a great adventure out of our poverty and became very skillful in keeping just a jump ahead of the milkman and butcher

"We went to law school at night, and were given permission to sit beside each other so we could use the same books. That saved about $50 a year.

"So naturally, we had to study together," Hermann recalled "We attack every problem differently, so by time we've thrashed the matter out, we usually have both sides of it I figure that ought to come in very handy in our law practice"

LIKES EARLY MARRIAGE

Mrs. Hermann is not a Lucy Stoner—she stopped using her own name the day they were married.

"I believe in early marriage," she insisted "It saves you from synicism The time to tackle the problems of married life is when you are still young enough to laugh over your mistakes

"No young couple could have had less money or more happiness than we And we've found money and time for trips without going into debt. Last summer we bought a flivver. 'We,' and toured the west with it for five weeks The total cost was $200—just 20 a week apiece But we camped all the way, and our wardrobe was khaki.

"Getting along without money isn't hard when you are planning for a bigger future, and when you have youth and enthusiasm. Housekeeping mixes very well with study. We're going to keep our two-room and kitchenette apartment until—"

"Until the firm's business warrants greater expansion," her husband finished with self-conscious dignity.

"We've been advised to cut out the hsuband-and-wife stuff at the office An older attorney warned me that 'this dearie and darling stuff doesn t mix with Blackstone. Professionally you are Mr and Mrs. Hermann to each other.' Imagine me calling Frieda Mrs Hermann"

"Perhaps—at the office?" Mrs. Hermann suggested.

She looked with pride at the new sign on the door.

"It really looks wonderful in print, doesn't it?" she asked.

MAGAZINE SUGGESTS CHRISTMAS PROGRAM

Children Lead in Service Instead of Staging Annual Entertainment

Oshkosh — (AP) — Miss Elizabeth Town, secretary of the state Christian Education council, has sent suggestions to the churches subscribing to the movement regarding Christmas celebrations.

In the official magazine of the organization she said it is not too early to begin planning for Christmas

"Leaders should have clearly in mind what they hope to accomplish through the effort and make everything contribute to that end," the statement said.

"The time has about passed when we work and worry to put on a special program with children The Christmas season offers so many possibilities, the fact that the entire community is interested in the one thing affords an unusual impetus in putting the Christmas message across to the boys and girls.

"Children may talk and sing about the baby Jesus in the Sunday School hour for weeks in advance and use this same material in their own department on the Sunday preceding Christmas. If fathers and mothers are guests they should be told that the children have no thought of entertainment for them but are leading them in the service. Parents should therefore be requested to refrain from applause.

"Of course, the Christmas party is very essential and should be planned for some day just before Christmas Christmas stories may be told around the tree, games played and some favors provided for each child. Simple refreshments may be served from a prettily decorated table.

"The young people and adults will enjoy putting on a pageant. It should be challenging and beautiful and convey a Christmas theme."

A list of plays and programs already planned for Christmas celebrations are given by Miss Town. With each play or program listed the name of the denominational publisher is carried so that the churches may order from their own denomination works.

The jury system will be put into force in Japan beginning October 1. 1928.

"May I use the Telephone?"

How would you feel, if some guest asked you that question and your reply would have to be, "I'm sorry, but we haven't a telephone."

But that would just be an incident There should be a telephone in every home. In a single emergency the telephone pays for itself many times over.

In addition, every two story home should have two telephones,—one conveniently located on the second floor, so when the telephone bell rings those tiresome steps, running up and down stairs, are saved. Not only this, but an extension telephone at your bedside is a real protector. At night, should some emergency arise, protection and assistance is within arm's reach.

If you haven't a telephone, or if you need an extension telephone—call our Business Office today! We will be glad to tell you about the cost of the different classes of service and help you select the one best fitted to your needs.

FIVE MILES A MINUTE

Fourteen years ago the first Schneider cup race for seaplanes was won by a French aviator. The pilot made a speed of 44.7 miles an hour, and the world was wondering if a plane ever would go faster than an automobile. A few weeks ago a British seaplane shot through the air at a rate of 281.488 miles an hour to win the same trophy. This was considered fast and aviation experts predicted that the maximum speed for a seaplane had been reached.

Last Saturday, Major de Bernardi, Italian flying ace, attained a speed of 315.42 miles an hour over two laps of the Venice Lido course. This was speed indeed. Sunday, Lieutenant Alford J. Williams, U. S. N., using a plane which he had originally intended to pilot in the Schneider cup races at Venice, set an unofficial world speed record of 322.6 miles an hour. When one figures that a sprinter running the hundred-yard dash in ten seconds is fast and that this American plane went 470 feet a second, one begins to realize what the word "flying" means.

It is not too much to expect that planes will be built within the next decade or two capable of flying from Paris to New York in five or six hours. If the present progress in aviation is maintained this is a certainty for flying is only in its infancy. Man has not begun to develop its possibilities. The flights of Lindbergh, Chamberlain, Byrd and Maitland are only forerunners of what is to come. However, in our quest for speed and distance we must not lose sight of the safety side of the matter.

To be successful flying must be made safe and those interested in aviation can do the industry no better service than by insisting upon safety as the first consideration. Now that we have developed engines that will drive a plane through the air at a speed of more than 5 1-3 miles a minute, we should turn our resources to building planes that are foolproof and capable of remaining aloft under any and all conditions. When this is done aviation will come into its own. The public is waiting to take to the air and will do so willingly, once it is assured that flying is reasonably safe.

REAR CAR RESPONSIBLE

In the absence of a statute there is no rule that the driver of a motor vehicle on a public highway shall pay any attention or give any thought to a vehicle behind him unless the driver of the latter shall signal that he desires to pass. The supreme court of Oklahoma has ruled that the responsibility for avoiding accidents rests upon the machine in the rear. Alabama had previously made the same ruling. The position of the court in the matter is of especial significance to all drivers of motor vehicles. The Alabama summary states, among other things, that:

> When two automobiles are being driven along a public road in the same direction, the driver of the front car owes no duty to the rear car except to use the road in the usual way, and until he has been made aware of it by signal or otherwise, he may assume, either that there is no other automobile in the rear, or that, being there it is under such control as not to interfere with his free use of the road in any lawful manner.
>
> Where two automobiles are traveling the public road in the same direction, the one ahead has the superior right and it is only on request or equivalent notice that he must turn aside so as to leave sufficient room for the rear car to pass.
>
> A driver of an automobile on a public road, upon approaching another automobile from the rear, must look out for the automobile ahead and must have his machine well in hand to avoid injuring the car ahead, so long as the automobile ahead is driving in accordance with his rights.

The responsibility is very definitely placed upon the car in the rear. Before the man in the forward car can be charged with negligence, the man in the rear car must not only have signaled that he was there but must be assured that the signal has been noted and understood and that the man in the forward car is willing to accord him the right of way.

GET RID OF CARP

We note that one of the first things the newly organized conservation commission proposes to take up is the problem of eradicating carp. From the standpoint of conservation rather than propagation, this is one of the most important things that can be done for the protection of Wisconsin's fish. Hundreds of bass grounds have been all but ruined by carp in the last few years. Carp have spread into the inlets and bays of Lake Michigan and infest many of the inland lakes. They are the greatest foe to fish life that we have, playing havoc with the spawning beds and destroying the creation of our supply at its source.

Unless this malicious marauder is taken in hand and controlled things will keep on going from bad to worse. Carp multiply very rapidly and they are not easily controlled or destroyed. The only way they can be suppressed is by a consistent and intelligent campaign of extermination. It will cost some money to do this and it will take time, but it is necessary if many species of edible fish, and our best game fish, are to be preserved. One of the best ways for the commission to demonstrate its usefulness and competency will be, to our mind, to solve the carp problem.

UNBIASED HISTORY

The ruling political forces of Chicago have advocated burning any history that has no bias in favor of the United States. So-called hundred-percenters, mostly alien-minded of one sort or another, applauded.

Clarence Darrow, the famous criminal lawyer, who ought to know something about evidence, is said to have expressed the opinion that all histories that have a bias in favor of any country, our own included, should be burned. If the hundred-percenters have not already put up a howl, they probably will.

It is readily understood that pride in one's country causes one to wish it to appear in the best possible light, but it should appear in the best possible light consistent with the truth. The minute history is tainted with bias it ceases to be a true history. The certain glories of this country and its founders and defenders are sufficient. There is no need to falsify the record of its achievements nor to vilify its one time foes.

Real hundred-percenters should love America too well to wish her to stand upon anything but a foundation of truth. They should be too proud to accept favor, much less to demand it. They should love America for herself, and they should scorn to cover with a cloak or misrepresentation any of her faults or shortcomings. Her heroes do not have to be faultless to be great. Neither does she have to be without fault to be glorious.

Have representative Americans made mistakes? Yes. Has America as a nation ever been in the wrong? Certainly. Have any ever had just cause for complaint against America? Of course. Have America's opponents been always villains? Certainly not. Is America less marvelous for all of that. Certainly not.

OLD MASTERS

There was a snake that dwelt in Skye,
  Over the misty sea, oh;
He lived upon nothing but gooseberry pie
  His breakfast, dinner and tea, oh.

Now gooseberry pie—as is very well known—
  Over the misty sea, oh,
Is not to be found under every stone,
  Nor yet upon every tree, oh.

And is gooseberry pie was not to be had,
  Over the misty sea, oh,
He'd twine and twist like an eel gone mad,
  Or a worm just stung by a bee, oh.

But though he might shout and wriggle about,
  Over the misty sea, oh,
The snake had often to go without
  His breakfast, dinner and tea, oh.

Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
Noted Physician And Author

Dr. Brady will answer all signed letters pertaining to health. Writer's names are never printed. Only inquiries of general interest are answered in this column, but all letters will be answered by mail if written in ink and a stamped self-addressed envelope is enclosed. Requests for diagnosis or treatment of individual cases cannot be considered. Address Dr. William Brady, in care of this paper.

NEVER MIND THE WATER IN THE LUNGS

In the third health questionnaire published here September 11, we asked once more how the reader would get the water out of the lungs of a person rescued from submersion, and again 80 per cent of readers who sent in their answers fell down badly on this question. In spite of all we have said about it here, eight out of every 10 readers evidently persist in the fatal fancy that they must invert the victim or attempt some other equally fatal maneuver to get the water out of the lungs before proceeding to resuscitation.

Let us repeat that the Schaefer prone pressure method of artificial respiration or resuscitation places the subject in the best possible position for any water or other fluid to drain out of the chest through the nose or mouth, by gravity. And moreover the compression of the chest in the first maneuver of Schaefer's prone pressure method, tends to force out through the nose or mouth any fluid which may be in the breathing passages. So it is a fatal mistake to delay this maneuver even a few seconds in any attempt to remove water from the lungs—while you are making that superfluous effort the victim's life spark may cease. Incidentally, many pictures give a wrong conception of the proper position of the subject for resuscitation—never put anything under the subject's head or face. Just turn the subject's head toward one side and let the subject's cheek rest on the floor or ground. Do not put the subject's hand under the forehead. Put the subject's hands on the ground one on each side of the subject's head. If the ground or floor is not level, put the subject's head at the lower level, as that will aid gravity in draining any water from the chest.

Now it is time to spring the fourth health questionnaire. Well, just offhand here are a few little questions which anybody with fair health intelligence ought to be able to answer correctly. Try it out—if you will send in your answers with a stamped envelope bearing your address I'll mail you the correct answers and you can see just how much you don't know about some things you think you know all about.

1. What is a moron?
2. What is the right length for toothbrush bristles?
3. What should every young man bring when he asks a parent's or guardian's consent to an engagement?
4. What food material best sustains the heart or the general muscular energy in the prolonged effort?
5. Is quinine good medicine for fever—and why?
6. Has meat eating anything to do with hardening of the arteries or high blood pressure?
7. What is fried liver good for?
8. Name two diseases that may be carried in milk, and two means by which the consumer may protect himself against so contracting these diseases.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Well, Here She Is Again

Again I write. Two weeks ago I wrote you and asked for a little advice from you, and signed my name and address and watched each issue of the paper for your reply, but received none . . . . (Mrs. ——).

Answer—May I explain? I have room to answer only three or four of the letters I receive in my column. The rest, provided they comply with the rules, I answer by private letters. You asked for a diagnosis. I would not hesitate an instant to give a correspondent medical advice, or make a diagnosis, or write a prescription, if I could do so with reasonable safety for the correspondent. But it is very seldom safe for one to take a chance on any such long distance medical advice, I need not assure you. A doctor makes plenty of mistakes even when he has full opportunity to study the patient and his complaint. When he attempts to render medical service by wire or by wireless or by letter or by telephone or by book or by newspaper, good night.

The Soda Habit

I have been using baking soda for my acid condition. Is baking soda harmful in the system? The other day I ate a lot of candy and it just about set me crazy; it seemed as though the acid came out through the pores. (Mrs. S. L. C.)

Answer—I haven't the slightest idea what your condition may be. Baking soda (saleratus, sodium bicarbonate) is one of the best alkalis to take for the purpose of increasing alkalinity of the blood or diminish acidity of the urine. I should not recommend the habitual use of it, however. If the purpose is to neutralize excessive acidity in the stomach, calcium carbonate (prepared chalk) is preferable.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Tuesday, Nov. 11, 1902

Marriage license was issued to Ernest Schroeder of Appleton and Carrie Robe of Center.

Hans Hansen, postmaster and merchant of Medina Junction was seriously injured at Neenah the previous evening while attempting to board a rapidly moving interurban car.

Seven children, whose parents graduated from Lawrence university with the class of 1879 were then enrolled with the Freshman class of the university. They were the Misses Mary and Ruth Davis, Appleton; Miss Frances Nimits, Antigo; Miss Bernice Steffen, Antigo; Ward Potter, Merrill; Miss Florence Murch, Denver, Col., and Eugene Orbison, Appleton.

The last supper of the season at Riverview Country club was to be held the following Saturday evening after which the building was to be closed for the winter.

A number of Appleton persons attended a party at Neenah the previous evening given by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Smith in honor of Miss Erna Olsen of Oshkosh.

Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Orbison were to entertain a group of friends at a party that evening.

Mrs. John McCoy was to entertain members of her Sunday school class that evening.

TEN YEARS AGO

Tuesday, Nov. 6, 1917

America and Japan had entered a formal agreement reaffirming the "open door" policy in China and recognizing Japan's special interests in that country.

Field Marshall Haig struck another tremendous blow at the German lines around Passchendaele Ridge that day.

Miss Cora Timm entertained 20 guests the previous evening at a miscellaneous shower in honor of Miss Elsie Rehfeldt. Prizes were won by Miss Ella Radtke.

Rhetoricals were given that morning during assembly room period at Appleton High school by Miss Irene Poth, "The Bravest Battle;" Miss Ruth Van Rooy, "The Housewife;" Miss Gladys Neuman, "The Housekeeper;" Miss Florence Mory, "A Woman of Fame" and Miss Mary Ryan, "His Girl in Overalls."

Individuals and corporations of Appleton were to pay $73,531.14 more in income taxes that year than they did a year previous according to figures certified to H. L. Williams, city clerk, by A. C. Rule, [illegible] of income for Outagamie county. The total income tax to be collected in the city at the next tax collection was to be $110,857.27 as compared with $37,325.13 in 1916.

A marriage license was issued to Joseph Wolf of Ellington and Mary C. Hearden of Appleton.

ON—

THE PRIMARY QUESTION

Washington, D. C. — Political leaders who have been sitting up nights to worry about what can be done or should be done about the direct primary system of nominating candidates for public office were fatuously of the belief that the recent vote in Maine would give them a line on what the people of the country really want. They are still sitting up nights and worrying.

It is true that the people of Maine voted to retin the primary system, and that the vote was decisive — practically 2 to 1. It is equally true, however, that barely a fourth of the qualified voters of the State were sufficiently interested to go to the polls and register their wishes.

Any one who can figure out what the decision of two-thirds of one-fourth of the voters of the State of Maine means in relation to the wishes of all of the voters of the United States is conceded to be the winner of the lead pencil that has an eraser on both ends. That is the kind of pencil that the politicians use when they take the returns from a few scattered precincts and use them as the basis for a computation as to the result of a primary or an election and it is looked upon as an invaluable prize —to or for politicians.

One of the few political leaders who are not in doubt as to whether the vote in Maine means anything or as to what it means is Miss Belle Sherwin, president of the National League of Women Voters. She said immediately that Maine's decision to retain the direct primary system of nominating candidates should be accepted as another barometer of the primary's increasing popularity with thinking voters.

"The decisive vote in Maine can mean but one thing to those who have vigilantly stood by the direct primary system," said Miss Sherwin. "It means that voters are giving more intelligent thought to the instrument of election procedure which make possible a majority voice in public affairs. Public-spirited men and women in Maine, who opposed efforts of a small and seemingly powerful minority to bring about the return to the discredited caucus and convention nominating system, are to be warmly congratulated. Vigilance in behalf of a measure affecting the welfare of democratic government has again been rewarded."

Politicians of masculine persuasion who were interested in the Maine vote on the primary question are up in the air a bit higher than they were before Maine traditionally and presumptively pointed the way. All of them are disappointed, and that goes for those who favor the primary system as well as for those who are opposed to it.

Men who believe that the direct primary is one of the fundamentals of good government in the United States think that if we are to have good government in this cuontry more than two-thirds of one-fourth of the people must be sufficiently interested to go to the polls and vote for what they want. They are not unduly enthused by a victory that appears to have been won because nobody was fighting on the other side.

Men who are opposed to the primary are even less happy over the returns from Maine. It is not easy to explain a defeat as it is to interpret an adequate or unsatisfactory victory. Nevertheless they say that the primary system has been damned rather than vindicated.

They point to the paucity of the total vote. They say this means that the masses of the people are not interested in the primary system of nominating candidates. And a few of them are so brash as to contend that the majority of the American people do not care how or by whom they are governed, so long as taxes are not absolutely confiscatory and they are not policed in all their daily activities.

These opponents of the primary even go so far as to say that the only way to get any considerable percentage of American voters to go to the polls in a primary is to buy their votes, or — to put it more euphemistically — to employ them for the day. To the suggestion that that is an unwarranted indictment of American citizenship they make answer that it is justified by the evidence gathered by the "slush fund" investigation committee of the United States Senate and call particular attention to what happened in the recent senatorial primaries in Pennsylvania and Illinois.

OHIOANS WHO SAT ON THE FENCE

In the Maine vote on the primary system, they say, had anybody been sufficiently interested in the result to be willing to spend a considerable sum of money a far greater number of votes would have been polled and the result might have been different. They do not say that because they regard the people of Maine as especially venal, but because they believe it to have been fairly well established that it takes money to carry a primary or to get out a large vote in almost any State in the Union. They cite the case of the Ohioans who sat on the fence, in support of their somewhat pessimistic contention.

Corruption in primaries and elections is supposed to center in the big cities, but in this Ohio case it was found that rural voters are quite as responsive to financial reasoning as their urban brothers and sisters possibly can be. The region concerned was a county that is almost entirely rural and that embraces neither a town nor city of any size. The testimony adduced was to the effect that for a number of years practically nobody had voted in that county without first having been paid to exercise his great prerogative as an American citizen. The voters would go to the polls and sit on the near-by fences until somebody came along with the war chest.

The established minimum price for a vote was two dollars and it was the maximum price also, save on rare occasions when for some extraordinary reason five-dollar bills were in circulation.

But—and here is a question of ethics to trouble churchmen and one of law to intrigue lawyers — those Ohio prostitutes of citizenry virtue could not be bought to vote against their political convictions! They were Republicans or Democrats and they voted according to their faith, once they had been "seen," as the vernacular went. Otherwise they continued to sit on the fence. That is to say that here was a considerable number of American citizens who insisted upon being paid before they would vote their party tickets but who would not sell their votes to the opposition party. What they would do in a primary is not a matter of record.

The primary system of nominating candidates was brought forward because it was contended that the convention system opened the door to the corrupting of the proletariat by the party bosses and by "the interests." It was first adopted in Crawford County, Pennsylvania, along about Civil War times, but it was not seriously considered as a panacea for political ills until it was established in a Minnesota county — Hennepin — in 1899. Wisconsin first experimented with a state-wide primary, provided for by a law enacted in 1903.

Recently there has been complaint that primaries are more expensive than conventions, which is a polite way of saying that it is easier and less costly to buy delegates than it is to buy voters.

DAILY HINTS FOR HEALTH

YOU CAN HAVE APPETITE AND NOT BE HUNGRY

BY DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN
Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine

Many a person who is not hungry may still have a good appetite. The appetite sensation is a pleasant desire for food in contrast to the painful aspects of the hunger sensation.

People's appetites vary according to their race and education. Savages eat ants and puppy dogs with relish. Eskimos lick their chops over blubber. Mexicans enjoy hot spices. Scandinavians like raw fish, and Americans seem to prefer pie, ham and eggs and pork and beans.

Many people like their tomatoes with sugar, and others use vinegar, salt and pepper. It makes little difference which the average man uses so far as his digestion is concerned. The proverb that there is no accounting for tastes goes many hundreds of years back into civilization.

CHILDREN'S APPETITES

In his consideration of the appetites of children, Dr. Charles A. Aldrich points out that the laboratory experimenters have done little to account for the variations that occur. Maybe some chemical change in the blood, some pleasant emotion, such as the sight, taste or smell of palatable food usually brings on may be responsible.

Appetite can be spoiled by the sight, taste or smell of things that are unpleasant. Illness frequently destroys appetite and it is necessary to stimulate it by resort to foods prepared aesthetically and by studying carefully the desires of the invalid.

Just as soon as the person feels appetite the stomach begins to make preparations for the receipt of food. The mouth waters and the saliva that helps to digest starches begins to flow. The juices of the stomach are secreted, including the pepsin and the hydrochloric acid that digest the proteins. Obviously it is important to have appetite as an aid to digestion.

BAD APPETITES

Dr. Aldrich recognizes two types of children with bad appetites. First are underweight children who have not eaten enough to maintain proper nutrition. Such children show symptoms of hunger such as irritability and fatigue before meal times. They are likely to eat a few mouthfuls or gulp down a glass of milk to stop the hunger pains and then eat no more. The second type of children are those with poor appetites who have been urged or spanked into eating enough food to keep up their nutrition but who seldom feel the desire associated with hunger pains.

Due to poor appetite digestion may be slow and the stomach seldom empty completely so that the hunger pains will not come on. The child who is constantly disturbed at meals may have only unpleasant emotions associated with the idea of eating and therefore never have appetite. The matter is all very complicated and at the same time, when thoroughly reasoned out mechanically and mentally simple.

A NEW YORKER IN PARIS

By Gilbert Swan

London — London is what Kansas City would call a "ten o'clock town."

At midnight the London subways have tucked in and gone to bed. Since there has been little reason for good folk to stay out to this ungodly hour, there is little necessity for operating mediums of transport. Outside a few blinking neighborhood "pubs," in which you will find only those who can walk home or who can afford taxis, you find only stragglers from the Lyons tea rooms.

And right here you bang bluntly up against the contrast between night life as practiced in and about Broadway and in and about Piccadilly Circus. Lyons tea rooms are the playgrounds of those many strollers caught upon Regent street, the Strand and way points. Perhaps these strollers haven't enough money to buy their girls a drink at the bars; perhaps they don't care to go to bars—and so everybody and his brother shows up at Lyons. Lyons mounts floor upon floor over acres of space, each floor more crowded than the last and most of the patrons settled down to spend the evening listening to the orchestra. For the price of a dish of ice cream and a couple of cookies one can move right in and defy anyone to oust you. Long lines wait on stairways and hallways and about tables. But the turnover turns over very slowly. The average London job-holder has little money to spend and spends it slowly. He cannot toss about his greenbacks, shillings, or whatever they are. He must be as frugal as a chorus girl lunching at Childs in Manhattan.

Of course there are the night clubs. But anyone who can afford a London night club can afford to own a car. In Broadway big butter and egg men have been known to spend the price of a car in a single evening. But London is no place for a big butter man to be looking around for gaiety unless he has British friends. For night clubs in London are just what their names imply: they are clubs. London is very literal in such matters. If, as on Broadway, they weren't clubs at all but merely drop-in places for the jaded, London would say so.

So London night clubs are clubs in the strictest sense and only those who have crashed the gates of membership may drop in. Once one has crashed, the entertainment is not dissimilar to that found in any night club, except that it is likely to be politer. Also rules concerning drinking are actually enforced. Whereas hip flasks flash all over prohibition Broadway at any hour of the night, it is impossible to drink in a London night club once the midnight curfew sounds. The story was told me of some good clubbers who had failed to finish their beverages when the hour struck. The glasses were briskly whisked out from under them.

Such is the gay night life of the world's greatest city.

There still remain, however, the public dances, slight substitutes to what we know as "nickel crawls." And a few of these attempt to carry a night club atmosphere by having dancing interspersed with pretty bad entertainment.

So it remains that the world's largest city is a "ten-o'clock town." By 11, or thereabouts, the theaters have emptied and those who haven't gone directly home have stopped in a tea room. A very few have gone to their clubs. The lights of Picadilly Circus grow dim and somehow you expect a town crier with a lantern to come about the corner calling "Twelve o'clock and all's well."

QUEEN MARY'S MAID HAS MANY QUEER "DUTIES"

London—(AP)—Miss Jean Hamilton Bruce, who has been appointed maid of honor to Queen Mary, has some queer duties to perform under the ancient regulations.

The regulations declare that maids of honor shall "eat ham in the morning; ride over hedges and ditches on borrowed hacks; come home in the heat of the day in a fever, with a red mark on the forehead from an uneasy hat. They must chatter an hour and thence to dinner."

Miss Bruce obtains many social advantages with the appointment and probably will have £1,000 on her marriage—a rule which was instituted by Queen Victoria.

THIS HAS HAPPENED

A woman's gloves and handbag are found at the scene of Benson's murder and Markham, tracing them to Miss St. Clair, has her brought to his office. She makes flippant answers to his questions but betrays concern when Markham asks if Leacock had not owned a Colt 45, the same type of gun that killed Benson. Vance tells Markham he is certain of the girl's innocence.

NOW BEGIN THE STORY

* * *

CHAPTER XVIII

"I believe you chaps have another hallucination about crime," continued Vance, "—namely, that the criminal always returns to the scene of the crime. This weird notion is even explained on some recondite and misty psychological ground.

"But, I assure you, psychology teaches no such prepost'rous doctrine If ever a murderer returned to the body of his victim for any reason other than to rectify some blunder he had made, then he is a subject for Broadmoor — or Bloomingdale. . . . How easy it would be for the police if this fanciful notion were true! They'd merely have to sit down at the scene of a crime play bezique or Mah Jongg until the murderer returned, and then escort him to the bastile, what?

"The true psychological instinct in anyone having committed a punishable act, is to get as far away from the scene of it as the limits of this world will permit."[*]

"In the present case, at any rate," Markham reminded him, "we are neither waiting inactively for the murder to out, nor sitting in Benson's living-room trusting to the voluntary return of the criminal."

"Either course would achieve success as quickly as the one you are now pursuing," Vance said.

"Not being gifted with your singular insight," retorted Markham, "I can only follow the inadequate processes of human reasnoing."

"No doubt," Vance agreed commiseratingly. "And the results of your activities thus far force me to the conclusion that a man with a handful of legalistic logic can successfully withstand the most obst'nate and heroic assaults of ordin'ry common sense."

Markham was piqued.

"Still harping on the St. Clair woman's innocence, eh? However, in view of the complete absence of any tangible evidence pointing elsewhere, you must admit I have no choice of courses."

"I admit nothing of the kind," Vance told him; "for, I assure you, there is an abundance of evidence pointing elsewhere. You simply failed to see it."

"You think so!" Vance's nonchalant cocksureness had at last overthrown Markham's equainimity. "Very well, old man: I hereby enter an emphatic denial to all your fine theories: and I challenge you to produce a single piece of this evidence which you say exists."

He threw his words out with asperity, and gave a curt, aggressive gesture with his extended figures, to indicate that, as far as he was concerned, the subject was closed.

Vance, too, I think, was pricked a little.

"Y' know, Markham old dear, I'm no avenger of blood, or vindicator of the honor of society. The role would bore me."

Markham smiled loftily, but made no reply.

Vance smoked meditatively for a while. Then, to my amazement, he turned calmly and deliberately to Markham, and said in a quiet, matter-of-fact voice:

"I'm going to accept your challenge. It's a bit alien to my tastes; but the problem, y' know, rather appeals to me: it presents the same diff'culties as the Concert Champetre affair—a question of disputed authorship, as it were."[]

Markham abruptly suspended the motion of lifting his cigar to his lips. He had scarcely intended his challenge literally: it had been uttered more in the nature of a verbal defiance: and hes crutinized Vance a bit uncertainly.

Little did he realize that the other's casual acceptance of his unthinking and but half-serious challenge, was to alter the entire criminal history of New York.

"Just how do you intend to proceed?" he asked.

Vance waved his hand carelessly.

"Like Napoleon, je m'en gage, et puis je vois. However, I must have your word that you'll give me every possible assistance, and will refrain from all profound legal objections."

Markham pursed his lips. He was frankly perplexed by the unexpected manner in which Vance had met his defiance.

But immediately he gave a good-natured laugh, as if, after all, the matter was of no serious consequence.

"Very well," he assented. "You have my word. . . . And now what?"

After a moment Vance lit a fresh cigaret, and rose languidly.

"First," he announced, "I shall determine the exact height of the guilty person. Such a fact will, no doubt, come under the head of indicat'ry evidence—eh, what?"

Markham stared at him incredulously.

"How, in Heaven's name, are you going to do that?"

"By these primitive deductive methods to which you so touchingly pin your faith," he answered easily. "But come; let us repair to the scene of the crime."

He moved toward the door, Markham reluctantly following in a state of perplexed irritation.

"But you know the body was removed," the latter protested; "and the place by now has no doubt been straightened up."

"Thank Heaven for that!" murmured Vance. "I'm not particularly fond of corpses; and untidiness, y' know, annoys me frightfully."

As we emerged into Madison Avenue, he signaled to the commissionnaire for a taxicab, and without a word, urged us into it.

"This is all nonsense," Markham declared ill-naturedly, as we started on our journey up town. "How do you expect to find any clues now? By this time everything has been obliterated."

"Alas, my dear Markham," lamented Vance, in a tone of mock solicitude, "how woefully deficient you are in philosophic theory! If anything, no matter how inf'nitesimal, could really be obliterated, the universe, y' know, would cease to exist—the cosmic problem would be solved, and the Creator would write Q. E. D. across an empty firmament.

"Our only chance of going on with this illusion we call Life, d'ye see, lies in the fact that consciousness is like an inf'nite decimal to complete the decimal, one-third, by filling a whole sheet of paper with the numeral three? You always had the fraction, one-third, left don't y' know. If you could have eliminated the smallest one-third, after having set down ten thousand threes, the problem would have ended.

"So with life, my dear fellow. It's only because we can't erase or obliterate anything that we go on existing."

He made a movement with his fingers, putting a sort of tangible period to his remarks, and looked dreamily out of the window at the fiery film of sky.

Markham had settled back into his corner, and was chewing morosely at his cigar.

I could see he was fairly simmering with impotent anger at having let himself be goaded into issuing his challenge. But there was no retreating now.

As he told me afterward, he was fully convinced he had been dragged forth out of a comfortable chair, on a patent and ridiculous fool's errand.

[*] In "Popular Fallacies About Crime" (Saturday Evening Post; April 21, 1923, p. 8) Sir Basil Thompson also upheld this point of view.

[] For years the famous Concert Champetre in the Louvre was officially attributed to Titian. Vance, however, took it upon himself to convince the Curator, M. Lepelletier, that it was a Giorgione, with the result that the painting is now credited to that artist.

3 KAUKAUNA DRUNKS GET JAIL SENTENCES

Three men arrested at Kaukauna Sunday by R. H. McCarty, chief of police on charges of drunkenness, were given jail sentences when arraigned before Judge Theodore Berg in municipal court Monday morning. A fourth offender was fined $10 and costs. They were:

Otto Smith, arrested on Third-st, fined $10 and costs; George Riley and John Trudell, at North Western railway depot, five days each; Joseph Buechel, arrested on Second-st, 30 days in jail. Buechel was in a very nervous condition as the result of his "jag" and the judge decided it would take 30 days for him to sober up.

Home-made, but Ends Coughs In a Hurry

A family supply of dependable cough medicine. Easily made and saves about $2

If you have a severe cough or chest cold, with soreness, throat tickle, hoarseness, or difficult breathing, or if your child wakes up at night with a hoarse cough, and you want quick help, try this reliable old home-made cough remedy. Any druggist can supply you with 2½ ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup. Or use clarified honey, if desired. This makes a pint of really remarkable cough remedy. It tastes good, and in spite of its low cost, can be depended upon to give quick and lasting relief.

You can feel this take hold of a cough in a way that means business. It loosens and raises the phlegm, stops throat tickle and soothes and heals the irritated membranes of the throat and bronchial tubes with an ease and promptness that is really astonishing.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract and palatable guaiacol, and is probably the best known means of overcoming severe coughs, throat and chest colds.

There are many worthless imitations of this mixture. To avoid disappointment, ask for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co. Ft. Wayne, Ind.

FACULTY ADVISORS NEEDED IN SCHOOL

Wisconsin Student Says Possibilities of Such Office Are Undeveloped

Madison—(AP)—While there is need of faculty women advisors for girls in Wisconsin high schools, this state has yet to be taught its possibilities, is the conclusion of Mrs. Florence Clarke Stehn, Madison, is a thesis submitted for the bachelor of arts degree at the University of Wisconsin.

The study of Wisconsin schools was conducted under the supervision of Prof. J. L. Gillen, Wisconsin sociologist.

Of the 70 largest Wisconsin high schools, only 22 had faculty women advisors to girls in 1926. In Janesville, La Crosse, Madison, Marinette, Oshkosh, Sheboygan, and Superior the title dean of girls is given to the advisors. The title is girls' advisor in the high shools of Shawano, Wauwatosa, Waukesha and Watertown.

In Racine the secretary to the principal performs the duties of counseling the girls. Advisory work is done by the advisor to the girl's league in Wausau and Berlin, while assistant principals in Fond du Lac, Madison East, and New Richmond high schools also are advisors to girls.

Heavy teaching work on the part of these "school mothers" does not allow them sufficient time for their advisory duties, Mrs. Stehn found.

Mrs. Stehn contends that the practice of giving disciplinary power to the advisors is wrong. She maintains that drastic action of disciplinary nature should be the result of decision by a discipline committee, with the advisor acting as attorney for the girl.

Her study showed that 10 of the 22 advisors handle discipline cases alone; 5 have nothing to do with discipline; and that 7 worked with the principal or the committee.

Vocational guidance and follow-up work obviously should be one of the major functions of a dean of girls but Mrs. Stehn found that only two advisors compiled vocational guidance information, and only three did any follow-up work at all.

"Our state, her school boards, and superintendents, need to be aroused to the far-reaching possibilities of advisory work in the schools. In this educational project Wisconsin is not pioneer," Mrs. Stehn concludes.

RESORT PROPRIETOR IS FINED BY JUDGE

Pays $100 and Costs for Illegal Possession of Intoxicating Liquor

Gus Knorr, arrested last week following a raid on a resort operated by the Appleton Pleasure club at 1424 S. Pierce-ave, pleaded guilty to a charge of illegal possession of intoxicating liquor in municipal court before Judge Theodore Berg Monday morning and was fined $100 and costs. John Smith, an attendant on duty when the raid was made, who also had been arrested, was exonerated by Judge Berg when Knorr testified that he was guilty and Smith knew nothing of the liquor.

The raid was made Sunday night, Oct. 30, by a squad of police under George T. Prim, chief. A Halloween party was in progress when the raid was made. Half a pint of alleged moonshine was confiscated. Knorr also pleaded guilty to a charge of operating a dance without a permit last Saturday and he was fined $5 and costs on that count.

SAINT AND SINNER

By Anne Austin

Before they had circled the large living room, gracious and colorful and dim, almost cathedral-like in its Gothic windows, its vaulted ceiling and rich walnut furniture and Oriental rugs Faith felt that she had never really danced before. The magnetism of Bruce Patton flowed from his trim, smart body into hers, drew her irresistibly into perfect accord with the rhythm of his pulse and the rhythm of the music.

She felt Cherry's eyes upon her, as her sister danced dispiritedly, sulkily, with George Pruitt. She felt, too, the blue, angry fire of Bob's eyes playing upon her, sending out mute, powerful waves of protest. But she could not subdue this rare brilliance that had come upon her, could not force herself to become awkward and breathless and tired of the dance.

He had been murmuring compliments upon her dancing, his voice a soft insinuating caress, and she had been parrying them with a sudden new expertness that amazed even as it exhilarated her. But when he said, holding her suddenly more closely, so that the natural attitude of the dance became a deliberate embrace, "Gorgeous thing! And Cherry said you were cold! You!" She was frightened.

"I'm tired," she murmured, making her contralto voice plaintive. "Dance with Cherry now, Mr. Patton."

"You're afraid of me!" he exulted "Dance with Cherry? I'm going to dance with you all evening, and I shall fight a duel with anyone who tries to cut in on us Your husband, by the way, seems to be a master of plain and fancy glowering. Fearful habit to get into really. How did you ever happen to marry a Nordic?" A teasing note crept into his ardent voice, but his smoldering eyes did not laugh at her. They drew her urgently until she felt herself drowning in their black depths.

With a great effort she wrenched her own eyes away, half closed them as if to steady herself after a moment of faintness. "Because I loved him," she answered his spoken question, rather than the urgent demands of his eyes.

"And how you can love!" he murmured huskily, drawing her close again. "And how little your husband understands the magnificence of the treasure he has won! You—"

"Please, you musn't!" Faith gasped. "I've had so little experience in the technique of flirting that you have an unfair advantage of me. I want to sit down, please—"

Fortunately the dance music came to an abrupt stop at that moment, and Bruce Patton's arm dropped slowly from her waist, his fingers trailing the length of her foearm to her waist. Dazed, a little uncertain of her equilibrium, she turned half-blindly toward the couch where Bob sat She was just in time to see Cherry fling herself into Bob's lap, her face ghastly white under her rouge, her eyes big, blazing disks of glittering gold.

"This seems to be a game of 'change your partners,' Bob darling!" her high voice rang out in the suddenly still room. "Come on! Let's show these amateurs what real love-making is! He thinks you're cold, but Cherry knows better! Kiss me—like you used to!"

NEXT Faith takes stock after the cyclone.

FRANCES BARTNETT'S MEMORIAL TO TOM MOORE SOON TO BE UNVEILED

To Frances Bartnett, American woman sculptor, has gone the honor of designing the memorial fountain that Bermuda is about to erect to the memory of Tom Moore, poet, who lived and wrote then under a big calabash tree in 1804 and whose "Last Rose of Summer" is still strummed by the natives.

Last winter while Mrs Bartnett and her husband, Walter John Bartnett, New York lawyer, were visiting in Bermuda, she became interested in the native historical society's drive to assemble a collection of Bermuda life and art.

Most prominent in Bermuda's artistic life of another day was Tom Moore. His genius, wit and charm have furnished the material for Bermuda sagas for over 100 years. Quite fittingly the society decided on a memorial for him

A HEROIC BUST

Mrs. Barinett's design of the Tom Moore fountain is a heroic bust of the poet, mounted on a pedestal against an old stone wall with a background of Bermuda cedars It seems more a shrine than a modern sculpture. But it has its utilitarian purpose, as well as artistic. for in Berumda, where there are no automobiles, beasts as well as men need to be refreshed with drink.

Funds for the memorial fund will be raised by the sale of miniature busts. Americans visiting Bermuda this winter will probably pay their quota.

Mrs. Bartnett's work is best known in California where her "Awakening" received a special award at the California Exposition and her statues of Lincoln, Joaquin Miller, Blavatsky and Dr. Joseph Le Conte, accepted by the city of San Francisco, stand in parks.

HER PARK STATUE

Her "Emancipation of Woman," in a Chicago park, is famous and her peace statue, representing the Universal Mother enthroned with the biblical lion and lamb lying together at her feet, while she holds the world in her lap and binds it with olive branches, received high praise.

Much of Mrs. Bartnett's study was in France, where she worked in the studios of Rodin and Ingelbert, in Paris.

The BABY

Why do so many, many babies of today escape all the little fretful spells and infantile ailments that used to worry mothers through the day, and keep them up half the night?

If you don't know the answer, you haven't discovered pure, harmless Castoria. It is sweet to the taste, and sweet in the little stomach. And its gentle influence seems felt all through the tiny system. Not even a distasteful dose of castor oil does so much good.

Fletcher's Castoria is purely vegetable, so you may give it freely, at first sign of colic; or constipation; or diarrhea. Or those many times when you just don't know what is the matter For real sickness, call the doctor, always At other times, a few drops of Fletcher's Castoria.

The doctor often tells you to do just that; and always says Fletcher's. Other preparations may be just as pure, just as free from dangerous drugs, but why experiment? Besides, the book on care and feeding of babies that comes with Fletcher's Castoria is worth its weight in gold!

THE TINYMITES

By Hal Cochran

READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE

The queer man thus had had his say, and so he floated far away. The Tinies watched him float along till he was out of sight. Then Carpy cried. "That's what I said. I told you that we need's dread the tap upon the barrel. Now I'm sure that it's all right."

Then Scouty broke out in a grin, and very shortly chimed right in. "Well, anyway, we all played safe, and after all, that's best. That queer man looked so strange to me that I was scared as I could be. I've never seen another creature in that manner dressed."

"Don't make me laugh," said Clowny loud. "It really makes me very proud to know I wasn't frightened. 'Course that's just because I'm brave." The other Tinies laughed, "He, he. Oh, yes, you're brave as you can be." It quite amused the bunch to hear wee boasting Clowny rave."

"Well, say, we're wasting time galore." the Tinies heard wee Coppy roar. "Who'll be the first to tap the barrel, just to show he's game?" "I'll gladly do it." Scouty cried, and then he walked up to its side. Said he, "if nothing happens, it will really be a shame."

"And then he tapped and tapped some more. It made the funny barrel roar. "You'll have to hit it harder." yelled the others full of glee. The fun in store shall not be missed. Just bang the barrell with your fist." "All right, I will." said Scouty, "Then we'll see what we shall see."

One more good bang, and Mercy me, the bunch were thrilled as they could be. In fact they all were so surprised, they almost took a flop. What came was more than they could hope. Out jumped a little jumping rope, and right behind it, also came a funny little top.

(The rope and top do tricks in the next story.)

WHAT IS TO BECOME OF HOME?

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

There are probably cases where it is temperamentally impossible for families to live together. If a battle royal is pulled off day after day and home becomes a ring for daily tryouts, it may be the best thing that could happen for the dissenting sister or brother or both, if they are financially able, to take up their beds and walk.

It is also understandable, if a girl, prepared for some special work and who can find no field for her trained activity in her home town, to seek residence in another environment so she may earn her living.

But it is difficult to figure out the rather deliberate movement of present-day maidens to seek their own quarters, away from the parental roof, often in an apartment not two squares away from home, but, more than likely on the other side of town.

I am afraid to criticize lest I join the ranks of scoffers who have ever stood in the path of woman's progress. But there are those among us, though we have marched right along with the crowd through the years, who have finally dropped by the wayside to watch the rest of the parade go by. And many of us are looking a bit bewildered and saying, "Haven't they gone far enough? Isn't there to be any stopping at all?'

Most of these business or professional girls who keep up their own establishments, have no ulterior motive in segregating themselves. They seek freedom of thought and action, freedom to work and freedom to play in their own way. Morally they are as straight as strings.

But I am thinking of parents. Are they facing a future of mere biological usefulness during the teething and measles period and of financial usefulness during the education age, merely to be cast aside like old shoes later on?

And the home? What is to become of it? If the home disintegrates I cannot see the end, can you?

JAPAN CHILDREN WILL SEND DOLLS TO U. S. CHILDREN

San Francisco— (AP) —Fifty-eight messengers of friendship from the children of Japan to the children of the United States will be welcomed November 25 when they arrive here on the Tenyo Maru.

They are dolls sent to express the appreciation of the children of Nippon for more than 10,000 dolls which the American children gave for the Doll Festival of Japanese girls.

The Ministry of Education sponsored the gesture of friendship and the dolls are being accompanied on the trans-Pacific voyage by R. Sekiya, former director of the education bureau.

Each doll is two feet seven inches in height excepting Miss Nippon, who is an inch taller. She is the gift of Princess Teru, first daughter of the Emperor and Empress.

The dolls represent the best efforts of the leading artists of Japan, and there is a special and individual design for each costume. The equipment of each consists of a wardrobe, bedding container, [illegible] toilet [illegible] stationery [illegible] Japanese [illegible] It [illegible] book on which the owners carried milady's wardrobe [illegible] the land. The [illegible] the wardrobe, which has five drawers, are lacquered black and embellished with gold designs.

The doll of Princess Teru," Miss Nippon," is the finest of the group. Its kimono is of scarlet "rinzu," or figured satin, with an obi or sash of gold brocade. Her household furniture and footwear are of the costliest materials. Her kimono and all her belongings carry the imperial chrysanthemum crest. Miss Nippon is valued at more than a thousand yen, equal to $500.

Five colonies, the six leading cities, 45 prefectures and Princess Teru are represented in the presents. Each prefecture was to hold a public farewell celebration for its representative doll with a grand farewell in Tokyo just before the [illegible] the ship sailed. The gift to the American children was made possible by contributions of a sen from each Japanese school child.

The final destination of the dolls has not been determined, but there are enough so that one can go to each state of the union. It is thought that "Miss Nippon" will be allotted to Washington, D. C., and "Miss Tokyo" [illegible] the largest doll, to New York City.

Trade depression in China is [illegible] largely to new laws passed or planned.

How To Play Bridge

By Milton C. Work

This week we are considering, in connection with the informatory double, situations which are of a more difficult character than those that usually arise Two hands are given each day and the answers are published the next day

YESTERDAY'S HAND

NO. 1	NO. 2
♠ A-Q-X	♠ A-K-J
♡ K-X-X	♡ K-10-X-X
◇ K-X-X	◇ K-X-X
♣ Q-X-X-X	♣ Q-10-X

Both of these hands are held by North; South (Dealer) has passed and West has bid one No Trump. What should North declare?

No. 1. North should pass His hand contains five high cards likely to take tricks and is what would be called a borderline double in the most advantageous position North is sitting over the player who has bid No Trump, which is the vantage position, but that player was not the Dealer The Dealer (North's partner) has shown a hand not strong enough for an initial bid, it may be a bust With a passing South and North's moderate strength, there is practically no chance of making game; but with North sitting over a No Trump, there is good chance of saving game. It is therefore a case for a pass and not a double.

No. 2. North should double. There are three differences between the two hands. Difference A is that No 2 has six high cards that probably will take tricks, whereas No 1 has only five. Six is considered the requisite for a double in this position. Difference B is that No 2 is much stronger in the Majors, being especially strong in Spades, whereas No. 1 has more moderate Spades strength. No. 2 has four Hearts, whereas No. 1 has but three No 2 offers a reasonable chance for a Major game if South have length in either Major; No. 1 offers little such probability. Difference C is that No 2 contains two Tens, both in combinations with which they are apt to be useful, No. 1 contains no Ten Today's hands are held by East South (Dealer) has bid one No Trump, West and North have passed and the question is What should East declare?

GOVERNMENT WILL PAY MORE RENT FOR ITS POSTOFFICE

Will Renew Lease With City for Space in Municipal Building on Island

Kaukauna—It is practically assured that Kaukauna's postoffice will remain in the municipal building, Mayor W. C. Sullivan said Monday. An agreement had been reached between the city and the government whereby the government will pay an increase in rent of practically $800. Originally the city wanted a $1200 increase but this has been cut to $800.

The lease, which is to run for three years, will be signed within the next few days. The mayor explained that the lease would have been signed by now but for a small technical point brought up by the government which since has been cleared. Mayor Sullivan was in receipt of a letter Monday from the assistant postmaster general's office which showed that the lease was acceptable to that department after the technicality was cleared up.

WANT MORE RENT

Heretofore the city received $100 per month rent for the building and gave the government the light and water gratis. In the last year Mayor Sullivan, J. O. Possen, manager of the utility department and other city officials felt that the rent was insufficient. They proposed to raise it to $2200 per year and have the government pay for the light and water which amounts to about $200 per year. Inspector Reindenbach of Green Bay believed this increase too steep and a compromise finally was effected whereby the government will pay $150 per month and the water and light bill with the understanding that the rent will be raised at the end of the three year period.

BOARD DIVIDED ON COMBINING CLASSES

Renew Agitation for Consolidating Manual Arts of High and Vocational Schools

Kaukauna—At a meeting of the board of education Monday evening in the high school offices it was found that the board was about evenly divided on the proposition of consolidating the manual arts departments of the high school and the vocational school and putting them under one head. This has been advocated for some time. Two years ago it was brought to the attention of the board of vocational education which promptly rejected it.

Superintendent J. F. Cavanaugh argued at the meeting that the proposed change would mean more efficiency. Lester Brenzel told the board he believed it would be more efficient but he couldn't see where any saving would be effected. In fact the city wouldn't receive as much state money under the plan. It was proposed to have each board pay half of the salary of the instructors in the manual arts department. At the present time the state pays one-half of the vocational school instructor's salary the state would be paying only one-fourth and the city taxpayers three-fourths. N. M. Haupt said. "We have troubles enough of our own, let it alone" while James McFadden told the board, "I wouldn't want them to dictate to us and I don't think they would care to have us dictate to them. Forgetting it would save us a lot of trouble."

President L. F. Nelson seemed to be in favor of the consolidation, believing it would ultimately benefit the city. It was suggested that the board meet with the vocational board in the near future and discuss the matter but a motion to adjourn was made and carried before any other motion could be proposed.

James McFadden was charged with installation of a heating plant in the high school to replace the one which blew out some time ago. He will advertise for bids shortly.

Social Items

Kaukauna—The kitchen committee of the Social Union of Brokaw Memorial Methodist church held a kitchen shower at the home of Mrs. Alex Conkey on Tuesday afternoon. The trip to the Conkey home was made by bus.

A regular meeting of the Women's Foreign Missionary society of Brokaw Memorial Methodist church will be held Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. William Ashe. Miss Lottie Bell is assistant hostess.

ORGANIZE VOLLEYBALL CLASSES FOR MEN

Kaukauna—Tired businessmen of the city will have their period of relaxation on Tuesday evening when the Businessmen's volleyball team meets at the high school gymnasium. Any business or professional man in the city interested in playing volleyball is invited to attend Tuesday evening. P. R. Magnis, local Y. M. C. A. secretary is in charge of the class.

The Post-Crescent's representative at Kaukauna is Gordon Patton. His telephone numbers are 298 J and 10. Business with The Post-Crescent may be transacted through Mr. Patton.

Form Harmonica Club For Junior High School Pupils

Kaukauna—Harmonicas can be said to be gaining in favor with the younger generation. Miss Wooster, city supervisor of music, has just completed organizing a Harmonica club among the Junior High school boys. The boys have been divided into two groups and each group practices twice a week. Harmonicas have been purchased by the boys and each student has been given an instruction sheet with the instrument.

"In the past people have looked down upon the harmonica as being something small and insignificant," the music supervisor said. "This is a decidedly wrong attitude. One should encourage the playing of the harmonica for it may interest people in music who would not have become acquainted with music in any other way. After interest has once been stimulated it is quited probable they will want to play some instrument. Peter W. Dykema, professor of music education at Columbia University, once said,' Inspiring everyone to play a musical instrument means laying the foundation for much happiness and contentment. No instrument is better adapted to universal use than the harmonica. May the time soon come when every man, woman and child will feel it is an important part of their equipment.' "

SULLIVAN CHAIRMAN OF SALVATION ARMY DRIVE

Kaukauna— Mayor W. C. Sullivan has been appointed general chairman for Kaukauna for the Salvation Army campaign for funds to be held Nov. 14 to 26. The county's share has been set at $4,000, and Kaukauna's quota is approximately $300.

The mayor said Monday evening he hoped to have an organization in the city take over the drive. The American Legion was mentioned as a possible organization to take charge. No definite date has been set for the drive in the city.

DE PERE MAN WINS 1ST PRIZE IN SKAT TOURNEY

Kaukauna—Peter Van De Voort of De Pere won first prize in the skat tournament held at the Grand View hotel on Sunday afternoon and evening with twenty-one good hands. Second prize went to Louis Vetsch of Kaukauna who made 884 good points. About one hundred and thirty skat players from Kaukauna, Dundas, Hollandtown, Wrightstown, De Pere, Little Chute, Darboy, Hilbert, Chilton, Appleton and Kimberly participated in the tournament.

Other prize winners were: third, F. W. Bauer of Weyauwega; fourth, Joseph Zink of Kaukauna; fifth, William J. Nerhaus of Weyauwega; sixth, Victor Brantmeier of Hilbert; seventh, L. Weiss of Little Chute; eighth, Jacob Leicht of Kaukauna; ninth, Matt Nelle of Hilbert; tenth, O. F. Dalke of Appleton, eleventh, John Leick of Kaukauna; twelfth, Adolph Ristau of Kaukauna; thirteenth, James McFadden of Kaukauna; fourteenth, Peter Redermacher of Dundas; fifteenth, Jacob Gertz of Kaukauna; sixteenth, Dan Collins of Kaukauna; seventeenth P. Denny of Appleton; eighteenth, W. Butler of New London.

REORGANIZE BAND IN KAUKAUNA HIGH SCHOOL

Kaukauna — The Kaukauna High school band has been reorganized and practice under the new plan was started on Monday by Mr. Thompson of the Lawrence Conservatory of Music, an assistant of Director Edward Mumm.

Practice will be held three days a week, Mondays, Wednesday and Fridays. Students have been divided into groups according to their instruments and will practice at different periods throughout the day. It is believed that the band will be ready to play at some of the basketball games this winter.

ATHLETIC CONFERENCE MEETS IN GREEN BAY

Kaukauna—The special meeting of the Northeastern Wisconsin Interscholastic conference called for last Wednesday evening in Milwaukee was postponed until the third week in November. It will be held in Green Bay. Not enough representatives from the conference arrived in Milwaukee in time to warrant holding the meeting at that time.

SEEK $1,000 COUNTY AID FOR WINTER FAIR

Kaukauna—Ben Prugh, president of the Kaukauna Advancement association, and W. P. Hagman, chairman of last winter's mid-winter fair, will appear before the county board at its November session to again request an appropriation for the fair. It is expected that the request will be for $1,000.

Although nothing definite has been done toward holding the fair again, Mr. Prugh said. Fairs have been held during the past four years.

KAUKAUNA PERSONALS

Kaukauna—Charles Vanevenhoven spent the weekend at the University of Wisconsin with his daughter, Valery, and on Saturday attended the Father's Day program at the school.

BOOK WEEK WILL BE EMPHASIZED IN CITY

Special Emphasis Will Be Placed on Correct Books for Children

The children's department of Appleton public library will emphasize Book week, which begins Nov. 13 and continues through Nov. 19, according to Mrs. Nellie D. Harriman, children's librarian. Book week is a special reminder of guidance toward good books for children and adults.

Several displays will be made of the various types of libraries. A number of books representative of Any-Child's library will be exhibited. An average girl's library and an average boy's library will be shown. These will contain books not only of what the child should have but what he would like. The new books of 1927 will be on display in a section by themselves.

Posters will be placed about the children's department, bearing such slogans as "Happy is the Child With Books" and "Better Books for Better Children."

A list of the new books added to the children's department of the public library includes:

"Betty Jane and the Cheer Shop." E. C. Barrett; "Complete playcraft book." Patten Beard; "Poor Cecco," N. W. Bianco; "Polish fairy tales," M. A. Briggs; "Young folks' book of invention," T. C. Puts An End To Bunion Pains

No Need to Suffer Another Day

There is one simple yet inexpensive way to reduce inflammation of swollen toe joints and help get them down to normal and that is to apply Moone's Emerald Oil night and morning.

Ask Voigt's Drug Store, Schlintz Bros. Co., or any first class druggist for an original two-ounce bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil (full strength) and refuse to accept anything in its place. It is such a highly concentrated preparation that two ounces lasts a long time and furthermore if one bottle Emerald Oil does not give you complete satisfaction you can have your money refunded.

Special note: People who want to reduce swollen or varicose veins should get a bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil at once. Applied night and morning as directed they will quickly notice an improvement which will continue until the veins and bunches are reduced to normal. adv.

Prescribed Temptations Are In Vogue At School

Madison— (AP) —"Prescribed temptations" are the vogue at the University of Wisconsin high school.

Prof. Harry L. Miller, principal of the state university high school revealed that it is rivaling in the secondary field, the University experimental college, now famous with its no-classroom work.

The high school operated in conjunction with the school of education of the university, is seeking with the experimental college, new ways of stimulating students to learn.

Prof. Miller, who has lectured widely before teachers' associations on the new plan of secondary school teaching, has embodied its principles in a book.

This approach to secondary education stresses the effect of the student's independent work as a learner with direction, not tutelage, by the teacher.

The most highly developed part of the new "creative learning," is the "contract plan" of lesson assignment now in use in some of the other public schools of Wisconsin and other states.

Under the "contract plan," the student is offered his choice from a list of assignments of increasing difficulty. The first assignment or "contract" will yield a maximum grade of fair, the second, which includes the first and additional work involving greater originality, will yield a grade of good, and the third assignment, including both the others and still more original work, will give the highest grade. Prof. Miller prefers to designate the assignments as "prescribed temptations" for students capable of the first, second, or third grade of mastery of the subject."

STAGE And SCREEN

SYMPATHETIC FRENCH VERSION OF HUGO

(From the New York Times)

The faithful reproduction of Victor Hugo's epic of French life, "Les Miserables" at Fischer's Appleton theatre today and Wednesday could not fail to produce a notable motion picture. The great struggle between Jean Valjean and Javert, a conflict between legal justice and humanity, the stupendous canvas on which Hugo painted with all his genius the misery, wickedness and tragedy of life, form in sympathetic French hands, a powerful drama of the screen.

"Les Miserables" should be filmed nowhere except in France. It breathes the very spirit of France of the days of Hugo's great hero. The prison camp, where Jean first comes under the eye of Javert, the peaceful days in the little town of which he became mayor after kindliness had rekindled the spark of humanity which always glowed deep down in the man, the inn at which Jean found the heartbreaking figure of little Cosette, the scenes in Paris, all are French as no imitation could possibly be.

The forces which mold Jean have been well portrayed by M. Gabrio, who plays the difficult part of that powerful man. His finding of Cosete is one of the most touching and delightful things in the entire picture. Little Gavrouche, the gay street gamin, who dies in front of the barricades singing the Marseillaise, is another unusual figure, well done by a boy actor.

The picture is a realistic portrayal of the famous story.

FOREIGNERS ASKED TO SPEAK SOFTLY HERE

Paris—(AP)— A group of restaurant proprietors in the Temple quarter, one of the oldest of Paris, has this card in each of their restaurants:

"Here French is spoken; if you speak another language speak softly."

It is explained that the quarter has recently become very popular with thousands of students and others from all the countries of Central Europe, and that the restaurants, particularly have become a perfect babel of tongues.

DIVISION OF TIPS IN HOTELS OF GERMANY

Berlin—(AP)—Head waiters in Germany receive half again as big a share of the tips as the waiters who actually serve, according to figures published by a number of leading hotels.

In northern Germany, as in many other European countries, 10 per cent are added to the hotel guest's bills in lieu of pre-war tips. This 10 per cent tax is pooled under strict supervision and divided according to the following scale:

Head waiter, 12 parts; second waiter, 10; porter, 10; room waiter, 8; night porter, 7½; boots, 5; elevator boy, 4½; chambermaid, 3½; telephone operator, 3; cloakroom attendent, 2½; elder page, 2; younger page, 1; "piccolo," or very small page, 7-10; still smaller piccolo, just beginning his career, one-half.

Irish Setter Mothers Lioness' Abandoned Cubs

Oakland, Calif.—(AP)—When Simba and Princess, lion cubs, were born at the Oakland municipal zoo 14 months ago, their own mother evaded her maternal responsibilities as lionesses in captivity are wont to do.

1 prize Irish setter, Red Comet O'Shagstone, the property of Mrs. Nancy Lee Nanetti, came to the rescue of the abandoned cubs and cared for them, continuing also to mother 14 little ones of her own.

Both puppies and lions grew, and "Mother" O'Shagstone showed no favorism. But when Simba got to be about 200 pounds, his ponderous methods of showing affection for his foster mother by hugging her with his husky paws became to much for her, and it was feared the cub would crush the dog.

So the lion cubs were taken away from the mothering dog and at once they began to mope and pine away and roar dolefully. Princess became weak, and Simba ugly.

Finally Mrs. Nanetti was asked to bring back the setter which had mothered the animals—and when they saw the dog they roared their rejoicing. Now the lions, back in the care of the mother which adopted them, are healthy and happy again, but Simba is more boisterously affectionate toward Red Comet O'Shagstone than ever, and she is becoming afraid of his playful rushes.

Mayor Davies, the zoo officials and Mrs. Nanetti are seeking a King Solomon who can find a way to protect the dog and to keep the lions happy too.

Highly skilled glass blowers of Belgium, thrown out of employment by the introduction of new machinery which turns out more of the product with fewer machines, are seeking work in other lines or finding positions in glass factories of other countries.

Edward Glover, recently discharged from a Lowden workhouse, made $200,000 in one year at horse-racing, at which he was long successful until two years ago, when his health broke down and financial reverses left him penniless.

ST. JOSEPH GRIDDERS WALLOP GREEN BAY JUNIOR CHAMPS

Appleton Boys Outplay Cathedral High Eleven To Capture 28-14 Game

Local Lads, Led by Captain Grieshaber, Keep Slate Clean for 1927 Season

St. Joseph school gridders continued their record of victories Sunday afternoon at Green Bay when they outclassed Green Bay's junior high school champions, the strong Cathedral Catholic junior high, 28-14, at the City stadium. After the game was well underway the Bay champions stood little show with the local boys, who have cleaned up everything in their class in the Valley and have lost one game this year, that to the Appleton high school second squad, part of which has seen plenty of service with the Orange regulars in Valley conference games this year. The seconds won, 6-0, after a hard battle. The St. Joe men have a standing challenge to the Roosevelt junior highs 1926 and 1927 champions of the city junior high league.

The first quarter was even with both teams battling around midfield most of the period. Frank and a Green Bay man staged a fine punting duel. Soon after the start of the second period a series of St. Joseph passes placed the ball on the Bay 20-yard line. Frank shot off tackle for 19 and Grieshaber plunged over for the first marker. The Appleton kick was good.

Green Bay received and after a return of 20 yards passed its way to a touchdown and tied the score with a kick, 7-7. Appleton received and Frank carried the ball for gain after gain over left tackle and guard, finally sprinting 30 yards for a marker. With two minutes left to play for the half, Green Bay received Frank's kickoff and fumbled, Schedemeyer of Appleton recovering. Rechner and Bartman plunged the ball over for a marker on three successive plays just as the whistle blew and the half ended 21-7 for Appleton.

RUNS 60 YARDS

Again in the third period the teams battled evenly and the final period started out the same way. With four minutes to play Grieshaber intercepted a Bay pass and move his way through a broken field 60 yards to a marker. A kick was good and Appleton led, 28-7 With three minutes left Coach Mel Heinritz, former Appleton high school lineman, sent in an entire new team for St. Joe and the Baymen made their second marker on a long end run in the final 45 seconds of play, making the final score 28-14.

The St. Joe line worked well the entire game and blocked two Green Bay punts. Capt. Grieshaber led his team by playing steller ball and Bartman, Rechner, and Frank played in Valley conference high school style in the St. Joe rear wall. St. Joe has won four games with the same class foes this year without a loss, scoring 115 points, or an average of 39 points a game, to opponents 26, or 7 a game. Coach Heinritz's team Sunday was opposed by a squad coached by Tom "Red" Hearden, co-captain and fullback at Notre Dame last year and present Green Bay Packer player.

GEORGETOWN LEADER IS REAL SPORTSMAN TO RIVAL ELEVENS

Washington, D. C.—(AP)—Georgetown university has a candidate for the all-American eleven, who already has clinched a position on the all-American honor roll of sportsmen.

He is Claude Grigsby, captain and center of the Big Blue and Gray team, and a starter in 27 successive games since making the team in his sophomore year three seasons ago.

Saturday Grigsby led his eleven to a 27 to 2 victory over LaFayette.

LaFayette in the midst of a drive that already had covered 30 yards, suffered an injpry. About to take time out, Captain Cothran remarked he had already exhausted his quota for the half.

Grigby overheard him. Finding he had one more time out left, he said:

"I'll take time out for LaFayette. Charge it to Georgetown."

MAROONS, PURPLE HURT BY INJURIES

Capt. Ken Rouse, Chicago, Tiny Lewis, Northwestern, May Be Out

Chicago—(AP)—What faint hopes exist at Chicago and Northwestern for victory in remaining Big Ten games were diminished Tuesday with reports on the poor condition of their two stars.

Ken Rouse, the Chicago captain and Gibralter of the team's defense hobbled through practice Monday. He was one of several casualties in the Chicago-Michigan games.

Tiny Lewis, Northwestern's plunging back, may not be able to play this weekend. The trainers have not yet reported on the extent of the leg injuries suffered at Purdue.

Both Chicago and Northwestern have been spoken of as "one man" teams, due to their success when their stars are in the lineup and their poor showing when the stars go out.

The Big Ten also has a pair of "two man" teams, Michigan and Purdue. Michigan goes well when Louis Gilbert and Benny Oosterbaan are in lineup but the Illini disaster showed the elevens suffer without them.

Cotton Wilcox and Pest Wilch are equally helpful to Purdue.

Coach Ingwersen of Iowa is still looking for a one-man, two-man or any other kind of a combination which will bring about a Big Ten Victory, the first in two seasons. Schmidt and Skelly were to return to the Iowa squad Tuesday, recovered from injuries.

The Wisconsin coaches drove the Cardinal squad in a hard drill Monday in an effort to get more punch and better blocking in preparation for the Hawkeye invasion Saturday. Shoemaker, pivot man who was called home by the death of his father, is unlikely to return and Thistlethewaite had sent in Big Bill Conry of Janesville for the job.

Rebholz after his terrific line plunging last Saturday is the favorite for the fullback job.

Bitter weather hit Illinois and Indiana camps Monday night, sleet at Illinois and a blinding snowstorm at Indiana, but preparations for a conference victory went ahead notwithstanding. Coach Zuppke surprised his Illinois squad with a stiff defensive scrimmage Monday shuffling his 15 line candidates about to stop the reserves and freshmen.

The line, too, was the center of Coach Page's attention at Indiana. The Minnesota squad began two weeks of planning for the downfall of Michigan by a day of complete rest from football. The Gophers meet Drake Saturday.

Michigan began a week of secret drill for the Navy visit with the gopher battle in the offing.

Assistant Coach Jack Blott reported on the Navy's power after which the leaders went into a huddle to decide how much of their strategy they could afford to use on the middies.

RED SAYS THERE'S TOO MUCH GRIEF AS COACH

New York —(AP)— Red Grange Tuesday turned thumbs down on the idea of ever becoming a football coach. Neither will he tote any more ice. It causes rheumatism he declares.

"If there's any body in the world who takes more grief in the form of criticism than the President of the United States" and said Red, "it's the coach of a college football team. None of that for mine."

With his fiery thatch on a pillow while the coach and trainer of his New York Yankees wrapped steaming woolen blankets around his right leg, Red allowed he'd stay in the professional game a few years more. This year he expects also to make another movie or two. He has water on the knee. It was in a game with the Bears three weeks ago that Grange suffered the injury, the first serious mishap that has overtaken him in his long foootball career.

Star for Pro Eleven

Mule Wilson, former Texas A. and M. grid star, is now playing a great game with the New York Giants' eleven.

Omaha, Neb.—Mike Roszall, Omaha, won by a technical knockout from Morrie Schlaifer, Omaha (3).

High School Cagers Open Practice For 1928 Year

Marinette—(AP)—High schools of the state which do not include football in their athletic program are already working out their basketball schedule. With the close of the football season, other schools will start at once to prepare for the long road which will carry them into the district tournaments in March, and perhaps the state tourney held at the University of Wisconsin the last four days in March.

Paul F. Neverman, Marinette, secretary of the state interscholastic association has recently issued instructions covering the district and state tournaments. The district competitions are all to be held between Mar. 14 and Mar. 17.

The teams for each district tournament will be selected, Mr. Neverman says, from those in the district who present the best record. Teams will be chosen for their strength, and not merely on the percentage of games won. To be eligible, each team must have played at least six games within the state.

No team may use more than eight men during a tournament, although a school official may certify as many as he wishes to the eligibility committee. A bronze trophy will be awarded the team winning the tourney, and gold, silver and bronze medals will be given to the eight members of the teams placing first, second and third. A bronze competitors award will be given to each boy taking part in the competition who is not a member of the three teams placing.

Because overtime games in tournaments often become endurance contests, the association has provided the following method of deciding tie games. Not more than one overtime period is to be played by competing teams. In case the game remains a tie at the end of the first overtime period, the team having scored the largest number of points by field goals shall be the winner, the final score of the game to be based on field the score still leaves the game a tie, goals only. If this means of figuring each boy participating in the overtime period is to be given one free throw, and the side scoring the most will be declared winner of the game.

The state tournament will be held at the University gymnasium in Madison Mar. [illegible], and the winners of the sixteen regular district tournaments are eligible to compete in it. The schedule of the state tourney calls for 27 games, and all teams will play only one game a day, with the exception of the two teams which remain to contest for third place.

TEXAS GRIDDERS PROVE SENSATION

Texans Wallop Missouri, Conquerors of Northwestern, 32-9

BY BILLY EVANS

In a topsy-turvy football season, probably the most unusual in gridiron annals, the State of Texas has done more than its share in upsetting the dope.

When the final roundup of the 1927 football season is made, the experts must turn in the direction of the Lone Star state and give the teams of the Southwestern Conference more than passing consideration.

The Southwestern Conference is made up of six universities in the state of Texas and one in Arkansas which has been a literal hothouse for great athletes, particularly in baseball. Outstanding among the Texas teams is that of Southern Methodist Universities, located at Dallas and having a student body of about 3000.

Three important inter-sectional games were on the schedule of the Southwestern Conference at the opening of the season. All have passed and each has been a victory for the Texans.

First came Texas A. & M.'s annual battle with the University of the South team, better known, perhaps, simply at Sewanee. The Aggies turned in a decisive win by the score of 18-0.

Next on the list was the yearly encounter between University of Texas and Vanderbilt. Coach Dan McGugin's formidable team was forced to take the short end of a 13-6 count.

Third and last of the invaders was Missouri, boasting of one of the greatest elevens in the school's history. Full of confidence as the result of an impressive victory over Nebraska by a one-point margin, Missouri fully expected to add Southern Methodist University to its list of victims.

Outweighed many pounds to the man, particularly in the line, the Methodists, led by their great little quarterback, Gerald Mann, registered an easy victory over the highly touted Missouri Tigers by the lopsided score of 32-9.

One week later, the same Missouri team ran roughshod over Northwestern University of Big Ten fame by the score of 32-19. This is simply offered as a means of comparison, so that you can fully appreciate what a really great tem the S. M. U. eleven is.

After its surprising victory over Missouri, the Southern Methodist varsity came right back one week later with a win over Texas, the conqueror of Vanderbilt.

While comparative scores do not always tell the true story, still it is the only source the dopesters have to rate their teams. Working along those lines it would be a very easy matter to get the Southern Methodist boys right up among the first ten leaders.

From many sources I get glowing reports relative to Captain Mann of the Southern Methodist. Last year on my All-American team, picked on information gained from the leading coaches of the country, I gave Mann the position of quarterback on the third eleven. I understand he is a much improved player this year.

Mann's most recent booster is Ernest Quigley, National League umpire and well known football official, who worked the game between Missouri and the Texans. He says there are few better quarterbacks in the country.

Texas, often overlooked by the experts, has made such a remarkable record this fall that to pass over that section without highly favorable mention would be a fumble of the worst sort.

ARMSTRONG PUSHES CARROLL FOR BLUE

Determined to Wallop Lawrence, Pioneers Scrimmage on Monday

Waukesha—Coach Norris Armstrong did the usual Monday evening by starting his Pioneers on their preparation for Lawrence here Saturday with a stiff scrimmage drill against Cioch Vinc Batha's frosh eleven. It is the first time this year he has begun as early as Monday to push his gridders.

The homecomers, who will return to their alma mater Saturday, the mentor believes, want to see Carroll lay Lawrence low for more reasons than one, and that fact has prompted a heated scrimmage during the first day of actual preparation for the Vikings, who were downed only after a tough fight with Ripon Saturday.

Coach Batha had his frosh charges out to the field at 3 o'clock primping them for the varsity competition that followed at 4:30 and lasted until darkness. Batha saw Ripon trounce Lawrence and gave first-hand instructions to his colts on what the Vikings presented.

The fact that the Appleton men are not as strong as Ripon has not prompted Carroll to regard the game Saturday as a "pipe." The result will either lose or cinch the Wisconsin-Illinois conference bunting for Carroll, and the Pioneers are determined to win the third successive flag, the last one in the history of the Little Five.

JACK MUST DECIDE IF HE STILL WILL FIGHT

New York, —(AP)— Jack Dempsey probably will be called upon by the New York State Athletic commission to decide whether he intends to fight in the future or have others fight for him. Under the boxing laws of the state he cannot do both.

This declaration, made unofficially by the state boxing fathers, resulted from published reports that the former heavyweight champion had ordered $150,000 of Madison Square Garden stock through Promoter Tex Rickard.

Springfield, Ill.—Jimmy Sayre, La Fayette, Ind., outpointed Billy Knowles, Chicago (10).

Philadelphia—Tony Canzoneri, New York, knocked out Billy Henry, Chicago (2).

BRAVES' PILOT

JOHN T. SLATTERY

Question as to who would manage the Boston Braves next year was settled with the announcement that John T. "Jack" Slattery, coach of Boston College, had been appointed. Slattery has played with several American League clubs and has coached at Harvard. He is 45 years old.

Likes Green Men

Bill Roper, Princeton coach, likes green men on his team as he says such men will do as they are told.

London — Tommy Milligan, European middleweight champion, defeated "Kid" Nitran, France (20).

COLEMAN OF ARKANSAS

Fayetteville, Ark. —He's the third of his family to captain an Arkansas football team, this Eusel Coleman, captain this year.

Coleman is an end and is playing his last season for the Razorbacks. He was preceded in service by two brothers, James W., captain in 1919, and Sam, captain in 1924.

Eusel is occupying the same quarters they did—Room No. 50 in Buchanan Hall, where four captains have lived since 1919.

Eusel Coleman will graduate this year. He has played his football well, here, and his departure will leave a big gap in the Razorbacks' ranks.

PHIL ZWICK SIGNS FOR MILWAUKEE GO

Former Kaw Lad Battles Hardest Foe in Classy Billy Bonillas

Phil Zwick, Kaukauna's featherweight pride, who has been winning fight after fight in Ohio in the last three seasons, making Cleveland his headquarters, was signed Monday by Tom Andrews Milwaukee promoter, for an eight round bout with Billy Bonillas, second only importance to the Canger-Cohen meeting on the Auditorium card of Tuesday, Nov. 15. Zwick fell into the match after negotiations with Eddie Shea, Chicago, died an early death when Shea's demands were too high.

Zwick, whose 1926 record shows six knockouts in eleven bouts, beat Snake Aguinaldo here last year and Joey Thomas a few weeks ago. In battling Banillas, he is hitting one of the toughest boys in the ring at his weight, a fighter so pleasing that Milwaukee fans always are anxious to see him again. If the Kaukauna boy, beats Bonillas his reputation as a scrapper will be "mad" in these parts. Half of Kaukauna and possibly three quarters wil invade Milwaukee for the battle.

Rules For Basketball Not Changed Much This Season

The new basketball rules for 1927-28, as adopted by committees representing the Young Men's Christian Associations, the Amateur Athletic Union, and the National Collegiate Athletic association, have just come off the press. The changes this year are not so drastic, as the proposed alteration in the dribble rule which would mean that a man could take only one dribble and would then be required to pass or shoot for the basket has been taken out, and will not be inserted until next year.

The changes in this year's rules are of general interest to players and spectators.

Rule 8, Sec. 5: When the ball is tossed up between two players, the whistle is not blown, except at the beginning of a period, or after "time out." This ruling was inserted mainly for the protection of officials.

Rule 11, Sec. 1: Time is to be taken out on all fouls, whether they are personal fouls, meaning one or two free throws, or technical fouls. The watch is to be stopped the instant the foul is called, and remain stopped until (a) in case of a technical foul or double foul, the ball is tossed up at center, or (b) in case of a personal foul, when the ball is placed at the disposal of the free thrower for the free throw or for the last free throw if a multiple free throw is awarded.

NOT JUMP BALL

Rule 11, Sec. 3: If the ball is in play and in the possession of a player when "time out" is called, that player puts the ball in play from out of bounds, when play is resumed, instead of its being a jump ball as in the old rules.

Rule 14, Sec. 10: When a player dribbles and throws for the goal, he may recover the ball and dribble again after it has touched the basket or backboard. This rule also states that if the ball is batted out of the hands of a player who has completed a dribble, this player may get the ball and dribble again.

Rule 14, Sec. 4: The player who is passing the ball in from out of bounds is given the privilege of stepping on the boundary line if the space out of bounds is limited. This does not hold unless the space is limited.

Rule 14, Sec. 8: Kicking the ball is defined as striking the ball with the knee or any part of the leg or foot below the knee.

Rule 14, Sec. 8, 9, 10: The player who has the ball in his possession after committing a violation shall pass the ball immediately to the player designated by the official who called the violation. This is to prevent teams or players wasting time.

Rule 15, Sec. 1: On a jump ball, if the ball drops without being tapped by either jumper, it is to be tossed up, even though one player catches it before it reaches the floor. This is not to be interpreted as permitting one player to jump and catch the ball.

REFEREE SHALL RULE

Rule 6, Sec. 13: In case of a dispute between time keepers as to which has the authority to operate the watch, the referee shall designate one of them as watch man.

Rule 6, Sec. 6: The umpire may stop the game by blowing his whistle in the case of an injury which the referee does not see, but time out is taken only upon order of the referee. This can be called only when the play is completed, or when the team desiring time out for injury has possession of the ball.

FOUR VALLEY PLAYERS STAR WITH M. U. FROSH

Four former Fox River Valley footballers again starred for Marquette university's freshman eleven Saturday when it dropped a 9-6 decision to the Lake Forest college frosh. Al Liethen, former Appleton high center, was at end; McGuire of East Green Bay was at quarter; Bultman of West captained the team from center and Billy Glasheen of Kaukauna, former Lawrence college freshman star, was at tackle. Glasheen praticularly shone on defense, breaking through several times to stop plays before they could get started. Glasheen beside playing football is a good amateur boxer, winning five fights in five times in the ring at Marquette by knockouts. He was C. M. T. C. heavyweight boxing and wrestling champion at Fort Sheridan in 1926.

PRINCE ALBERT
CRIMP CUT
LONG BURNING PIPE AND CIGARETTE TOBACCO

Built for comfort, what I mean!

COMFORT and lots of it. I'm talking about Prince Albert, Gentlemen, the National Joy Smoke. Why, there's friendliness in the very aroma of P.A., as you open the tidy red tin. Some fragrance it is, too.

The first pull on a pipe packed with P.A. tells you the taste is equally friendly. Cool and long-burning. Sweet as grape-clusters, hanging on the vine. Mild as arctic sunshine, yet with plenty of good, rich tobacco-body to let you know you're smoking. So mild, in fact, that you can load-up and light-up from breakfast to bedtime.

Now, I'm not one to mix in on other people's affairs. But this pipe-thing is different, somehow. I can't resist tipping you off to what I consider the greatest pipe-tobacco in the world. Get some P.A. now and get some of this comfort I've been telling you about.

PRINCE ALBERT

—no other tobacco is like it!

Quality and quantity both — TWO full ounces in every tin.

COBB ACTS WISELY IN ENDING CAREER

To Continue Play Physically Unfit Would Dim Great Record

BY BILLY EVANS

Ty Cobb has probably played his last game in the major leagues. I see that he has made an unofficial announcement to that effect It is in keeping with what he said to me late in September.

Working back of the plate at Philadelphia in a game between the Cleveland Indians and the Athletics, a recurrence of an old knee injury caused me to retire early from the game I was taken to the quarters of the Philadelphia trainer in the clubhouse for treatment.

A few innings later Ty quit the game to catch an early train for the west in order to make connections at Chicago for a hunting trip he had planned in Wyoming

Coming into the trainer's first aid station, he shook hands with me and remarked

'I think today's game was the finish of my big league career. I have had a good season and, if I'm smart, now is the time for me to quit"

Both of us then enjoyed a laugh over a retort that I would always hand Ty when the two of us had some slight difference of opinion It's the same old chatter that umpires always spill to stars during the heat of a dispute.

Often, when Ty would question my judgment or eyesight, I would laconically reply that possibly all he said was true but that I expected to be doing business at the same old stand when he was all washed up

'Looks as if you would outlast me and make good on that sarcasm that you used to slip me as well as the other boys about being up in the big show after the rest of us had taken our final shower" said Ty.

That conversation strengthens my belief in Cobb's statement that he has played his last game as a big leaguer

It is rather interesting coincidence that Cobb and I broke into the American League at practically the same time He played a few months in the fall of 1905, I made my debut in the spring of 1906

It so happens that Ty Cobb, at the close of the 1927 season was the only player still in the majors who was a member of the American League when I started

Cobb has seen hundreds of players come and go in his 23 years Yet his last season was one of his best He finished in the first five batters

It is to be hoped that Cobb is sincere in his decision to retire and I feel that he is It would be a shame for him to keep on going when not physically fit to do his best, thereby dimming the many remarkable accomplishments credited to him.

Unquestionably Cobb is the greatest ball player I have seen in action covering my career of 25 years It is reasonably safe to say, without fear of contradiction that he is the greatest ball player of all time

COLGATE WRITER DEFINES LOYALTY

Three Classes of Loyalty Abound at All Colleges

BY BOB MATTERNE

There are three distinct groups of students in the matter of loyalty to its football team, observes a writer in the Colgate weekly, which, to us, seems just about the right perspective of loyalty on all campuses

To quote this writer as he spoke of loyalty to Colgate teams

"The first group is made up of those who live in the past who dwell gloriously in the glow of deeds of West, Gillo, Tixon To them it is more important that we defeated Princeton in 1925 than it is that we should win from our coming opponent

'The second class live entirely in the present season but never think farther ahead than the game of the past week. They forget that one or two games do not make a season, and aid little in strengthening the morale of the student body for work to come

"The third class let by gones be bygones and, forgetting the defeat of yesterday, push on toward victories in the future. These men carry the Colgate spirit to the highest. They are the ones who can be counted on to give true support to the team"

There's a saying that no team has beaten Pop Warner's eleven if the venerable Pop himself scouted that team in action Warner scouted Alabama last year for the Tournament of Roses game—and was tied. He scouted Southern California this year—and his team played a tie Perhaps this is one legend that holds true.

The two best kickers in the middle west, according to most experts are Louis Gilbert, of Michigan, and Butch Niemic, of Notre Dame. While Mendenhall, Anderson and McDonough are all rated good kickers, the Wolverine and Irish punters are the only two who are good consistently.

These coming Christmas holidays will be the third successive ones that Freddie Pickhard, Alabama grid captain and tackle, has been given a trip to California—with all expenses paid. Pickhard was a member of the Alabama teams that went west the past two years and will captain the team of Dixie all-stars that will play in Los Angeles on Christmas day this year.

AMES PLAYER IS ONLY TRIPLE THREAT CENTER

Ames, Ia. — The only triple threat center in football, that's "Duke" Ayres, of Iowa State's eleven

Ayres is pulled out of the line by Coach Noel Workman to do all the punting and some of the passing for Ames He also is used, when the opposing team is set for a pass or punt, to run the ends

He's one of the lightest centers in the Missouri Valley conference but is one of the most valuable to his team

BACKFIELD STARS MADE BY LINEMEN

Line Must Play Good Ball or Efforts of Backs Go to Waste

BY BILLY EVANS

The football public never gives the forwards the proper credit simply because its entire attention is always centered on the man with the ball

Last season Mike Wilson, Lafayette's great halfback, was the leading scorer in the east. This year, Mike is among the also rans

Mike Wilson of this year is just as good a football player as he was in 1926 The answer to his failure to run wild as he did last season is due to the difference in the calibre of the teams

Lafayette of last year was undefeated, one of the very best football teams in the country This year it has been tied by West Virginia, trounced 14 0 by Washington and Jefferson and simply slaughtered by Penn State, 40 0

The failure of the line to hold, the lack of interference and the absence of a good blocking back, explains the failure of Mike Wilson to shine and Lafayette to win.

Watch the men in the line during the progress of some important game rather than the man with the ball and you will have a greater appreciation of the worth of the forwards

For years the point after touchdown has been a source of much dispute Annually there is a movement started to abolish it but it always bobs up in some form or other

This year, the rule makers decided to move the goal posts 10 yards farther back, hoping to make goals from the field as well as any attempt to score the point after touchdown by kicking, all the more difficult.

In that respect it has succeeded, for as I look over my football statistics, I find that goals from the field have been cut down about two thirds In addition failure to score a point after touchdown via the place or drop-kick has been the deciding factor in a number of important games

Yet there is a wide difference of opinion among the leading coaches as to whether the moving back of the goal posts has helped or handicapped

A perusal of the results of the games that have already been played show that failure of the kicker has cost a number of big battles.

Yale beat the Army 10 6 Yale's point after touchdown and the Army's failure, really decided the game the three points scored by the field goal were unnecessary.

In Big Ten circles, Purdue and Northwestern suffered defeats by a one-point margin. Chicago won from the former, Illinois from the latter, by 7 6 scores.

Brown lost its fourth straight to Lebanon Valley, 13 12, the biggest upset of the year, due to missing both points after touchdown

Other games in which the value of the kick figured prominently were Missouri's 7 6 win over Nebraska, Kansas' victory over Drake by the same score, and triumph of Louisiana State over the Mississippi Aggies, 9 7

Served for 25 Years

Garry Herrmann, who recently resigned as president of the Cincinnati Reds, served in that capacity for 25 years

Must Wear Hats Here

Coach "Chick" Meehan, at N. Y U, insists that his football players wear hats to prevent taking of colds.

Bill Mathews, Baltimore, and Richardo Romano, Philadelphia, drew (6)

BADGER SCHOOLS START SWIM WORK

Janesville, Racine, Beloit, Madison Open Competition

Madison —(AP)— The high schools of four Wisconsin cities are to begin competition among their swimming teams in the future They are Racine, Janesville Beloit, and Madison Kenosha also has recently added swimming as a major sport to its athletic program

The Wisconsin Interscholastic Athletic Association is encouraging the adoption of swimming in high schools in which the sport can be promoted" "Swimming is an excellent athletic activity declares Paul F Neverman Marinette secretary of the state association and one in which every high school student should compete The purpose of the annual swimming meet is to stimulate interest in the sport and to assist in its development as an athletic activity for wisconsin high school"

In the state high school swimming tournament held in Madison last spring teams from the following high schools competed Beloit Eau Claire, School Manitowoc Bay View, Lincoln Janesville Madison Central High West Division and Washington of Milwaukee Racine Richland Center Shorewood West Allis and Wiscnosin High School at Madison

The Racine swimmers take their workouts in the Y M C A tank, Janesville High has a tank of its own Beloit High uses the Y pool, and the two Madison schools have access to a city pool

Monroe High School is inaugurating an intensive program of physical education for girls according to Mr Neverman

Through information furnished high school teachers, coaches and students,' the athletic department of the University of Wisconsin is co operating with all the high schools of the state in the development of athletic programs

LUTHERAN PINMEN HOLD STATE MEET

Tim Sauer, Lloyd Doerfler of Appleton at Fondy Session

Selection of the 1928 tournament city will be the most important business of the annual meeting of the Lutheran Bowling association of Wisconsin Sunday afternoon at the St, Peter school, Fond du Lac Two Appleton men, officers of the association, expect to attend the sessions at which time election of new officers will take place They are Lloyd Doerfler secretary and Tim Sauer, treasurer. Other officers are H G Holling Sheboygan, president and Albert Bartz, Racine and William Fenske, Milwaukee, vice presidents.

Reports of the third annual tournament of the association held in Appleton last spring will be made by local men who had charge of the meet. The Appleton tourney attracted a large entry list and was successful in every way Good scores were registered

At least three cities will come to the meeting prepared to make a strong bid for the fourth annual tournament of Lutheran bowlers Milwaukee is known to be one of the strongest bidders and many other cities throughout the state are favoring the Cream City for the next tournament.

Manitowoc expects to land the tournament and Oshkosh is prepared to register a bid

IRISH WILL BE FIRST TEAM TO BEAT TROJANS

Los Angeles, Calif—By her victory over California, Southern California almost is assured an undefeated record as prestige in her tilt with Notre Dame in Chicago late this month.

The Trojans were tied by Stanford, 13-12, but have won from all other opponents.

Coast experts see no team as a possible winner over the Trojans in her remaining coast games this year

LOTT RANKED AS BEST NET PLAYER IN CHICAGO

Chicago—(AP)—George M. Lott, Jr., Chicago's greatest tennis product in recent years was given No. 1 ranking in the city's list of net stars issued Tuesday, although he did not participate in this year's city championships

Lott was ranked with Lucien Williams as the No 1 pair of doubles.

PROGRESSIVES WILL DOMINATE CONGRESS AT COMING SESSION

New Bloc Headed by Norris and Borah Will Split Strength of Two Parties

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington—The organization of the western progressive group of senators to influence both legislation in the Seventieth Congress and the selection of the next Republican presidential nominee is one of the first important political events in a big political year.

Within that year we shall see what promises in many ways to be an extraordinary Congress, primaries and state conventions, the two national conventions, a hot election campaign —(probably) and the election of the next president of the United States.

The new "progressive bloc," headed by Norris and Borah, is sure to be a powerful factor during the next Congress because of the nearly even strength of Republicans and Democrats in the Senate. These progressives will be Republicans, but if any reactionary legislation is passed over their prostrate forms it will be only with much help from the Democratic side of the aisle.

To a lesser extent, the progressives, if they hold together, may be expected to influence the Republican presidential nomination. Every one knows that Uncle George Norris—their nominal candidate—will not be named, but it is likely that their united front will at least prevent nomination of such men as Coolidge and Hughes, whom they regard as reactionaries.

Borah's apparent enthusiastic agreement to accept a generalship in the little progressive army is one of the most interesting political developments to date. It is regarded as extremely significant by those who will tell you that Borah's whole life in recent years has been guided by a consuming ambition to attain the presidency.

It is hardly fair to assume, however, that Borah's reasons for abandoning his splendid isolation to join the other boys were tinged with guile. It would be equally fair to suggest that his fellow progressives may include among their hopes the possibility that through their efforts Borah might possibly be nominated.

OFF THE PERCH

It is also true, however, that Borah had been off on a perch of his own for a long time, with no roosting companions. His failure to co-operate aggressively with other progressives often inspired their ire and sarcasm. Some of them regarded him with even more bitterness than the Republican regulars did, for they felt themselves victims of a heart-breaking desertion by their "leader," whereas to the regulars Borah's defection was old stuff.

The popular impression that Borah was a progressive leader also began to die during the last Congress, which found more and more progressive attention being turned to Norris, the old war-horse.

But he has now assumed joint leadership with Norris in the western senatorial group and many become the dominant force, for Norris is not a jealous man.

Insofar as Borah's presidential hopes are concerned, the point is that the prospective consolidation of the progressives gives him about one chance in 10,000 of nomination. Before this he has had no chance whatever. It might conceivably happen that a healthy little group of Norris delegates would be in a keystone position at the convention, assuming terrible deadlocks and all sorts of even more unlikely possibilities, which would enable it to obtain the nomination of a progressive like Borah.

VERY SMALL CHANCE

Obviously, Borah's present "chance" is only to be distinguished microscopically from the utter hopelessness of his position a few weeks ago, but one finds weisenheimers here who insist that Borah had it in mind when he dusted off and donned his old uniform.

Some of the leading candidates are bound to cast a longing eye toward the progressive group, hoping for eventual aid at the convention. There is reason to believe that none of them will wilfully antagonize the western senators during the months that separate us from the Republican convention.

You never can tell, of course, about Uncle George Norris, who says that the more or less progressive Al Smith would be better than any reactionary Republican. But the possibility of a progressive flop toward the Democratic party does not appear to be in the cards. Norris campaigned for Wilson, the Democrat, against Vare, the Republican, in the Pennsylvania senatorial fight of 1926. But he did not endorse La Follette in 1924. The other G. O. P. progressives have consistently Republican records and it is doubtful if the party nominee next year will be sufficiently reactionary to incur their open hostility.

ALUMNI ASSOCIATION TO ELECT OFFICERS

Madison—(AP)—Election of members to the board of directors of the University of Wisconsin alumni association will be held heard Nov. 12. Those to be elected will fill the expired terms of Mrs. Jessie Nelson Swanson, Milwaukee; Norton V. Smith, Chicago; Joseph E. Davies, Washington, D. C., Prof. L. . Van Hagen, Madison, and Bart McCormick, Madison.

The board will hold a brief meeting before the election and may discuss the possibility of Mr. McCormick abandoning his office with the election of someone to take his post as director in case he is not re-eclected.

The meeting is one of the semi-annual sessions, held every home-coming. The other meeting is held at commencement time in June.

GREEN BAY SINGER MAKES OPERA DEBUT

Miss Lucille Meusel Captivates Audience in Chicago Performance

Playing the part of a young shepherd in Richard Wagner's opera, "Tannhauser," Miss Lucille Meusel of Green Bay, made her debut as an opera singer with the Chicago Civic Opera company Friday night. Miss Meusel sang a solo in the first act, greeting the approaching dawn, practically without accompaniment from the orchestra. At the end of her solo, the audience burst into applause which continued for more than a minute, stopping the show.

Miss Meusel, with her clear, sweet voice captivated even the hardened opera-goers who attend on second nights. Carleton Hackett, Chicago newspaper critic, noted throughout the country for his remarkable finds in musicians, said that Miss Meusel has a remarkable voice and should have a great career ahead of her. Herman Devries, dean of Chicago critics, was one of those applauding longest at the end of her song.

After the first act, in which Miss Meusel sang a solo, most of the talk in the promenade concerned her, though two other singers made their debut at the same time. Stories were told of her marksmanship ability and of her excellence at other sports.

Miss Meusel has already been assigned the role of Gretel in "Hansel and Gretel," which will be one of the subscription performances of the opera given at Milwaukee on Dec. 16.

REV. J. F. NIENSTEDT NAMED MINISTERIAL ASSOCIATION HEAD

Local Pastors Favor Plan for Training of Sunday School Teachers

Rev. J. F. Nienstedt, pastor of Emmanuel Evangelical church, was elected president of the Appleton Ministerial association to succeed the Rev H A. Bernhardt, former pastor of the church, at the reorganization meeting of the association for the new year Monday morning at the Y. M. C. A George F. Werner, association general secretary, was reelected secretary.

Dr. J. A Holmes, pastor of First Methodist church and a representative of the Wisconsin Conference of Religious Education, outlined a plan of a week's training school for Sunday school workers conducted by a representative of the conference The course would be an intensive study of various phases of Sunday school work and leadership, meeting each afternoon and evening for one week The conference formerly was the state Sunday school association

The local ministers favored the plan and they decided to meet again and invite superintendents of Sunday schools and pastors in nearby towns and pastors of the churches in the same towns to hear C J Lotz of Fond du Lac submit an outline of the plans for the training school. Mr Lotz is director of religious education of the conference

The association also made plans for the union Thanksgiving services, which will take place Thanksgiving morning Thursday, Nov 24, at First Congregational church. Rev. Nienstedt will give the sermon and music will be furnished by the Congregational church The collection of the day will be given to the Red Cross, as usual, it was decided

Dr. J R Denyes director of the Appleton religious day school, reported that 425 students the largest number ever enrolled, were attending this year s school

A committee consisting of Rev Nienstedt Dr Holmes and Dr V D Scott of Memorial Presbyterian church, was appointed to prepare a program for the next meeting of the Fox River Valley Ministerial association, which will be held Monday, Nov 14, at the local Y M C A. Election of officers also will take place at the meeting. Present officers are Dr Scott, president, and the Rev R B Falk of First Congregational church of Kaukauna, secretary. A feature of the program will be a paper by Dr Denyes on A Cannibal's Religion

Plans for the week of prayer which is held Sunday, Nov 13 to Sunday, Nov 20, were explained to the ministers by Mr Werner

WORKERS MAKE PLANS FOR SALE OF SEALS

A Message to Mothers

FATHER JOHN'S MEDICINE

GAVE BABY STRENGTH—PREVENTED COLDS.

MRS. W. R. HUGHES, 652 East Grand Ave., Decatur, Ill., in a recent signed statement issues this message, which all mothers should heed: "We have a little son aged 20 months. His first winter I gave him Father John's Medicine every night at bedtime. He did not have a cold all winter. We did not keep him in, but when I took him out I gave him Father John's Medicine. In April he had whooping cough and we gave him Father John's all through the time. This picture was taken at the worst stage of the sickness. We are giving it again this winter, and, as before, he has no cold. I wish every mother would use it for it seems so unnecessary for little folks to be always sick."

GRAND CHUTE VOTERS WILL MEET NOV. 11

Will Rescind Action Appropriating $2,000 for County Road Purposes

A meeting of voters of the Town of Grand Chute will be held at 8 o'clock Friday evening, Nov. 11, in the town hall to rescind action taken several months ago appropriating $2,000 for county trunk highway purposes because the action at that time was illegal. The law relating to appropriations states that money can be appropriated for only one improvement each year and that it must be done previous to the annual or November meeting of the county board Appropriations made last spring were for more than one project and therefore the county did not have to appropriate a like sum to carry on the work. The meeting will also decide whether any money will be appropriated for county trunk highways for 1928.

The regular town board meeting for the town of Grand Chute will be held Tuesday at the Outagamie State bank, according to A W Laabs, Town chairman. Recently the town ask the services of a deputy sheriff to enforce the dog license and his report shows that 26 dogs were found in the town without licenses but only one owner permitted the dog to be shot The dog license tax law is being enforced to cut down the damage to sheep done by dogs running at large.

WALTON LEAGUE RAPS CHRISTMAS TREE USE

Appleton chapter No 1 of the Izaak Walton league of America went on record this week as opposing the use of the Christmas trees to decorate College ave during the Christmas season. In this day when conservation and reforestation are being given great consideration, trees are being cut which took five or six years to grow, to be placed in front of a store for a week or ten days and then be burned up, the members declared.

Merchants and civic clubs of the city will be asked to cooperate in stamping out the use of such decorations, according to Richard Sykes, president. Mr. Sykes also will introduce a resolution against the Christmas tree decorations at the state convention of the Izaak Walton league at Milwaukee Thursday and Friday.

Love's Blind Folly

REARED in the quiet seclusion of a fine old Southern home—sheltered, protected, carefully guarded from all knowledge of the world and its ways—Elizabeth, at twenty, suddenly found herself thrust upon the world, ill-prepared to cope with the real problems of life.

In far-away Nevada, where she went to teach school, there was no one to question her comings and goings, none to whom she had to account for what she did.

Then Allan Crawford, the town's young Lothario, came into her life. He was handsome, with the gentle ways that delight the hearts of women. Thus Elizabeth learned the sweetness of stolen kisses. That there were ugly whisperings going on around her, she neither knew nor cared

Then one day came the awakening that turned her heart into ice, shattered her dreams of love, and loosed a cyclone of terror and grief in her soul.

But the tragedy which had engulfed her was only beginning. She was yet to endure agonies of soul and body such as she had never dreamed.

Elizabeth's startling story, "The World Never Forgets," appears complete in True Story Magazine for December—a story of error and struggle for redemption that no man or woman can afford to miss.

(Right)—"DON'T LET FATHER KNOW," she warned.—Driven apart by her family, fate reunited them in the jungle and started an unforgettable drama in their lives (See "The Moment of Uncertainty," True Story for December)

(Above)—"And so my house of dreams had come crashing down, wrecking my happiness blighting my life Then I was gripped with a new and more terrible fear that made my heart stand still with terror " (From "The World Never Forgets" December True Story Magazine)

(Right)—"DON'T EXPECT ME HOME 'TILL MORNING,' she cried — and was gone Peggy thought that good times and working havoc with hearts were the only things worth living for But disaster lay ahead, as she vividly describes in "Vanity's Victim," December True Story.

Only Real Life Can Produce Such Thrilling Stories

LET the poet, the dramatist, the novelist make their finest flights of fancy, they can never equal the thrilling realism of life itself.

Every day, every hour, there are great human dramas unfolding that belittle the imaginative products of the cleverest pens.

From fifteen to twenty of these real-life stories appear in True Story Magazine every month. If they are startling in their nature, it is because life itself is startling. If they thrill the reader, it is because human experience is packed with thrills. The secrets that lie hidden in the heart are the secrets most worth telling It is only by peering behind the veil of human thought and action that we discover the eternal failure of evil and the eternal triumph of good.

HA! A SPECIAL DELIVERY, REGISTERED LETTER - LET'S HOPE IT'S A BIG ORDER FROM SOMEONE STRANGE! HERE'S A NOTE FROM SOME ATTORNEY ENCLOSING A LETTER WRITTEN BY MY OLD BOYHOOD CHUM, BILL GERRICK, SHORTLY BEFORE HE DIED.
Dear Old Pal:— This will have to be brief, as I have been ill for a long time, and am very weak. I want you to take care of my son, William Jr. after I have gone. When you and I parted at college I came to So. America. Soon after our boy came, his mother died and I have tried to be both mother and father to him since. Now that I am going, I want you to have him near you and give him the advantages of your association and family atmosphere. I ask this because we vowed to help each other, years ago, no matter what the circumstances might be. Always, Wm. P. Gerrick

JACK LOCKWILL'S FOREST RANGERS

Lockwill held his breath. The dancing flames caused dancing, fantastic shadows to play over the sylvan background. But the graceful snow-white figure at which he was looking was as motionless as if it had been sculped from Parian marble. The eyes of the albino buck were aglitter with the glory of the wondrous light at which the creature was gazing as if hypnotized.

"Don't move, fellows!" whispered Jack. "Just turn your eyes a little to the right, and you'll see something you'll never forget." Obeying him, they also saw the deer.

"My gosh!" yapped Willie, starting up. "There it is!" In the wink of an eye, almost, the deer wheeled and shot away, vanishing. "You spoiled it!" said Jack regretfully.

©1927 BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

On their feet, the trio looked vainly toward the spot where the white deer had been. "Darnation!" moaned Darling, disgusted with himself. "I'm just a gabbling idiot! But I was so surprised! I was thinking about—about Sue Varden and her snob of a brother—and that crazy hermit, Old Hunchy. I didn't expect to see the deer. ought to be kicked!"

TO GIVE BANKING TALKS AT SCHOOLS

Practical Speakers on Economy to Address New London Students

Special to Post-Crescent

New London—As a part of the educational program which has been carried on during the past few years in Wisconsin schools, a series of special talks on elementary banking and economics probably will be given in New London schools in the near future. These short talks are given by practical bankers before students of the junior and senior high schools. The program of school banking will be greatly enlarged during the year 1928, and probably the talks will be given before that time.

Fo rthe first time since school banking was introduced in local schools a perfect record in banking was reached last week in the local high school, all members of the four high school classes and the junior high banking. For the whole school, including both north and south side, the number banking on Tuesday of last week was 757 out of an enrollment of 800. The total deposits for the day amounted to $128.30. Banking this year is in charge of B. J. Lahr.

ROTARY HEARS TALKS ON THE OLD HOME TOWN

Special to Post-Crescent

New London—The Rev. Henry P. Freeling, pastor of the Congregational church, was the speaker at the regular meeting of the Rotary club Monday noon. He chose as his subject The Old Home Town, dwelling upon the every day things in life that either make or break a town. The speaker urged every man to do and give his best to his fellow man that all receive an inspiration from environment. Each individual has traits which lie dormant and he is prone to act and develop according to his surroundings, he said. "We are our brother's keepers," quoted the Rev. Mr. Freeling, "so we must help our inferior brother to live the life we ourselves wish to live. And this can be done only by helping him up to our level and not by passing him by simply because he has fallen. These are facts of life and to bring out the best in this world we should remember and live accordingly."

ANNOUNCE ENGAGEMENT OF ARLIE H. KOTEN

New London—Mr. and Mrs. Albert Rahr of Milwaukee, have recently announced the engagement of their daughter, Dorothy Elizabeth, to Arlie Herman Koten of this city, and son of the Rev. and Mrs. Koten of Berlin, former residents of Clintonville. Mr. Koten has been a member of the public school faculty of the New London high school for the past four years. Miss Rahr is a sister of Mrs. R. E. Smith, whose marriage to Mr. Smith, also a teacher in the local high school, took place during the past summer.

CLINTONVILLE F. W. D. AND TWO RIVERS TIED, 6-6

Special to Post-Crescent

Clintonville—The last of the series of football games played by the Four Wheel Drive team was staged on the local gridiron on Sunday afternoon, against Two Rivers, resulting in a score of 6 to 6.

Two Rivers scored first, as a result of a long forward pass and two or three off tackle and line plays, but they failed to kick goal. The Four Wheel Drive immediately came back with a good running attack, and next with several passes. They scored in the second quarter, by a forward pass, Kasuboski to Kruse. However, Kruse failed to make the extra point, leaving the score a tie.

During the last quarter, the Four Wheel Drive team threatened several times to pull over another touchdown. The game ended just as the Four Wheel Drive was lined up in kick formation, in a last attempt to win the game. All during the game, the Four Wheel Drive boys had the best of the argument. It was also a much better team than the one that played before a week ago.

The series of Sunday evening meetings by four of the local churches seen growing in popularity. They are being well attended. Sunday evening the meeting was held in the Methodist church, and the sermon was preached by the Rev. H. A. Brooks. These meetings are held to determine whether there was any demand for a Sunday evening service in this city, and as Bethany Congregational church was the only one of the four holding regular evening services, it was decided to assemble all those desiring such gatherings at one place and rotate the meetings among the four churches uniting. The attendance has justified their service to the community.

The Rev. N. E. Sinninger of Christ Congregational church, preached the Armistice day sermon on Sunday morning. He asked why is there so much talk of "peace" today, when the war has been over for nine years. He said it is because the psychology of war is still with us. Military groups everywhere have military minds.

TUCKWOOD FUNERAL IS CONDUCTED AT SHIOCTON

Special to Post-Crescent

Shiocton—Funeral services for Mrs. C. C. Tuckwood, which were held from the Congregational church Saturday afternoon, were conducted by Rev. N. W. Conkle. Interment was made in Bovina cemetery. Hope; Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Loveton, Rhinelander; Mr. and Mrs. H Meyers and Mrs. Alta Betke, Appleton.

Mrs. Tuckwood, whose maiden name was Mary Schwandt, was born in the town of Ellington, Dec. 22, 1887. She was married to Dr. C. C. Tuckwood at Shiocton, Dec. 20, 1911. They made their home here until Sept. 1, 1916, when they moved to Rhinelander, where she resided until her death which occurred Wednesday, Nov. 2.

Two children were born to this union, a daughter Elva Marie, who survives her mother, and a son Thomal Emil, who died at the age of nine months.

Besides her widower and daughter, she is survived by her mother, Mrs. Emil Schwandt, and a brother, Rudolph, both of Shiocton, and several nephews and nieces. Mrs. Tuckwood was a member of the Methodist Episcopal church and took an active part in the work.

Recall Old Days Of Dam With Ownership Change

Special to Post-Crescent

Clintonville—Old days and early beginnings in this community, became the subject for reminiscences and research when it became known that the historic site on the Embarrass riverdom had been acquired by the Wisconsin Power and Light company. The dam was built before the civil war, and at that time carried a big head of water, being the only dam on the river.

When Mark Palmer came into the community in 1857, he decided because of the superior water power, to locate his mill at Embarrass, believing that to be the most logical place for a new town to grow and flourish. However, when the railroad was surveyed, contrary to his expectations, it passed through Clintonville and left out Embarrass, which was a severe blow to that enterprising young town.

The next year his son, John Palmer, who was the father of Mrs. Judd Waite, still a resident of Embarrass, came out to enter into partnership with his father. When they reached Clintonville they were too tired to go on to Embarrass that evening, so they stayed over night at the Ward hotel, which was then a small log building. On the hotel bill of fare that evening was a bear steak, which was the only meat served, and black coffee.

Father and son were kept very busy in the old saw mill, providing the lumber with which to build homes for the settlers who were coming in steadily increasing numbers. The mill was equipped with an up and down saw. As the land was cleared the settlers began planting corn and wheat. They were then confronted with the problem of getting their grist to mill, going to Oshkosh and later to New London. But even this, at that early date, was a long, difficult journey to make.

Mark and John Palmer came forward with a solution, and added grist mill equipment to their plant.

For some time the saw mill and grist mill were located in the same building. One set of stones were used for grinding flour, corn or feed. To this old mill during the civil war days, the women of this community used to go with their grist. They came with ox teams and wagons in which they had beds for their children.

In 1863, W. H. Stacey, a pioneer lumberman from Belle Plaine, came down and entered into partnership with the Palmers, making extensive improvements on the property. The two industries were separated, the grist mill being located on the west side of the river and the saw mill on the left. Four years later, the Palmers bought the Stacy interest, and it was operated from 1866 to 1880 by John Palmer and his son Mark, a grandson of the Mark Palmer who came from the east, nad who now lives with his son, Bert Palmer, near Embarrass.

The Palmers sold both mill and dam in 1880, since which time it has met various vicissitudes, and passed through a number of hands. In 1894 the old grist mill was burned. In 1912, the original dam was partly washed out in the heavy floods. It came into the possession of R. W. Roberts and his son A. B Roberts in 1903, who operated a saw mill for a number of years. The passing years marked also the passing of the timber from this section of the state, and gradually the old mill was dismantled.

Recently the old site was sold by A B Roberts to the Wisconsin Power and Light company. Their plans in connection with the property are not ready for announcement as yet Albert Palmer, who is a sophomore in the Clintonville high school is the great, great grandson of Mark Palmer being a member of the fifth generation. One daughter of Mark Palmer, Mrs. Katherine Smith, 84, of Menasha, still survives.

AGED STANLEY RESIDENT DIES AFTER BREAKDOWN

Special to Post-Crescent

Royalton —Wilder Willard Crane, 84, died Saturday at his home in Stanley. Mr. Crane was born in Jefferson-co, New York. In 1856 he came with his parents to Wisconsin where they settled on a farm in the town of Royalton.

Mr. Crane was the last surviving member of his family. He was a veteran of the Civil war, a member of the Masonic Lodge and of the First Presbyterian church in Stanley.

He located in Weyauwega when a young man and lived there for nearly 50 years, before moving to Stanley. He held public offices such as postmaster, bank director, member of the board of education and member of the county board. He and his family founded the village of Crane in northern Wisconsin.

He was married three times, first to Miss Eliza Stevens, who died leaving him an infant son Henry. His second wife was Miss Isabella Richie. Eight children born to this union saw their parents celebrate their golden wedding anniversary, before death took their mother about ten years ago. They are William F. Crane, Edward J. Crane, Lewis D. Crane of Chippewa Falls; Miss Mary M. Crane, Stanley; Miss Nell M. Crane, Ripon; Mrs. F. W. Starr, Mrs. Arthur Eison, Miss Ann Crane, Los Angeles; and Henry Crane, Weyauwega.

In 1919 Mr. Crane was married to Mrs Emma Holcombe of Weyauwega, who survives him.

In August, 1926, he underwent a very serious operation but recovered, coming down to Waupaca-co last June to attend the annual Ritchie reunion.

The funeral was held in Stanley Sunday afternoon, conducted by the pastor of the Presbyterian church. Burial was in Oakwood cemetery, Weyauwega, Monday afternoon, with Masonic service.

His sons and grandsons were pallbearers.

CITY ACQUIRES NEW POWER RIGHT-OF-WAY

Necessity Established at Jury Trial and Appraisers Are Appointed

Special to Post-Crescent

Clintonville—A pole line right-of-way has been acquired by the city extending from Eleventh-st, south to the railroad tracks, and the telephone and electric light poles will be removed from Main-st. In order to do this it was necessary to secure a permit for an alley on the east side and parallel to Main-st. This was accomplished after a jury trial had established the necessity for this right-of-way. Judge Martin then appointed a committee of three, consisting of former Senator A. R. Potts of the town of Dayton, Jacob Werner of New London, and L. W. Eastling of Manawa, as appraisers to assess benefits and damages on the property involved. The removal of these poles will also permit the widening of Main-st in the business section.

The city has long realized its inadequate facilities for disposing of the storm sewerage, and that eventually some provision must be made, and so it is the purpose of the city council to begin an extensive program of improvements in which these several items can be handled at the same time.

At a special meeting of the library board Thursday evening a proposition for the purchase of the moving picture film "Silver Threads Among the Gold" to be added to and kept with the permanent Rexford collection owned by this city, was taken under advisement, and carried unanimously. President W. A. Olen of the Four Wheel Drive Auto company, after working on this project for more than a year trying to locate the film and obtain possession of it, was instrumental in securing the film for this purpose.

Permission has been granted to the library board to display the film in this city and in other towns where the collection may be of interest.

OBSERVE ARMISTICE DAY

The Oscar Tilleson post of the American legion has requested the observance of the anniversary of the signing of the armistice on Nov. 11. Factory whistles will blow at two minutes before 11 o'clock when everyone, whether on the streets, in places of business, in the homes or the schools of the city, is requested to face the east, and bow his head in reverence for the men who gave their lives in the world war. It is planned to have a bugler blow taps in front of the city hall at 11 o'clock in the morning with probably a firing squad to fire three volleys. In the evening there will be a dance at the armory under the auspices of the American legion, to which all are invited. The New York Entertainers orchestra will furnish music and refreshments will be furnished by the recently organized ladies auxiliary.

The Only Harm Classified Ads Ever Do Is Done To People Who Never Read Them

Appleton Post-Crescent Classified Advertising Information

All ads are restricted to their proper classifications and to the regular Appleton Post-Crescent style of type.

Daily rate per line for consecutive insertions:

	Charges	Cash
One day	.12	.11
Three days	.10	.09
Six days	.09	.08

Minimum charge, 50c.

Advertising ordered for irregular insertions takes the one time insertion rate, no ad taken for less than basis of two lines. Count 5 average words to a line.

Charged ads will be received by telephone and if paid a office within six days from the first day of insertion cash rate will be allowed.

Ads ordered for three days or six days and stopped before expiration will only be charged for the number of times the ad appeared and adjustment made at the rate earned.

Special rate for yearly advertising upon request.

Telephone 543, ask for Ad Taker.

The following classification headings appear in this newspaper in the numerical order here given, closely allied classifications being grouped together.

The individual advertisements are arranged under these headings in alphabetical order for quick reference.

Saving Money And Time— At The Same Time

Don't forget that the classified section is saver of both time and money. The Post-Crescent's A-B-C Ads are alphabetically and numerically arranged—to make selection as simple as "A-B-C" or as quick "1-2-3."

And the firms who offer things and services through the classified columns nearly always quote unusually low prices to stimulate quick action among the buyers they want to reach.

That—in a nutshell—is the economy story of the A-B-C Classified Section. And that is easily enough to make discriminating and economical folks head the classified offers daily.

But to look at it from another angle—think of the opportunities you miss if you do not read the classified ads! Think of the money you do NOT save! Think of the difficulty you will have in competing with your keener friends.

Think it over from every angle! There is no reason in the world why you should not read the classified offers and every reason why you should.

SUITS WILL DELAY FLOODING OF MARS

Dodge-co Property Owne Will Seek to Prevent Spen ing of Money

Madison—(AP)—The attorney-gen al's office, while declining to give opinion as to the legality of the app priation of $250,000 made by the l legislature for the creation of a ga refuge on Horicon Marsh, states tl there is sufficient doubt to justify t action of Dodge-co land owners w will bring injunction proceedings prevent expenditure of this money.

It is pointed out that the creation a game refuge may be construed state business activity in competiti with private game and fur raise and that it may be classed as "inte nal improvements" as much as an a tomobile factory constructed and ope ated by the state.

If so large an expenditure of mon is made without first obtaining leg opinion, it is feared that other inte nal improvement projects will be a vanced until the intent of the cons tutional provision is nullified.

The last legislature appropriat $250,000 to convert the Horicon mars waste into a haven for wild anima and the conservation commission ready to proceed with the work. Racine firm of lawyers, acting for group of Dane-co land owners, has a vised Theodore Damman, secretary state, and Solomon Levitan, sta treasurer, that they will be held pe sonally liable for any funds expend for this purpose if the appropriation declared unconstitutional.

Even without such advice, the secr tary of state's office asserts that would not have authorized the pa ment of money before the legal stat of the appropriation had been esta lished. In all matters over which leg controversies have arisen, it withho authorization of payment until tl matter is determined by the attorne general or by the courts.

The constitutional provision whic threatens to deter the conservatio commission from turning the 40,00 acres of waste land into a game refug was enacted in the '40's, when wil game in Wisconsin was something a nuisance.

By this provision the state is forbi den to expend any money for "inte nal improvement." Not until 1908 wa the constitution so amended that th state could spend money on highway In 1925 an additional amendment au thorized the creation of forestry pre serves, but there is no constitutiona authority for spending money on gam refuges.

After having traveled 4,000 miles to be operated on at home, following an accident off the coast of South America, George F. Newby, aged 63, a seaman, died at Hull, England, recently.

HEAR 2 WITNESSES AS LAMB FACES TRIAL FOR ASSAULTING WIFE

Doctor and Constable Tell How They Found Mrs. Lamb in Pool of Blood

The trial of Bert Lamb, 33, Hortonville, accused of attempting to murder his wife, opened Tuesday morning in the upper branch of municipal court before Judge Theodore Berg. Most of the morning was taken up with selecting a jury. Only two witnesses, Dr. F. O. Brunckhorst of Hortonville, who was called to attend Mrs. Lamb and Constable Albert Diestler, called after Mrs. Lamb was found on the floor of the home with her throat cut, testified before the noon recess was taken.

Lamb was arrested early Tuesday morning, Sept. 6, by Constable Diestler who was called to the Lamb home where he found Mrs. Lamb in a pool of blood on the floor. Her throat had been cut from ear to ear. Mrs. Lamb was taken to St. Elizabeth hospital where it was expected that she would not recover. She did recover however, and will testify Tuesday afternoon or Wednesday morning.

FIND RAZOR IN STORE

Dr. Brunckhorst, the first witness to take the stand, testified as to the seriousness of Mrs. Lamb's wound. He also told in what condition he had found the house when he reached it. Constable Diestler told how he had been called to the Lamb home by Albert Lamb, father of Bert, who lives just across the road from the junior Lamb family.

Constable Diestler also told of finding several razor blades and a straight edge razor blade in the fire pot of the kitchen stove in the same room where Mrs. Lamb had been found. The blades were displayed by Assistant District Attorney Stanley Steidl, who is prosecting the case Attorney F. J. Rooney is defending Lamb, who protests his innocence and denies all knowledge of the deed.

Lamb was on a bed in a room adjoining that in which Mrs. Lamb was found, Constable Diestler said. The constable also testified that Lamb had pretended to be asleep and that when he was aroused he denied all knowledge of the crime, before he had been accused.

Members of the jury hearing the case are: John Deno, William Schude, Frank Weiler and G. Gust, Kaukauna; Earle McGinnis, route 1, Appleton; Otto F. Younger, Appleton; Walter Eick, route 2, Seymour; Fred Krahn, route 2, Seymour; Edward Roesler, rute 1, Dale; John Fassbender, route 1, Black Creek; Allen Powell route 4, Seymour; H. Bock, route 1, Dale.

KIWANIANS ATTEND ANNIVERSARY PARTY

Ten members of the Appleton Kiwanis club will attend the tenth anniversary party of the Oshkosh club Tuesday evening at the Athern hotel, Oshkosh. More than 200 guests from Appleton, Ripon, Neenah, Menasha, Fond du Lac, Manitowoc and Sheboygan are expected at the party. The affair will start with a dinner at 6:30. J. L. Johns of Appleton, immediate past district governor of the Wisconsin-Upper Michigan district, will attend the party.

Hal Denton of Cleveland, O., the man who organized the Oshkosh club, will be the speaker of the evening. J. R. Batchelor, field representative of the National Playgrounds association, will be the community song leader. Albert Zinn, of Milwaukee, the present district governor, will be present.

Past presidents of the Oshkosh organization will be honor guests of the evening.

Musical presentations, instrumental and vocal, will furnish the principal entertainment of the evening. One special musical attraction is to be brought from Manitowoc. Others will be from the Oshkosh Teachers' college.

BROTHERS PAY SHARE OF FUNERAL EXPENSES

August Hertzfeldt, Greenville, and Charles A. Hertzfeldt, Weyauwega, have paid a part of their father's funeral expenses and therefore will not need to appear in court Nov. 15, to show reason why they should not pay a part of that cost. Papers ordering the two men into court were issued last Friday by Judge Fred V. Heinemann on complaint of E. G. Schueler, city poor commissioner. When the papers were served, however, the two brothers immediately paid a part of the costs.

Their father, John F. Hertzfeldt, 87, died at the home of a third son, Fred, 1123 N. Richmond-st. last week. Fred complained that the two brothers refused to pay part of the cost. The two brothers denied they had refused to pay and declared that their brother Fred had misrepresented conditions.

HONOR TWO TEACHERS AT STATE CONVENTION

Two Appleton vocational school teachers were elected to offices of vocational and high school organizations at the annual convention of the state teachers association in Milwaukee, Nov. 3, 4 and 5. Miss Christine Dorr, head of the home economics department was elected vice president of the Wisconsin Vocational Schools Division of Home Economics. She also was elected vice president of the Wisconsin Home Economics association to which teachers of home making subjects in junior and senior high schools and vocational schools are eligible.

Harold Noyes, was the other local instructor elected to a state office. He is vice president of the Industrial Section of the Wisconsin Vocational School Teachers association.

NEW CITY DUMP NOW OPEN; LOCATED NEAR EAST CITY LIMITS

Dumping of rubbish in the old city dump on Calumet-st. must be stopped immediately, according to a warning issued Tuesday by Robert Hackworthy, street commissioner.

The city's contract for dumping on the Calumet-st. property has expired and a new contract has been signed for the dumping of rubbish on the John Tracy farm. This farm is reached by the John-st road. A sign is posted at the first corner west of Calumet-st. indicating the direction to the dump.

Several people, according to Mr. Hackworthy, have dumped their rubbish in the ditches on each side of the road near the old dump when they found they no longer could dump rubbish there.

DRAMA CLUB FORMED BY VOCATIONAL STUDENTS

A dramatic club for Vocational school boys was organized Monday noon by Miss Elinor Strickland, dramatic director of Appleton Womans club. About 14 boys tried out for "A Night At An Inn" by Lord Dunsany, a play to be given after the Christmas holidays.

The cast as a result of the try-outs is: A. E. Scott Fortescue, Lawrence Palm; William (Bill) Jones, John Turnow; Albert Thomas, Henry Staedt; Jacob Smith, Ralph Murphy; first priest of Klesh, Orin Heinzel; second priest of Klesh, Raymond Riedl; third priest of Klesh, Harvey Krueger; Klesh, Harold Ahrens. Manfred Helms will be stage manager with Orville Ness as assistant.

Leonard Krueger, Clarence Spinger, Raymond Kneiss, Clarence Noffke, Rudolph Koenig, Henry VerBruggen, and Ken Diederick also are members of the dramatic club. The club will meet at 1 o'clock every Monday noon at the vocational school.

DEATHS

MRS. ROSE SHAPIRO

Mrs. Rose Shapiro, 62, 515 N. Lawe-st, widow of the late Mandel Shapiro, died Monday evening. She is survived by one daughter, Jane of Appleton; two sons, William M. and Jacob, both of Appleton; one sister, Mrs. Mayer Shapiro of Appleton; one brother, Dr. Jacob Shapiro of Berne, Switzerland. Services will be held according to the traditional rites of the orthodox Jewish religion at 1:30 Wednesday from the residence, conducted by Rabbi Bender of Moses Montefiore synogog. The funeral cortege will leave the residence at 2 o'clock. A request is made that no flowers be sent.

JOHN BIESE

John Biese, 66, town of Lawrence, died at 7 o'clock Monday morning after a four weeks illness. He is survived by his widow; five sons, Henry of the town of Lawrence, Bernard of Kaukauna, William, Joseph and John of the town of Lawrence; eight daughters, Mrs. David Pendergast of Kaukauna, Mrs. John Kurie of Milwaukee, Mrs. Leo Melchior of Algoma, Mrs. C. J. Melchoir of Evanston, Ill., Elizabeth Biese of Kaukauna, Marie of the town of Lawrence, Agnes of Appleton and Frances at home.

Mr. Biese was born in the town of Wilson, Sheboygan-co, and in 1889 was married to Miss Anna Micke of Hollandtown. He had been a farmer in the town of Lawrence for the past 30 years.

The funeral will be held at 10 o'clock Thursday morning from St. Paul Catholic church at Wrightstown. Burial will be in the St. Patrick cemetery at Sniderville.

APPEALS BOARD FAILS TO ACT ON PETITION

Members of the board of appeals met Monday night at the city hall and through parliamentary procedure caused postponement of hearing of protests against the building of a barn and repair shop by the Service Bakery at 823 W. College-ave.

Members of the board named Dr. E. W. Cooney chairman for the meeting. T. H. Ryan objected to the hearing of the complaint against the building, stating that the Service Bakery had not filed plans and specifications for the proposed building. Instructions were given that the plans be produced at a meeting to be held Nov. 21. Charles Greunke made a motion to adjourn, which was seconded by Freemont Johnston and the meeting was ended a few minutes after it started.

WED LESS THAN YEAR; WOMAN GIVEN DIVORCE

Marie Helm, 57, was granted an absolute divorce from Carl Helm, 71, by Judge Edgar V. Werner in circuit court Tuesday morning. The couple were married March 19, 1927, and according to the complaint made by Mrs. Helm, who sought the divorce, shortly after the wedding Mr. Helm started treating her in a cruel and inhuman manner. She alleged that he was "too rough" with her, often threatening to strike her.

Mr. Helm did not answer the complaint.

BEEKEEPERS PLANNING TO DISCUSS MARKETING

Organization, marketing and honey grading will be discussed at a meeting of the Outgamie-co Beekeeper's association which is to meet in the city hall here at 1 o'clock Friday afternoon. This meeting is to be held under the auspices of the state department of markets. Edward Hessinger of Greenville, president of the organization, is making arrangements for the gathering.

Permits for construction work were issued Tuesday by the city building inspector as follows: John Schuhmacher, 815 State-st, garage; Heninger Lumber company, 213 N. Superior-st, remodel sheds.

THREE GIRLS CARRY 35 CENT FIGHT IN COURT AND ALL LOSE

Combined Locks Girl Wants Co-workers to Pay Doctor Bill Caused by Fight

A suit to collect $47 damages as the result of injuries suffered in a fight between three girls employed at the Telulah mill of the Fox River Paper co. was thrown out of municipal court by Judge Theodore Berg Monday afternoon after more than three hours were consumed in hearing testimony.

The suit was started by Miss Jane Van Nuland, 20, Combined Locks, who wanted Mrs. Antionette Gustman and Mrs. Arline Karow, Appleton, to pay her doctor bill as the result of the fight between the three and also to pay her wages for the time she was unable to work.

Miss Van Nuland claimed the trouble started because Mrs. Gustman told Mrs. Karow that Miss Van Nuland said she gave $1 toward a shower held for Mrs. Gustman. The shower was given in honor of Mrs. Gustman's approaching marriage and each of the girls donated 65 cents to buy a gift.

FIGHT ON BRIDGE

Mrs. Gustman said Miss Van Nuland had told her she gave $1 and Miss Van Nuland denied this. The three girls got into a wrangle in the mill just before quitting time on June 13, 1927. When they left the mill they had started fighting on the Lawe-st bridge.

Miss Van Nuland and her witnesses claimed Mrs. Karow started the fight and Mrs. Gustman aided her while the two defendants and their witnesses testified that Jane Van Nuland started the quarrel. In the course of the fight Miss Van Nuland was kicked on the leg and she was unable to work for a week. She engaged a doctor and she sought to make the two defendants pay this doctor bill and her wages for the time she lost.

The court room was crowded with friends of the two parties.

NO TROUBLE CAUSED BY FIRST STORM OF SEASON

Appleton had its first taste of winter weather Monday night when predictions came true and snow began to fall shortly after 11 o'clock. By morning about an inch of snow was covering the ground. Last year the first storm came on Nov. 1, and the county took a week to recover from it. No inconvenience was reported in the city or county Tuesday. The temperature Tuesday was in the lower thirties. More snow is predicted for Tuesday night.

LINCOLN SCHOOL HOLDS CLASS DEMONSTRATION

Lincoln school will have a "Go to School Night" Tuesday evening. The kindergarten, first, second and third grades will take part. The fourth, fifth and sixth grades will present their typical school program Thursday evening. The upper floor of Washington school also will hold its "Go to School Night" on Thursday. Appleton High school's demonstration is scheduled for Wednesday evening.

PERSONALS

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Schefer and daughter Leola, of Hilbert, Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Kuse and daughter Marion of Appleton, Miss Edna Kuse of Seymour and Miss Ida Eggert of Potter, spent Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Wadel at Milwaukee.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kopten and son John of Bonduel, are visiting for a few days at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Schrimpf, Jr.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Stimson and daughter Olive left Monday for Long Beach, Calif., where they will spend the winter.

Judge Lyman Nash of Manitowoc, and Mr. and Mrs. Kirby White of Detroit, are visiting in the city for a few days.

J. D. STEELE RESIGNS AS PEABODY ESTATE TRUSTEE

The resignation of J. D. Steele as trustee of the George F. Peabody estate has been filed in county court here and has been accepted by the other trustees and approved by the court. His successor has not been appointed. The other trustees are A. W. Hoyt and J. H. Coulter. The resignation of Mr. Steel as trustee removes him from all connection with the Pettibone-Peabody Co. with which he was identified for many years. He recently disposed of his stock in that corporation and resigned as director.

K. OF C. TO SPONSOR AMERICAN LECTURE

Subversive Movements in America will be the subject of an address to be given by Peter W. Collins, Boston, Mass., Friday evening, Dec. 2, in Lawrence Memorial chapel. The lecture will be given under the auspices of Appleton council of Knights of Columbus and will be free to the public.

Mr. Collins has been actively connected with movements in this country to stamp our attempts at undermining American institutions and ideals. In 1924, at the All-American Conference in which nearly one hundred American organizations participated he was elected chairman of the committee on subversive movements. Delegates at this convention represented men and women from such organizations as the Grand Army of the Republic, American Legion and others of similar character.

C. OF C. DIRECTORS TO DISCUSS AIRPORT NEED

Discussion of the need for an airport for Appleton will occupy much of the time of directors of the chamber of commerce at the regular meeting Friday noon at Hotel Northern. The meeting has been changed from Thursday noon to Friday noon.

The work of two girls who are demonstrating rat poison to local merchants will be investigated by the directors.

Reports of the rural affairs committee on the annual farm festival, of the retail trades and publicity and convention groups on location of billboards on the outskirts of the city and other committees will complete the meeting.

FIFTH GRADERS WIN ATTENDANCE AWARD

Fifth graders in the First ward school Monday evening were presented with a framed picture as a reward for having the largest representative attendance at meetings of the Parent-Teachers association last year.

Ben J. Rohan, superintendent of schools, spoke on Methods of Discipline and the Misses Betsy and Jane Rosenbohm appeared in a dance. Problems from the question box were discussed.

EXAMINE 6 CHILDREN AT KIWANIS CLINIC

Six children were examined Tuesday morning at the dental clinic, sponsored by Kiwanis club, according to Miss Mary Orbison, city school nurse. Educational work included some of the work done at the schools. Each child taken care of Tuesday morning was given individual instruction and demonstration in the correct method of caring for the teeth.

WOMAN PAYS FINE FOR USING HARSH LANGUAGE

Mrs. Elizabeth Greenes, Appleton, paid a fine of $10 and costs in municipal court Monday afternoon when she pleaded guilty to a charge of using abusive language. She was arrested on complaint of Theodore J. Strebel, 614 W. Franklin-st.

BIRTHS

A daughter was born Monday at St. Elizabeth hospital to Mr. and Mrs. Earl Wheaton, 177 E. Wisconsin, Kaukauna.

A son was born Saturday at St. Elizabeth hospital to Mr. and Mrs. R. Bellin, 716 W. Packard-st.

JUDGE'S CAR WRECKED AND GIRL HURT WHEN IT SKIDS INTO POLE

Green Bay Girl Taken to Hospital—Woman Hurt When Auto Hits Street Car

Three people were injured, two quite seriously, in automobile accidents here Monday afternoon and Tuesday morning. One of the machines which figured in an accident was driven by Circuit Judge Henry Graass, Green Bay. The injured are:

Miss Dorothy Schilling, 19, 931 S. Madison-st, Green Bay, broken shoulder and severe cut on forehead.

Mrs. Lottie Stroebe, 53, route 2, Appleton, severe scalp wound, bad bruises on left side of face, fracture of left wrist and severe shock.

William Stroebe, 22, route 2, Appleton, contusion of knee.

Judge Graass, accompanied by Miss Schilling, a student of Lawrence college, and three other girls, also students at the college, was coming to Appleton about 7:30 Tuesday morning when their machine skidded, striking a telephone pole.

Miss Schilling was seated on the side of the car which hit the pole. She was taken to St. Elizabeth hospital where she will be confined for a week or ten days. The side of the machine was badly damaged.

William Stroebe, driving his father's car, was traveling west on Lawrence-st about 4:30 Monday afternoon, collided with a Wisconsin-Michigan Power Co. street car which was going north on S. State-st. The street car was driven by Motorman Bernard McGlinn, 1707 S. Oneida-st. Mrs. Stroebe, the boy's mother, was in the machine with him at the time of the accident. She was taken to St. Elizabeth hospital by a Kunitz ambulance after the accident. She was released later, however, and returned to her home.

The left side of the Stroebe car was demolished.

FIVE GIFTS PRESENTED TO LOCAL HIGH SCHOOL

Formal presentation of a panatrope, three orthophonic victrolas, and a velour stage curtain was made at Appleton high school auditorium Monday afternoon.

The machines were given the high school by the classes of '27 and '28 and the stage curtain by the class of '29. Robert Eads, vice-president of the class of '27, Alloysius Gage, president of the class of '28, and Chester Davis, president of the class of '29, made the presentation addresses. The gifts were formally accepted in the name of Appleton high school by Carleton Roth, president of the student council, followed by a musical program conducted by J. Raymond Walsh.

10 CASES DIPHTHERIA IN CITY LAST MONTH

Thirty calls were made during October by Dr. F. P. Dohearty, city health officer. Of these, six were at the hospital on poor department cases, two were at the city home, five were at police department homes, seven at the poor department office, and two at the police department.

Dr. Dohearty took 32 cultures to investigate diptheria and 30 to release diptheria cases. There were 10 cases of diptheria during the month, 1 of scarlet fever, 3 of whooping cough, 1 of chicken pox.

He issued 40 burial permits during the month, and registered 54 births, 27 deaths and 29 marriages.

MOTORIST FINED $10 FOR SPEEDING IN CITY

Orville Steinacker, Appleton, was fined $10 and costs by Judge Theodore Berg Monday afternoon when he pleaded guilty to a charge of speeding. He was arrested by Gus Herzekorn, motorcycle officer, for traveling 34 miles an hour on N. Richmond-st last Wednesday. Paul Cokines, Milwaukee, arersted by Fred Arndt, motorcycle officer at 6:20 Monday evening for speeding 40 miles an hour on S. Cherry-st, did not appear in court Tuesday morning.

THREE C. C. COMMITTEES TO MEET ON THURSDAY

Three committees of the chamber of commerce will hold meetings Thursday morning and evening at the chamber office. The retail trades executive committee and publicity and convention group will hold a joint session at 9:30 in the morning and the rural affairs committee will meet at 7:15 in the evening.

At the morning meeting the committees will decide on the location of billboards on the outskirts of the city for the Appleton Community Builders campaign. The locations will be recommended by a sub-committee of the retail trades group, headed by H. L. Post.

The rural affairs committee will meet to make final plans for the farm festival and dinner which will be held at the First Methodist church on Thursday evening, Nov. 17. Reservations for the dinner are coming in fast, the committees reported, and tickets will be sent to the farmers as soon as they are received from the printers. Farmers who desire to attend the meeting but have not received invitation cards have been requested to send their reservations to the chamber office as the card list does not include all who might desire to attend.

BAPTISTS WILL HEAR MISSIONARY ADDRESS

About five members of the local First Baptist church will go to Green Bay Tuesday evening to hear Miss McVeigh, a returned missionary, who will give an address at the Y. M. C. A. there. The missionary society of the local church will sponsor an address on Nov. 15 to be given by a missionary, Miss Isabelle Crawford.

BRITAIN FILMS BIRDS, SEEKING FLYING SECRET

Surbiton, Eng.—(AP)—The dragon fly and the humming bird in action have been filmed by the British government with the view of applying their hovering secrets to helicopter designs in the hands of the air ministry.

The dragon fly and the humming bird have perfected the system of pausing in the air, in search of food or otherwise, and the air ministry officials spent some months taking their pictures with an ultra-rapid camera.

These will be analyzed by means of slow motion pictures.

The humming bird is considered one of the miracles of nature. It remains perfectly stationary in the air without apparent effort whenever it chooses to do so.

The dragon fly has two pairs of wings, one behind the other, which work in the same plane. When the front pair is up the back pair is down. In this faculty it appears lies the secret of the insect's hovering powers, and with the wings in motion, slowed down several hundred times on the screen, aviation experts hope to make deductions which will aid man in finally conquering the air.

Fitting Problems Solved

After careful study, government experts have compiled a booklet called "Fitting Dresses and Blouses," which shows the home dressmaker in plain terms and precise illustrations how any garment may be made to fit right.

Few figures are exactly fitted by conventional patterns, but patterns may be corrected when you know how, and exact fitting accomplished. This new booklet is so useful for every woman that our Washington Information Bureau has arranged to get a copy for any reader.

USE 102,000 TONS LIME IN 31 COUNTIES IN CURRENT YEAR

WISCONSIN FARMERS BUY 3,371 TONS OF FERTILIZER IN '27

80 Per Cent of Farms Should Use More Phosphate. Expert Declares

Madison— —Farmers in 31 counties of the state used 95,600 tons of lime in 1926, and 102,000 tons in 1927. The same counties purchased 4,287 tons of commercial fertilizer in 1926, and 3,317 tons in 1927 an increase of about one-third, says Griffith Richards, soils specialist at the College of Agriculture.

Eighty per cent of Wisconsin farms could use more phosphate in their soils to good advantage, Mr. Richards says, which could be broadcast with small grains like oats, barley, wheat, or rye with which clover and alfalfa are seeded.

"Our farmers are having increased difficulty growing nitrogen-gathering crops," he says, "and a campaign is in progress to get them to use more lime and phosphate in fertilization work so that their soils will be in good condition for the growing of clover and alfalfa. Sandy soils also need potash and nitrogen."

Last year a special soils improvement campaign was begun in which all extension agencies, such as county agents, and farmers' institutes cooperated. The matter was presented at every farmers' meeting in the state, and an organization was formed known as the Wisconsin Soil Improvement association.

OFFER TO HELP FARMER

"This organization," says Mr. Richards, "offered to try to help farmers determine whether their soil needed lime or other fertilizers. We asked farmers to give us information that would enable us to know the condition of the soil, and to send us a sample of their soils, which were subjected to a chemical test, and a report sent back to the farmers with recommendations for proper fertilization."

During the past year 819 farmers took advantage of that soil-testing service, says Mr. Richards

Phospherous is one chemical element lacking in Wisconsin's soil, according to Mr. Richards, and the state raises a large amount of clover, alfalfa, wheat, oats, and barley, which take a gerat deal of phosphate from the soil.

According to estimates Mr. Richards has on hand, four tons of alfalfa "eat" 43 pounds of phosporic acid; two and one half tons of clover consume 20 pounds of the same chemical, 75 bushels of corn require 56 pounds, 60 bushels of oats eat 22 pounds, and 30 bushels of wheat consume 19 pounds of phospheric acid.

WAUPACA TO HAVE POULTRY EXHIBIT

New Organization Sponsors Four Day Show in Fancy and Utility Classes

Waupaca — Waupaca is to have a four day poultry show, beginning Nov. 23 and closing Nov. 26, at which breeders of fancy birds and growers of utility stock will have an opportunity to exhibit in their proper classes. Final plans for show were made at a meeting of the directors of Waupaca Poultry association Thursday night.

While there will be classes for show birds produced by fanciers, it is the aim of the Association to particularily stress usefullness of the fowl rather than merely show-pen merit. It is felt that such a show will be of more benefit and appeal to the poultry raisers in this vicinity.

The Waupaca Poultry association has just recently been reorganized. The following officers were elected: Samuel Taylor, president; Mrs. Bertha Parker, vice-president; George Meier, secretary and treasurer; Ernest Smith, Charles Lynch, Oscar Pryse, Norman Oyen, Mrs. Harry Peterson, and W. W. Wilcox, directors.

Interest in poultry is running high at Waupaca this fall. A free clinic conducted by an Illinois veternarian and under the auspices of Mr. High manager of the Wisconsin Hatchery, held at the Pontiac-Oakland salesrooms Friday night was well attended. Farmers brought in dead birds and post-mortems were ran to determine the nature of the diseases Preventive and curative measures were then explained.

FRUIT GROWERS MEET

The meeting of Waupaca fruit and melon growers which was to have been held Friday night for the purpose of organizing a spray ring, was postponed. Another meeting will be scheduled in the near future.

Agricultural exports from this country during the last year were the largest in five years. The Department of Agriculture bases this report on the gross exports of 44 of the most important farm products. Cotton, wheat, flour and dried fruits led in the exporting figures, while cattle and meat products were way down on the list.

Hearing At Capitol May Reduce Shipping Costs

Waupaca—Potato shippers of Wisconsin and other mid-western states will realize a saving of $5 per car on all potatoes shipped in refrigerator cars in the future and receive a refund of a like amount on each refrigerator car shipped during the past three years, if the case of the Wisconsin Potato Shippers association against the railways, which was presented before Commissioners Esch, Hall and Campbell of the Inter-state Commerce commission at Washington, D. C., Oct. 27, is decided in favor of the shippers, according to O. H. Brown, secretary of the association.

Mr. Brown, who has just returned from Washington where he appeared before the commissioners with his attorney, Harry C. Barnes of Chicago, a specialist in transportation cases, expects a decision in about a month. Mr. Brown declined to comment upon the chances of a favorable verdict but emphasized that he felt he had a sound case and should win.

The case, which has been in the limelight from time to time during the past three years, is of utmost importance, not only to Wisconsin shippers, but to the potato shippers of Minnesota, North Dakota, South Dakota, Upper Michigan, Iowa and a small portion of Illinois. The use of refrigerator cars in these states entails a rental charge of $5 in addition to the regular freight rate. It is claimed that this charge is discriminatory and therefore illegal since shippers in Lower Michigan, Maine, New York, Washington and certain other states do not pay rental for the use of the same equipment for the same purpose.

Mr. Brown, who has his headquarters at Waupaca, is well versed in railway rates and tariffs. Working in behalf of the Wisconsin Potato Shippers association he has secured a reduction in the rates for potatoes shipped from Wisconsin and destined to certain points in Alabama. For the past several years Minnesota has enjoyed a through rate of 75 cents per cwt to Birmingham and adjacent points in Alabama, while Wisconsin shippers had to pay 81 cents. Effective Nov. 15, 1927 on western trunk lines tariffs, through rates from Waupaca and all other Wisconsin shipping points will be 75 cents. This means a saving of $21.00 per car on all shipments destined to Birmingham and nearby points.

300 FARMERS ATTEND ANNUAL MEETING OF CHEESEMAKER GROUP

Green Bay Branch Hears Plea for Continued Cooperative Effort in State

BY W. F WINSEY
Special Farm Writer

Green Bay—Three hundred persons attended the sessions of the annual meeting of the Green Bay branch of the Wisconsin Cheese Producers' Federation in the courthouse Friday. One of the features of the program was the presentation of a portrait of Henry Krumrey and a picture of the tablet lately set up in Madison and in Plymouth in his memory to the local unit of the federation by Frank G. Swoboda, manager of the federation. The portrait and picture of the tablet are to be placed in the local warehouse where they may be seen by the beneficiaries of the cooperative system of marketing started by Mr. Krumrey in 1913. Other features of the program was a business session, and address. Cooperate or Quit, by James H. Vint, commissioner of the department of markets, a discussion led by William H. Hutter, and a talk by J. N. Kavanaugh, county agent.

Of Mr. Henry Krumrey, Mr. Swoboda said in his presentation speech: "He took the strenuous task of organization at an age when the average farmer lays down the arduous duties of his farm and retires to a life of lesser responsibilities.

"The years of hard wark and worry, of sacrifice and rebuffs from those who could not see and would not appreciate, prematurely sapped his strength and eventually snapped life's cord.

"Once having made the start, Henry Krumrey had the right, as have those who are carrying on the great cause which he started, to expect a larger and more determined support than he received. It hurt his sensitive nature to have some of the weak-kneed who started fall by the way, often with bitter criticism.

WORKED FOR UNITY

"It was Henry Krumrey's one ambition to gather the cheese producing farmers together into one large central organization, working for the good of all, but the majority of dairymen just would not.' "

At the business session each factory belonging to the Green Bay unit of the cheese federation was requested to send a delegate to the annual meeting of the federation at Marshfield on Feb. 8 and 9 to name a alternate. A large fraction of the 17 affiliated factories reported the names of delegates. A committee was appointed to plan the social activities of the year and to have charge of the annual picnic to be held at Oconto Falls next summer. The members of the committee are George Bierstecher, William Ammerman, B. J. Gallagher, Alvin Sorenson, Eugene Lamperuer. Fixing the date of the picnic is left to the committee. Mr. Sheldon read the annual report of the local warehouse which showed that the warehouse had handled 88 thousand boxes of cheese the past year, has 17 factory members and 600 patrons.

Beside answering all questions proposed, Mr. Hutter presented a strong argument in favor of the cooperative marketing of cheese by dairymen.

In his talk Mr. Vint said in part: "I am out looking over and being looked over. I am out trying to get all farmers in a frame of mind to do things necessary to help themselves.

"Farmers cannot succeed in a tightly organized world by working as individuals. Farmers are now endeavoring to go into business the same as the city business man is doing. No one has a greater right to handle his own products than has the farmer.'

"The farmer should receive for his products sufficient money to maintain his investments and to give him a fair return on his investment. The reason he has never received this is because he has tried to get along by himself.

"I am agreeably surprised the more I go into this thing to see the increasing number of successful cooperatives. These one-quarter and one-half cent differentials that some concerns are offering to make farmers dissatisfied really amount to nothing. They do not solve problems.

"The farmer is too much of an individualist. He works alone, reads alone, and thinks alone. Farmers need to get together often and talk things over as a group."

"We must realize that the competitors of our cooperatives are in the field for all they can get out of it. Their criticisms, their fault findings, their underhanded methods, are all a part of their game."

"A sad feature of competition as we find it, is the lowering of quality standards in order to get product. No long time success has ever been achieved through the lowering of quality standards."

ADOPT RESOLUTION

The following resolution was unanimously adopted by the meeting: "We the farmers of northeastern Wisconsin feel that the best interests of our most important industry, dairying are best conserved in a program of strict adherence to established standards of quality.

"Whereas there has developed within recent months the practice of removing butterfat from milk used in the manufacture of cheese and

"Whereas the practice threatens the reputation of Wisconsins' full cream cheese,

"Be it resolved that it is the sentiment of federation farmers in the Green Bay branch of the Wisconsin Cheese Producers' Federation territory in annual meeting assembled, that the welf [illegible] of the [illegible] industry [illegible] to establish [illegible] of milk and butterfat and [illegible] the most stringent [illegible] on the part of the [illegible] departments to which [illegible] enforcement has been delegated."

IRREGULAR PRICES ON FARM PRODUCE

Close Clearance for Butter Market; Cheese Trading Slow During Week

Madison—(AP)—Declining or irregular prices characaterized the butter, cheese, hogs and cattle markets of the week, it is revealed in the weekly review of the state department of markets.

The review said that butter was irregular, cheese trading slow, hog prices strengthened and cattle prices declined. The department of markets summary follows:

The nervousness which characterized the butter markets during the month of October continued to prevail during the past week. The market was irregular. There was a fair demand for fancy butter followed by close clearance. Medium scores and undergrades were freely offered without interesting buyers and showed some accumulation. Car market trading was dull. Butter prices are one-half cent higher than last year at this time.

Trading on the cheese markets was slow with most buyers purchasing for current needs. Weather conditions during the past week were reported as ideal. Mild temperatures prevailed and conditions were favorable to production. Receipts at Wisconsin warehouses the last three weeks exceeded the receipts of corresponding weeks in 1926. Government reports state that this trend will possibly be continued while favorable conditions exist but that it is doubtful if the total receipts for the year will equal those of 1926. Cheese prices are two and one-quarter cents higher than last year at this time.

A marked decrease in hog supplies strengthened the market and resulted in considerable prices advances. At the close of the week values on the better grade hogs were twenty-five to thirty-five cents higher than the previous week, pigs thirty-five to fifty cents higher and packing sows fifty to sixty-five cents higher. Prices are about $2.60 lower than last year at this time.

Short fed cattle declined fifty to seventy-five cents and the loss at the close of the week was from seventy-five cents to $1.50 from the season's high point. Other classes shared in the price declines. Cattle prices are about $3.50 higher than last year at this time.

Don't Raise Enough Horses To Fill County's Needs

Royalton—Fifteen or twenty years ago there was raised each year in Waupaca-co a large number of fine colts from some of the best specimens of horses, of both draft and fancy driving breeds. The average number would then reach about one colt to every fourth farm.

The number of colts raised in the county has decreased each year. It is probable that less than fifty colts were born in this county this year.

As a result of this condition over [illegible] per cent of the horses in this county are over 10 years of age.

[illegible] coming of the auto, tractor and [illegible] have greatly diminished the demand, yet there are not enough horses raised in the county to supply the need. This condition is prevalent throughout the state. Each year many carloads of horses are shipped in here from the western states and sold at public auction. One of the first carloads to come in this season was brought to Weyauwega from southern Illinois by [illegible] and sold there on Tuesday.

There were 20 head of Belgian and Percheron horses from four to [illegible] years old weighing [illegible] pounds. They went at reasonable prices.

Here And There Among The Farmers--

BY W. F. WINSEY

Irvin Peters, Greenville, had a field of sugar beets that yielded ten tons to the acre. The beets are of a very good quality and Mr. Peters claims that the tops are worth nearly as much as the beets as feed for his dairy cows. Several beet growers in Brown-co have made the same discovery and are feeding some of the tops from the field and preserving the rest in silos for winter use. Mr. Peters plowed 35 acres this fall.

According to the Schreiter Produce company, the harvesting of late cabbage in the town of Greenville is very nearly finished. This company shipped 40 cars of early cabbage from the Greenville station and has stored 700 tons of late cabbage in a warehouse. Sixty per cent of the late cabbage raised in the vicinity, however, has been stored by the growers on their farms. The price paid to growers on Wednesday was $9 a ton.

Six extra large cars of sugar beets have been shipped from the Greenville station this fall and there are still three cars to go out.

George Schmit, Albert Schmit and Jamison Brothers each consigned one or more animals to the purebred Guernsey sale held, Wednesday at Waukesha. The animals were trucked from Greenville to the sale pavilion. Albert Schmit recently shipped two purebred Guernsey heifers to B. F. Wilson, Clarksburg, W. Va.

Victor Leppla, town of Greenville, recently bought a purbred Guernsey, herd sire of the Herrick Merrymon Sales company, Timonium, Md.

The Greenville Equity Shipping association shipped a mixed car of livestock from the Greenville station to the Milwaukee market early last week.

Fred Bentle, town of Greenville, has lately completed a modern chicken house equipped with the latest ventilating, lighting and feeding systems.

Fred Meyer, town of Greenville, has lately completed a new barn and chicken coop on his farm. In both buildings, Mr. Meyer has installed modern equipments.

The Borden Company of Greenville, is installing a newly invented milk can washer in the local plant. It weighs three and one-half tons, dumps the milk from the cans automatically, washes the cans, saves the work of six men and does a better job than can be done by hand. It is said that the new machine was invented by Mr. Mitten, superintendent of the New London plant, and that it was maufactured in that plant. This kind of machine has already been set up in eight of the thirty-two plants of the Borden company and it will be installed in the balanco as rapidly as possible.

The Wide Awake 4-H club of district No. 7, Greenville, held its regular meeting and hard times, Halloween party, in the school building Saturday evening. During the business meeting the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: Carlton Schulz, president; Vera Schroeder, vice president: Evelyn Reinke, secretary and treasurer; Belle Reinke, historian; Pearl Schultz, news reporter, and Donald Menning, doorkeeper.

John L. Miller, route 2, Appleton, raised four acres of sugar beets this season which yielded 53 tons of clean beets. He is now plowing seven acres which he intends to plant with the samo kind of crop next spring.

Henry Lehl, route 8, Neenah, got a yield of 26 tons of sugar beets from two acres this fall. He intends to plant 20 acres of beets next spring. He worked the beets with his own help this season and intends to do the same thing with the increased acreage next summer.

Fred Diehl, route 2, Appleton, got a yield of 28 tons of sugar beets from two acres this fall.

LOTS OF POTATOES

A. C. Ramseyer of Wayne county, Ohio, reports a yield of 606 bushels and 15 pounds of potatoes from one of his 150 acres in potatoes. On one 50-acre field he has an average of 350 bushels an acre.

ORGANIZE SPRAY RINGS AT FARM HOME MEETINGS

Kewaunee—A spray ring group was organized, Wednesday night, at a meeting held in the residence of Joseph Lichterman. Henry Steinbout was elected president; Bennie Lichterman, vice president, Otto Adams, secretary and treasurer, and Joseph Lichterman as spray operator. The organization is to be known as the Kewaunee Cooperative Spray Ring.

On Thursday night at the residence of Gustave Schmidt's the Lake Shore Cooperative Spray Ring was organized and the following named officers were elected: Frank Nemitz, president; James Murphy, vice president; Edward Frank, secretary and treasurer, and G. E. Schmist, spray operator.

HOLD EIGHT PRUNING MEETS IN KEWAUNEE-CO

Kewaunee—Eight pruning demonstrations were conducted by H. R. Lathrope, county agent, the past week with the assistance of Conrad Kuehner, pruning specialist, horticultural department, college of agriculture. These demonstrations were attended by 250 fruit growers of the county and were held on the farms of Joseph Lichterman, Gustave Schmidt, Joseph Bouril, Bennie Salentine, John Blahnik, Joseph Wochas, Mrs. E. Rye and Anton Fencil.
